Each year the popularity of All Thawana live season seems to increase perhaps because the period carries with it the revival of so many delightful customs which have never been appropriate for entertainment. The past fortnight there have been numerous Home-own get-togethers in which society circles have found pleasure and the end of the month brings several more of an informal nature to interest different groups.

With November in the offing thoughts turn to Thanksgiving and on the horizon is appearing the holiday season, always the gayest days of the winter. Already plans have been announced by various groups for the holiday events. Among the foremost will be the Thanks-giving dinner given by the Roseburg Country Club early in the month. Other organizations, too, have announced plans for late fall events and listed among these are several bazaars which are annuality of note.

One of the largest affairs planned for the weekend was the entertainment for the state officers of the Daughters of the Empire and the members of the Eugene Club, the event being sponsored Friday by Madona Club. A luncheon at the Unipia hotel was followed by a tea and program during the afternoon in the Eke building.

At least two events are drawing a number of Roseburg people away from the city this week-end. Alumni of D. A. C. began heading to Corvallis mid-week to be present for the annual Homecoming programs at the campus. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Helliwell and Miss Foyce Reynolds went to the college Friday afternoon. Mrs. Helliwell and Miss Reynolds will be guests at the Gamma Phi Beta sorority house during their stay and Mr. Helliwell will stay at the Delta Kappa fraternity house.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice S. Newland and Mrs. H. E. Church, who are also alumni of the college drove to Corvallis today. Mr. Newland is a Theta Delta Nu and Mrs. Newland is a member of Chi Omega sorority. Mrs. Church will be a guest of sorority sisters at the 44 Theta Phi house. Adalbert Young, a member of Sigma Chi, left Thursday and Harold Walsh went and Roland Schwartz left Friday afternoon to be guests at the Theta Mu Phi house.

Attention is being attracted to Portland by the Pacific International Livestock Exposition, which opened today and will continue until November 5. Those who are in the metropolis for the week will undoubtedly attend the horse show, which annually has become a more important and popular feature in connection with the exposition.

Mrs. Ruth Bogard has returned to Roseburg from Seattle, where she has been spending the past two months visiting with relatives and friends. While away she renewed acquaintance with several whom she met while abroad last year and was the inspiration of affairs given by a group of their friends.

Rev. and Mrs. Mow Leaving Coming Week

Friends are regretting the departure of Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Mow for California, where they intend to make their home in the future. Rev. Mow has been pastor of the Christian church in Roseburg for the past three years and he and Mrs. Mow have gained many friends in the city during that time.

Rev. Mow has accepted the pastorate of the Christian church in Santa Cruz and will conduct his last services in the church here on Sunday as he and Mrs. Mow will leave for the south on Tuesday. During the past fortnight there have been affairs in their honor organized by friends and members of the church to bid the couple adieu and several forty gifts have been presented them.

Prominent Matron Returns This Week From Extended Tour

Mrs. S. M. Kelley returned to Roseburg on Tuesday from Hot Springs, Arkansas, where she attended the association of Rebekah Assembly, International, following which she has been on an extended tour. Mrs. Kelley has traveled in practically every state in the union during the past two years and this fall visited in various eastern cities.

She started on her journey on September 11, leaving via Portland and Spokane, where she was met by Mrs. Rose McCroskey, past president of the A. R. A. of Walla Walla. They traveled eastward together and their first stop was made at Omaha, Nebraska, where they were invited guests at a luncheon given by the Chamber of Commerce and were also the guests of the head officers of the Ladies Auxiliary of the W. O. W. On this same evening Mrs. Emma Tallant, state secretary of the Rebekah Assembly of Nebraska, had Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. McCroskey as her guests at a newly opened theatre, which had just recently been completed.

After the sessions were completed Mrs. Kelley traveled to Wichita, Kansas, where for a week she was the house guest of Mrs. Bertha Willis, vice-president of the A. R. A. International. While in that city she attended the Queen City Rebekah Lodge and one evening during her stay Mr. and Mrs. White entertained her at their home, making us guests the degree staff of the Queen City Lodge, which put on the degree work at the session, and the noble and vice grand officers of the lodge.

Following a brief visit at El Paso, Oklahoma, Mrs. Kelley traveled to Los Angeles, where she visited a number of former Roseburg folk, among them Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bellows, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Winberry, the latter entertaining her at their home for several days. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Kelley attended the California State Encampment and Lady Miltants, which was in session in Pasadena. There also she attended a special session of the California State Rebekah Association.

