CLUB work is supplying most in the way of interest these days, the formation of programs being unusually early this year. The Roseburg Woman's Club will have the largest opening event of the year the coming week when open house will be held on Tuesday afternoon by way of opening the new club building on Jackson street. A meeting of the club is to precede the affair and from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock the women of the city will call to inspect the new quarters. Delphian Club, too, is starting soon with the year's activities. Social clubs are a little slower in starting this season, although a few have announced programs.

Another large affair which will bring a great deal of interest socially to the new week will be the card party sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America on Wednesday evening at the Parish Hall.

This week has been rather a broken one, with the horse show and various fair events at Salem drawing a crowd of Roseburg people to the northern city. Horses from the leading Portland stables were one of the features on Tuesday night. A game of musical chairs offered much entertainment during the program on that night also. Sixteen members of the Portland stunt club participated in a grind, showing splendid horsemanship, which added color to the program on that evening.

Mrs. W. R. Willis Honored at Dinner Party Thursday

Mrs. G. R. Child, charming San Francisco matron who has been a visitor in the city through the summer and early fall and who left Thursday for Turner to visit prior to her return to the bay city, presided over a beautifully appointed dinner party she gave at the Umpqua Hotel on Thursday evening in compliment to Mrs. W. R. Willis.

For the affair, which was inspired by the lifelong friendship of the hostess and Mrs. Willis, one of Roseburg's best known women whose active interest in club work and ability as a social leader has been linked with entertainments of note in the city for many years, were bidden intimate friends of the honor guest.

At the dinner table were seated Mrs. Willis, Mrs. B. Casey, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sawyers, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Kidder, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Wharton, Miss Elizabeth Parrott, Miss Gertrude Rast, Gene Parrott, Stanley Rast, Kidder, Master Bobbie Kidder, Master Jack Kidder and the hostess.

Woman's Club to Hold Open House on Tuesday

A particularly interesting social event and quite the largest of the week ahead will be the opening of the new club building of the Roseburg Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon when the members will hold open house.

The club for several years has been sponsoring charities, card parties and teas among other affairs to raise funds for a new club house and this year completed the quota for the building, the club purchasing the former Wm. Bell home on South Jackson street. The home, large and attractive in itself, has been made additionally so with new curtains, drapes and furniture. The blue tones are carried out in the rooms over the entire building, rugs and drapes blending in color. The kitchen of the club house is quaintly furnished in green and has been equipped to provide for any large entertainment the club may sponsor. The club has purchased a fine new piano for the house and will use it in entertainments and social events.

Promptly at 2 o'clock Tuesday the members of the club will meet at the new building for a short business session. After 2:30 o'clock the guests will be received by the officers and board of directors of the club, all ladies of Roseburg and vicinity being invited to call from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock.

W. E. Ott has loaned an Orthophonic victrola to furnish the music and during the afternoon the club members will escort the guests through the rooms, showing the entire house and interesting them in club work.

It is the plan of the club to open a service shop on the second floor of the building. Second hand clothing will be sold each Saturday by the club there, the proceeds to go to the club funds.

The programs for this season will be arranged separately for each meeting of the club instead of the plan followed last year, when the programs were prepared with the year book, which is at present being printed and will be distributed at the business meeting of the club on Tuesday.

During the afternoon the members of the club will serve refreshments to the callers.

The officers are president, Mrs. Wm. Bell; first vice-president, Mrs. A. G. McMillin; second vice-president, Mrs. Carl B. Neal; recording secretary, Mrs. H. D. Harris; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Albert Minturn; treasurer, Mrs. H. D. Morgan. The directors for the year are Mrs. W. S. Jost, Mrs. L. B. Skinner, Mrs. Dean Bubar, Mrs. Foster Butner and Mrs. C. S. Heinline.

P. T. A. Starts Year's Work

The opening of the Smith School on Monday was the signal for the beginning of the P. T. A. meetings of that district which took place in the evening. The members assembled to work out a program for the year and enjoyed a program in which teachers and pupils participated. Mrs. Mary Gervais is the teacher in charge of the school. Following the evening program the group enjoyed prune, apple and candy confections.

That the Murray-Warner museum and library of Oriental art, housed in the Woman's building on the University of Oregon campus, is again open for the winter, is of interest to folk who visit the university town regularly and have not as yet viewed the exhibits. One special exhibition each month of the prints and Oriental subjects, selected from the large number not displayed regularly on account of the space limit in the building, is planned and at one of the exhibitions during the season.

Delphian Club Will Start Meetings

Delphian Club will start its winter activities with a group meeting next Tuesday morning, when the members will assemble at the home of Mrs. Carl B. Neal at 118 South Kane street. The regular order of business will take up the morning and the group will plan for the winter work.

Reverse Order

Falling in line with the new evening modes of extremely low-back necklines, a diamante and white gold necklace is worn with its sparkling tassel ornament in the rear.

