AMOUNT OF TAX REDUCTION NOT YET SUGGESTED

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Based on conditions income tax collections are expected by President Coolidge to be as high as last year when a record $699,999,000 treasury surplus was accumulated, but he as yet is withholding his opinion on the total amount of prospective tax reduction possible.

The president also believes that the failure of the Geneva naval limitation conference will have little effect on the prospective action in the drafting of a naval cruiser program by congress. Furthermore, he feels that the American Legion's proposal for a unified department of national defense is unfeasible because of opposition to it in the army and navy and in congress.

Rowing Coach

Al Ulbricksen, one of the country's greatest strokes, succeeds "Rusty" Callow as rowing coach at the University of Washington. Ulbricksen was born and reared at Seattle.

Despite the large income tax returns, Mr. Coolidge has been stressing it in his discussions of tax revision to members of congress that the collection of non-recurring items by the treasury has aided materially in producing a large surplus last year but that these items cannot be counted upon in the future. Administration leaders previously have asserted that they had made a preliminary estimate of a tax slash of $300,000,000.

Even if the Geneva armament pact had been consummated, it was pointed out at the White House the United States would still be faced with the necessity of building up a cruiser fleet and the president expects work to proceed on the cruiser program at the new session.

The Mississippi river flood control program, Mr. Coolidge intends to leave in the hands of the river flood commission and committees of the devastated states. These agencies are preparing a report which is expected to be completed November 15, and the president will permit them to go straight to congress with their views for legislation.

DEMPSEY SAYS HE CAN STILL BEAT TUNNEY

that he has not and does not intend to be a "squawker."

"Get me right," he told one newspaper man. "I'm not complaining about the fact that Tunney out-pointed me, or that I didn't make as good a showing as my friends thought I would."

Dempsey's own version of the seventh round at Soldier Field appeared in today's Chicago Tribune in these words: "When Tunney fell, I did go into a corner. Not a human being in Soldier Field had even a faint suspicion that I would hit Tunney when he was down. No one in that crowd had any idea I would hit him as he was rising. I repeat that I did go into a corner. I was behind Tunney, as the pictures will show. In spite of these things, the referee made me go into still another corner.

"All this took time. Seconds were taken. Those seconds used up in making me perform useless acts, gave Tunney time to recover. That cost me a championship and I think I have a right to protest."

Decision Will Stand.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The decision giving Gene Tunney the victory over Jack Dempsey stands and the state athletic commission "will not consider a reversal" John C. Righelmer, chairman of the commission, declared in a statement today. Mr. Righelmer's statement apparently closed the door to any further possibility of action on a protest by Leo P. Flynn, Dempsey's manager. The commission made it clear that it would give either Flynn or Dempsey a hearing at any time on any score but it was equally clear that the boxing authorities had no idea of reversing the verdict, given in the ring at Soldier Field Thursday night.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Moving picture films of the Dempsey-Tunney fight seized last night as they were being loaded into an airplane were ordered impounded with the clerk of the United States district court today by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Deputy United States marshals who claimed the films were to be taken to Ohio, Michigan and other states in violation of federal laws seized the pictures as Henry Samsel, president of the Godard Film company which made the pictures was placing them aboard an airplane. Samsel claimed that he was taking the film to Canada and Judge Wilkerson granted his attorney leave to file an immediate petition for return of the films and promised a speedy hearing.

Samsel said the government agents seized the film from a statement specifying that they were being taken to Canada and not to any other states.

Edward J. Hess, assistant United States district attorney, said that films could not be taken to Canada without violating the law because they would be transported through or over several states.

FAKE PROFESSOR IS SHOT IN BACK

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Pursued through crowded Dearborn street after an attempt to cash an alleged forged check at the First National Bank, a man posing as Rudolph Altrochi, former assistant professor at the University of Chicago, but believed a masquerader, was shot in the back and seriously wounded by a bank policeman today while pedestrians ran for cover.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 24.—Professor Rudolph Altrochi is now at Brown University where he is to begin his first year here as an assistant professor of Italian.

orado, Arizona, Wyoming and Utah.

The tariff resolution which was adopted without discussion or dissenting vote pledged the organization to "support policies and candidates best calculated to promote equal and exact justice to all and special privileges to none."

Continuing the resolution said: "If a tariff is an economic necessity then the advantages should be equalized and made of uniform benefit as far as possible to all sections of the country. The traditional republican tariff is a manufacturers' tariff, framed upon the theory that the manufacturers must have free raw materials such as we produce in the west, and highly protective schedules for manufactured products. When the republicans placed a tariff on our western products, they not only gave to the manufacturer in addition to his regular and very high tariff a compensatory tariff to offset the tariff on raw materials, thereby pulling the wool over the eyes of the western producer of raw materials and at the same time satisfying the manufacturer, but in addition there to so framed the tariff on western products as to afford a large hole through which the manufacturer could import competitive commodities by paying only a fraction of the nominal tariff."

EUGENE TAX LEVY MUST BE TESTED

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

SALEM, Ore., Sept. 24.—Because they are of doubtful legality, Attorney General Van Winkle advises that two special tax levies voted by the people of Eugene last June be tested out in the courts. Van Winkle so advises in a letter to the state tax commission, which has an inquiry from Ben F. Keeney, Lane county assessor.

One of the levies authorized is an amount not to exceed one mill to pay for electric lighting in the city. The other is a levy not to exceed three-tenths of a mill for public play and recreation grounds.

The attorney general points out that while the ballot titles for the measures stated that the levies would be in addition to 6 per cent tax limitation of the state constitution, neither the measures themselves nor the titles to the acts made by this provision, therefore such provision did not become a part of the city charter.

"If it had been a part of said measures," says Van Winkle, "it would not have been effective to accomplish the purpose of authorizing the levies provided for in such measures to be made in addition to the amount limited by the 6 per cent limitation of the constitution."

The assertion is explained, after the citation of a supreme court opinion to the effect that in the Eugene case the question of exceeding the 6 per cent limitation was not directly presented to the people, nor was it separately stated from the question of the adoption of the charter amendments.

The attorney general concludes that the special Eugene taxes must be levied, and will be valid if the total amount of all levies does not exceed the 6 per cent limitation.

"But," he adds, "if the total amount of all taxes exceeds the 6 per cent limitation, then it is at least quite probable that the court will hold such excess to be invalid, and the assessor in such case would not be authorized to extend such excess on the tax roll."

Assessor Keeney's objection that the taxes are specified in mills rather than dollars and cents, the attorney general thinks can be gotten around in the actual levy, by making them according to law in dollars and cents.