Mid-week those attending the encampment were taken on a scenic drive through the famous Basin and Sierras, about fifty cars of the vistors enjoying the motor trip. In the afternoon the guests witnessed the competitive drills of the Canton Drill Staff of California, a splendid event of the meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Winberry and their daughter, Miss Florence Winberry, and Mrs. Kelley motored to Pasadena for the evening and visited with Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Lawrence and daughter, Miss Olive Lawrence, and Miss Faye Geddes, all until recently residents of this city.

At the end of the week Mrs. Kelley went to Stockton, where she lived with her nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. George Russell Wishart, and with Miss Edith Wishart, her niece. After a few days there Mrs. Kelley went to Livermore for a week to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Lillian Brown, while in that city attending the lodge. Although she has been in all but one state in the union, she has enjoyed a very delightful trip. Mrs. Kelley stated on her return this week that she is most glad to be home again and would choose no other place to live but in Douglas county.

Abbott.

Mrs. George A. Bradburn is in charge of the refreshments.

Among the most attractive new homes in the city is that of Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Walcott located on Overlook Avenue. The home has just been completed and Dr. and Mrs. Walcott moved this week.

FOR UTILITY--THE "LITTLE DRESS"

Fits Into Informal or Formal Groups With Ease

BY HENRI BENDEL For NEA Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—In a season of formality and specialization in styles, when opulence and novelty are at a premium, there is one type of frock that is dear to the heart of the woman who values good grooming.

It is the "little dress," as Paris calls it. Designed primarily as an informal evening gown, this dress appears simple but achieves it through complicated construction. Drapes, tiers, panels, boleros and other chic personal touches are all subordinated to simplicity.

Nothing "Tricky" About Them

No exaggerated trains, flares, ornate trimmings or unique decorative mark these gowns.

The "little dress" is the easily wearable, always charming dress that can slip into a formal or an informal group with the same social ease. It has authority without being bizarre. Moreover, it is the pet of the flapper, the woman of middle years and her more mature sisters.

I show today three versions of the "little dress." The white velvet frock I designed as the fourth evening gown in the wardrobe of a debutante. Of the new velvet transparent velvet, it emphasizes the slender silhouette but has ample fullness by flared inserts.

Uneven Hemline's Soft Effect

No ornate trimming complicates this dress. It has gold bowknots in gold bugles scattered gracefully from the shoulder, diagonally across the gown to the hipline where the flares emerge. An uneven hemline softens the lines of

Its Simplicity Is Achieved by Complicated Structure

Black Most Popular

Black, however, is the most popular color for the "little dress." For black, whether it be face, satin, chiffon or velvet, has the desirable quality of tirelessness. Moreover nothing is smarter than black. And last, and most important, a black dress offers opportunity for variation in the kind of jewels, accessories and color touches one uses.

The third "little dress" shown today illustrates the most popular combination of materials this season, velvet and chiffon. Its color is the soft cafe-au-lait that positively reigns as a favorite.

This frock has been one of my most popular importations this fall. It features the new armor bodice, an elongated bodice that takes its cut from the days of the Crusaders when armor was worn by all the best-dressed men.

Velvet Bodice, Flare, Chiffon

The bodice is of velvet, formed of two circular pieces, and the yoke and circular flare of chiffon carry out the rounded cut of it.

The yoke and flares are of chiffon, in matching shade and make the whole effect lighter and more graceful. The only ornament is a soft, silken flower of deeper tones of tan which is caught just below the left hip, at the peak of the flare's point.

Supper Party Enjoyed by Lodge

Following the business session of the local chapter of the Roseburg W. O. W., A. C. Marsters invited the union to her home on Kane street. The meeting was a well attended and interesting one, with a brief program following the opening by Mrs. C. D. Busenbark and the devotionals led by Mrs. Helen R. Ferguson.

Fred A. Goff was toastmaster and short talks and stories were told by Mrs. S. M. Kelley, who attended the national Rebekah assembly, V. T. Jackson, who attended grand lodge of I. O. O. F., Mrs. O. H. Pickens, Mrs. Maude Plyler, Mrs. Frank B. Matthews, Mrs. J. G. Stephenson, Mrs. W. W. Abneratt and Mrs. D. H. Morgan.