Former Roseburg Maid Is Wed at Home Ceremony

Interesting news to her friends in this city is the wedding of Miss Jean Vance Perry, a former Roseburg maid, to Howard Henry Metcalf, the ceremony being an event of September 20 in Klamath Falls. The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Perry of Klamath Falls and the niece of Miss Mattie Perry of Roseburg, attended school here and has a wide circle of friends in the city. Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf stopped here Wednesday en route home and visited the latter's aunt. The following, from the Klamath Falls Herald, tells of the ceremony:

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at high noon on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Perry, 712 North Third street, when their only daughter, Miss Jean Vance Perry, became the bride of Mr. Howard Henry Metcalf, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Metcalf of Linwood, California, Rev. D. V. Haight performing the ceremony.

Miss Elanor Torrey and Kenneth Perry, brother of the bride, were the attendants.

The bride, one of the well known members of the social set, was attired in a charming gown of copper leaf satin with accessories to match. Her bridal corsage was of orchids, lilies of the valley and Cecil Brunner rosebuds.

Miss Torrey wore a frock of wood shade velvet. Her corsage was of Ophelia rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Metcalf attended the University of Oregon and is a member of Delta Zeta sorority. She attended the national gathering of her sisters, which was held in San Francisco two years ago. Mr. Metcalf attended the University of Idaho and is one of the active young business men of this city.

The Perry home was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns. Gracefully placed vases of tall, stately chrysanthemums in the autumnal shades made a beautiful background. The vows were spoken in front of an altar formed of palms and ferns.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at Linkhaven. Here too, the autumnal shades were used in decoration. A petite bride and bridegroom centered the wedding cake, which was banked on each side with early autmn flowers. Cathedral tapers in a beautiful silver candelabrum added to the decoration.

After an extended honeymoon in the north, Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf will be at home in Klamath Falls in early October.

Matron Honor Guest at Evening Affair

Honoring Mrs. Lena S. McElhiney, who with her grandaughter, Miss Jean McElhiney, left today on an extended trip east, a group of her friends surprised her with a social party on Thursday, assembling at her home on North Jackson street.

During the evening the group chatted and enjoyed music and afterward refreshments were served, covers being placed for Mrs. McElhiney, Mrs. A. J. Geddes, Mrs. C. W. Tipton, Mrs. Madie Jackson, Mrs. Louis Kohlhagen, Mrs. Wayne E. Jones, Mrs. Lymon Spencer, Miss Josephine McElhiney and Miss Jean McElhiney.

Supper and Reception Honors Teachers of City Schools

One of the largest social affairs of special interest during the week was the supper sponsored by the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church for the teachers and officials of the city schools, the event taking place Thursday evening at the church parlors.

Over two hundred were present during the evening. The church parlors were brightened with profusions of autumn flowers, which were also used at the long tables in decoration.

After the supper an informal reception was held and a program, in charge of Mrs. H. C. Parslow, was given.

Included were two vocal solos by Elsie Carleton Strang, accompanied by Frances Lintott; address of welcome to the teachers by Rev. R. W. Achor; response by Leroy Hiatt; two vocal duets without accompaniment by Elsie Carleton Strang and Frances Lintott. The guests joined in a musical game afterward.

Badoura Club to Entertain Eugene Group

The entertainment of the Eugene Club in the near future is the foremost activity toward which members of Badoura Club, Daughters of the Nile, are now directing their attention. At the meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. F. Chase on South Stephens street plans for this social event were furthered by the members of the club.

During the evening the group chatted informally and at the close were served refreshments by the hostess.

Group Select Officers for Year

At a meeting of the Intermediate Endeavor Society of the Christian church at the church parlors on Tursday evening the group elected new officers for the year, those to serve being Troas Church, president; George Stanton, vice-president; Rose Morey, secretary; Owen Walker, treasurer; Neva Agee, chorister; Mrs. Royd Bruton, pianist; Claude Paterson, sergeant-at-arms.

After the discussion of business the members enjoyed a social hour, playing games and joining in musical selections. Afterward refreshments were served to about twenty. Miss Elsie Hudson and Mrs. Charles V. Stanton are superintendents of the society.

The Seas Divide Us

Tho' seas divide us.
The heart can be seen,
Tho' we are far, far awa'
There is nothing can hide the heart that is clean,
As a frien', Maggie, on you, I say.
There's my heart, there's my hand,
Take you over the sea.
That this far distant land
You always will love in my memorie
And your heart I understand.

Another week comes on apace.
The Radio Clubs are meeting
And products from the cooking school
The populace are eating.

A contract for a new foot-bridge
Is let to local builders.
The deer-slayers who broke the law
Paid near a thousand guilders.

The Boy Scouts are all out with pep.
The football squad will rally.
The program at the Salem fair
Called many from the valley.

Our former sheriff takes command
At the State Soldiers' Home.
And his successor, Percy Webb,
Must after bandits roam.

A mammoth tusk dug from our hills
Is borne to O. A. C.
From Fisher's store a pack of goods
Is sent to far Korea.

The writing average in our schools
Is highest in the state.
And since the stores are lit at night
We window-shop quite late.

