

ONTARIO SWIM DRAWS WORLD'S FINEST TALENT

Eleven Countries Will Be Represented in $50,000 Race Next Wednesday.

400 LIKELY TO START

Course 21 Miles in Length in Full View All Way - Many Women to Try for Prize.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 29.—Unfuffled by rips and cross-currents but icy-cold, the waters of Lake Ontario will hold the greatest international field in swimming history to the start of the 21-mile marathon of the Canadian national exhibition grounds Aug. 31.

Conceived primarily as a tribute to George Young, native son, who swam to fame in the $25,000 Catalina channel grand last winter, the race offers a reward of $50,000 to the winner with an added $5,000 if a woman streaks first across the finish line.

About 400 overhand pluggers, including every distance champion of note, with the exception of Gertrude Ederle, will line up with the 18-year-old Toronto boy for the first of three laps over the triangular seven-mile course.

Entry List Notable Two conquerors of the English channel—Ernst Vierkötter of Germany and Georges Michel of France—are in the list of entries from England, Denmark, Germany, France, Belgium, China, Greenland, Holland, Hawaii, Canada and the United States.

Honolulu has two representatives in Duke Mills and Nawahin, both natives. F. Kalm, registered from Detroit, is an Eskimo originally from Greenland.

DOGIES OF FAMOUS SONG IN ACTION AT ROUND-UP

"Go high, yuh little dogies" is a line from a famous old cowboy song. At the Pendleton Round-Up which begins September 14, they go as high as any cowboy could wish. Here's one doing it.

PENDELTON, Ore., Aug. 29.—"Ki-yi, yuh little dogies, go high, yuh little dogies!"

Time was when cowboys sang the foregoing chanty to the herds of Texas cattle being trailed "up north" into Oregon, over the old and famous Chisholm Trail.

The Chisholm Trail is grown high with tall grasses in most of the places where it hasn't been plowed under to make wheat fields.

But the "little dogies" or at least their descendants are still being ki-yed at, and most emphatically, they are still going high at the Pendleton Round-Up. They'll go higher than usual when the show opens this year on September 14, and ambitious cowboys try to ride 'em.

No silver trimmed saddle goes to the winner of the steer riding contest, in fact it isn't a contest but simply an entertainment. But say, Mister! What an entertainment. Like a Babe Ruth homerun bringing the roaring thousands to their feet, the sight of a loco steer, his tail high in the air like an angry cat, twisting, sunflashing, and rivaling the contortions of a Hindu juggler or a Black Bottom dancer in his furious efforts to dislodge his rider, makes the forty odd thousand Round-Up fans delirious with excitement. They beg for more. And they get more too—just plenty enough more.

Farstadt is the Norwegian champion. Women to Compete With the single exception of Miss Ederle, almost every woman who has achieved fame in long distance swimming will face the starter's gun at 9 a. m. Lotte May Schoenmell, originator of the grease bathing suit, Charabelle Harritt, New York schoolmistress, who nearly conquered the English channel, and Miss Ethel Hertle will represent the Metropolitan sector. Jane Slon, Belgium champion; Mrs. Della Sullivan of Holyoke, Mass.; Lee Fourrier of Long Beach, Cal., and Mrs. Dorothy Hepworth of Montreal are other leading entries.

Blind Youth Favorite Two "long shots" who will have the favor of the spectators, if not the experts, are Michael Hambourg, blind Toronto youth, and George Cummings, of Sudbury, Ont., lost both legs in an accident some years ago. Hambourg will be guided by an electric bell, ringing constantly, and attached to his pilot boat. The youngest entries are Arthur Compton, 14, of Long Beach, Cal., and Rosaire Delorme, 15-year-old Montreal boy.

Four favorites loom in the field. They are George Young, whose powerful crawl and stamina conquered the stormy stretch of the San Pedro channel when 100 other starters failed; Norman Ross, of Chicago, who has relinquished all claim to amateur standing in order to compete; Ernest Vierkötter, and Edward F. Keating, New York public school swimming instructor.

Keating, a life guard at Sheepshead Bay in the summer months, won the $10,000 Yale George marathon in July, finishing alone in a field of 140. Never changing his steady over hand beat, Keating pulled through the 24 miles of ebb currents against a choppy sea in 18 hours, 47 minutes and 18 seconds.

For the first time in aquatic history, a marathon swim will be within sight of the spectators on shore at all times, while a hook-up of 53 broadcasting stations will carry a detailed story of the event through the air.

UTAH RAM SALE DRAWS HEAVY ATTENDANCE

(Associated Press Leased Wire) SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 29.—Prospective buyers from Canada and Russian and practically all of the western states were in Salt Lake today for the twelfth annual ram sale. The sale will continue through Wednesday.

Not for several years has there been such a high class aggregation of purebreds entered and the prelate interest of buyers for the past two days has been such that it is predicted that the sale will go down as a record one in the history of the event.