Miss Quine Hostess for Group at Supper

Miss Evelyn Quine was hostess to a group of friends at a Sunday evening supper on October 23 at the Geo. K. Quine home at 443 Pitzer street. In decorations in the parlors and at the charmingly appointed tables the Hallowe'en motif prevailed. Seated at the tables were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Helliwell, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Throner, Mr. and Mrs. Bert G. Bates, Mr. and Mrs. George Bradburn, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice S. Newland, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lockwood, Miss Alice, Miss Bernice Reynolds, Miss Vera McMillin, Elwood Strader, Richard Coen and the hostess.

Assisting were Mrs. Throner, Mrs. Lockwood and Miss Rice.

Later in the evening the group joined by Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Burrier, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Catching, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Quine and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Quine and an informal time was enjoyed, the crystal gazer being present to entertain the guests and a circle was held.

Group Has Delightful Hallowe'en Supper

A most delightful affair of October 21 was the supper party given at the church rectory of the Baptist church by the young married peoples class.

Decorations in Hallowe'en motif transformed the rooms and corresponded in detail with the table decorations. Covers were placed for thirty. The men were presented with bouquets and the women members had corsages of dainty autumn flowers as favors. At a brief business session discussion of the work of the organization and election of officers was held. Dr. Frank B. Matthews gave an interesting talk preceding the supper and afterward games and contests formed a part of the evening's entertainment.

Thanksgiving Dinner Planned for Next Month

Plans for the Country Club Hallowe'en frolic and dance on October 28 were recalled early in the week on account of the death of R. H. Singleton, prominent member of the club.

The committee in charge of the affair will make arrangements for the next event of the club, which is to be a Thanksgiving dancing party to be held early in the month of November at the club house. The committee will meet the coming week to set a definite date for the dance and will formulate plans for the features of the evening.

Arthur Johnson Concert to Open Musical Season Here

Formality is one of the most marked characteristics of Arthur Johnson, tenor, who will appear in Roseburg, on Friday, November 4, under the direction of Elsie Carlstrom Strang and Frances Lintott. Not only is he a singer of marvelous voice and excellent ability, but he is also a writer, particularly in musical subjects, whose work is beginning to appear in the magazines. He is also known as a lecturer and has given lecture recitals in various places.

The Bellingham Herald particularly commended Mr. Johnson's singing of "Crickling songs of vigorous life in the open." The artist comes by this ability in an entirely legitimate manner, for upon completing his college education, he hid himself to the woods and became a logger. For those who are familiar with logging terms, the enumeration of the various jobs that he filled will show that he did not have a "white-collar job" but was actually a logger. These jobs were: checker-setter, ax-man, survey crew, marker and finally scaler.

He has appeared throughout the Pacific Northwest in concert, and his press notices were in show of that he has achieved a really phenomenal success. One critic declared that he possesses "a voice which though trained to technical precision has lost none of its natural sweetness and simplicity, and a personality which enlists the sympathy of his audiences," while another declared, "his freedom from mannerisms, his straightforward technique and originality of interpretations are embellishments to a voice of great beauty. His art is (Continued on page 3.)"

L. F. T. Club Dance

Event of Early Week

Thirty of the L. F. T. dancing club members participated in a delightful dancing party early in the week at the Knights of Pythias Hall, which was transformed for the occasion with Hallowe'en decorations.

Favor dances varied the dance program and at the supper hour the group went to the dining room, which also was decorated in keeping with the season with autumn foliage and flowers. Mrs. E. R. Thurber and Mrs. Story Bos assisted in the room.

The club held the annual election of officers, who this year are: M. Harris, president, and Chas. W. Wharton, secretary. The next event of the club will be the "Thanksgiving" dance to be given the latter part of November.

Dinner Party Honors Visitor

J. L. Gilkeson was host for a formal pre-Thanksgiving dinner on Thursday evening, members of his family being the only invited guests for the affair which honored Clarence Gilkeson, who has been a visitor here from the south. Covers were laid for Clarence Gilkeson, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gilkeson, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Randolph, the Misses Vivian Gilkeson and Marie Gilkeson and Betty Gilkeson, Barbara Randolph and Jean Gilkeson.

The honoree left Friday for San Diego, where he is stationed as a destroyer, U. S. S. Finch, on which he has the rank of second class ensign, and will be present for the Navy Day exercises there. He formerly made his home in Roseburg.
