ROSEBURG, GREGON, TUESDAY, OCT. 4, 1927.	1417

Roseburg has before its people a plan to create sufficient interest in highway development in this county to bring about the completion of the North Umpqua highway to Crater and Diamond lakes, and it is a worth while undertaking—a project that should command the attention of all our people. In private and public affairs it is always a good idea to have something to look forward to in the future-something that will occupy our minds and take us away from petty and trivial affairs that are not of a substantial nature and to a degree retard the growth of the city and county when our time and energy could be spent in a more constructive way. There is no one outstanding accomplishment at this time that stands to bring this section a higher state of development than the completion of the roadway to Oregon's two national resorts—Crater and Diamond lakes. It will provide one of the most scenic highways in the entire state, giving access to delightful recreation grounds and opening a country that abounds in all kinds of wild game and the finest fishing. Thousands of people will be brought to this section and much wealth distributed throughout the county by motorists and others. Douglas county could by nother means advertise its resources to greater advantage than by constructing this highway, the greater part of which will make the route complete in every way and command nation-wide attention. It is certainly a worth while project and tonight's public meeting at the Antilers theatre ought to be the most enthulsatic ever held in Roschurg. It means a lot for the entire county and with encerted effort on the part of our people there is no question about the success of this very important undertaking.

Once in a blue moon, stamp blazes out with a broadside at waste, politics, inefficiency and other faults, and it proves to be manna for the taxpayers to eat. The admiral wrote an article for the Saturday Evening Post, entitled "The Navy and Economy" To charges that the saturday Evening Post, entitled "The Navy and Economy" To charges that the charges that the navy is greatly over-organized; that demobilization after the war never was consummated; that wasteful methods still hang over as a relig of wartime administration; that several of the navy yards and stations are Certain of Magruder's superiors are all for drawing and quartering the gentleman. But for the tix spayers—this sky like finding a vast reservoir of feecedle monade in the heart of Death Valley. It is a glorious opportunity to find out who's who and what's what.

The public often is inclined to cheer when a "price war" starts in any industry—but the general result is that the office of the public more than makes up for its temporary saving by higher prices later, remarks an exchange. There's an example in Spokane. That city is in a dairy country. It had a "milk war" a few months ago; prices wont so low that should supply, there's a shortage. Spokane is shipping about 500 gallons of milk fron Yakima every day. Who won it must pay heavily unfil the doiry industry is rebuilt around the city. A price war is, as they say in England. COUNTY EXHIBITS GIVEN EIGHT FIRST PRIZES AT FAIR

Displays to Be Shown at Pacific International Fair in Portland, Says Mr. Garrett.

Eight first prizes were won Eight first prizes were won by Douglas county in exhibits at the state fair this year, reported C. O. Garrett, who for several years has handled the display from the county and who was a visitor here this merning on his way home to Glendale. Mr. Garrett remained over in Salem Monday making final disposition of the county exhibits. "People were very much entinised over the fair this year?" he stated, "and we look to duplicate the prizes on the exhibits at the Pacific International fair to he held in Portland October 29 to November 5, inclusive."

COMMENT

For the Parent's Purse
A subscriber asks us why it is necessary to keep changing public school text-books in Orezon and force parents to purchase new ones so often, when the old ones would answer, for in many cases the differences are inconsequential, and in some instances the discarded text is superior to the new. The reason for constant text-book change is one of the involuble mysteries of the school mechine which has managed to quadruple school costs in the past 25 operars, without materi. By improsing the output. The frequent changes work a real hardship upon poor families and those of modest means, and benefit no one but the book publishers.

A comparison of text books of today with those of three and four decades ago show no great improvement, indeed, if we judge by results, the school books of a bycentale, grounded pupils more thoroughly in essentials and books were passed along from eldest to youngest, and then to the riching generation. Grounded pupils more thoroughly in essentials and books were passed along from eldest to youngest, and then to the riching generation. Grounded pupils more thoroughly in essentials and books were passed along from eldest to youngest, and then to the riching generation.

If changing school books improved the schools, frequent changes might be justified, but the changes are merely to carry out some theorist's idean and later for another, until finsily the circle is completed and started mow from the same old points.

For many decades McGuffey's readers were the standards in oer schools and those who studied their carefully graded and selected miscellauty were better grounded in English Hierature than any of the generations since whose reading caste.