The Hi-Jinks at the Senior High
Called forth a merry crowd.
The airplanes passing south came low
With motors droning loud.

A meeting's called for Tuesday to Discuss a "King's Highway"
And all are happenings up to date
October first—today.

Early Week Wedding of Interest in Social Circles

Of social interest in circles in the city was the wedding of Miss Marie Hennessey, daughter of Daniel F. Hennessey, and Edward G. Kohlhagen, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kohlhagen of North Jackson street, the ceremony, which was an event of last Sunday at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hruby, in Eugene, being a surprise to their friends in Roseburg.

Both the bride and bridegroom are well known among the younger married set, the former having made her home in Roseburg several years ago while attending high school. She is a graduate of the University of Iowa and has been instructor of French and English in the high school at Dows, Iowa. Mr. Kohlhagen, who is a member of a family prominent in business and social circles, is a graduate of Roseburg high school and attended O. A. C. Mr. and Mrs. Kohlhagen are making their home at 304 Kohlhagen apartments.

Mrs. G. R. Child, whose visit during the summer and early fall has been socially of interest to many in the city, where she made her home for a short period several years ago, left Friday for Turner to visit with cousins prior to her return to San Francisco. Mrs. Child formered a number of close friendships in the city years ago when she resided here. At that time she founded the '95 Mental Culture Club, which is now the Roseburg Woman's Club and in a great measure aided in the foundation, development and early work of the club. During her stay in Roseburg Mrs. Child the past few months renewed friendships of long standing. She has been entertained at several attractive affairs during the season and herself has been hostess for a number of her friends while here.

PARIS DOTES ON FRINGE AND CONTRASTS IN COLOR

Two Features, Germaine Writes, of Latest Distinctive Frocks

White evening gown with sapphire-trimmed bodice, the skirt shading from a sapphire to white.

Paris, Sept. 30.

My dear Cousin:

So you are going to buy a fur coat! I do wish you could have seen the perfectly adorable model Lanvin is showing of white shaved lamb with a regular Lord Byron collar trimmed with bands of gray gazelle, and cuffs and pockets of the gray fur.

It absolutely has a little string tie of fur if you can imagine anything more delightful. And the line is so youthful, close at the shoulder with a gradual flare so it is quite wide at the hemline.

For sport wear coats here are very plain and slim, with small tailored collars, belts and patch pockets. Quite often they are kasha lined. In furs, goat stands right at the top, with pony, antelope, calfskin and all the furs that never before had much standing, following closely.

They're Not Bulky.

One reason for the popularity of these furs is that they are not thick and bulky, and of course not nearly so warm as the heavier pelts, and they take the narrow slender lines we all want now.

For general wear caracul, Persian lamb, krimmer and such furs are much exploited in gray and tan as well as black. Naturally nutria, seal, beaver, and mink are reaching a high state of development. Collars seem less expansive to me than usual, and the shawl line with the deep V opening is much in evidence.

Everywhere I notice the tendency to bring back more important and more distinctive looking clothes. Two of the most festive gowns I've seen were made for Florenz Tamara, who is a favorite dancer in the Folles Bergere, by Paul Poiret who is usually a season at least ahead of anyone else in his ideas, and who has no aversion to dramatic and exotic effects.

These frocks—I'm sending you pictures of them—emphasize the use of fringe and color contrast. The white evening gown has a bodice trimmed with sapphires and a band of sapphire velvet filling in the low cut neckline and forming sleeve caps. That fringed skirt shades from sapphire to white.

Even more unusual is the evening ensemble which has a slightly Russian flavor. The cape is of black silk net with designs woven in it of gold and silver threads forming scallops upon a deep border of black satin.

The frock has an upper section of black satin with rhinestones forming the collar, the front edging and the girdle which turns into an apron and adds a little fringe for good measure. The skirt and the sleeves are of white crepe de chine, the sleeves being the new harlequin effect very wide at the wrist.

The Cover the Knee.

You will notice that the knee is not featured in either frock, Poiret having lowered his hemline this season by several inches. The effect of the lacey, transparent cape with this very unusual gown is most unusual. It could not be worn by every type of woman, but of course it would probably not appeal to the baby doll type.

Paquin is showing some delightful clothes in red and henna shades. One evening frock is made of pink chiffon with ruffles and pointed girdle of deep red chiffon. He also has a lovely wool frock of deep red kasha with a scalloped hem and a side drape that is worn under a coat of the same shade with a high, standing collar of black astrakhan.

Little Straight Blouses.

I love the little straight blouses of gold or silver cloth that are worn with the wool and velvet suits. I like too beige or gray kasha heavily embroidered in dull metal threads, combined with plain kasha. The dotted velvets are going to be overdone, I fear, but I do love the way Chanel uses black velvet with white dots and then poises lovely scarlet flowers on the shoulder.

Let me know about your coat—I'm dying to know what you got. And don't forget those pictures of your house.

Devotedly,
GERMAINE.

Evening ensemble of Russian flavor; black silk net cape with black satin and white crepe de chine frock.
