How's She Hittin'

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service
The car's headlights may have little or nothing to do with how she's hitting, but they are important factors in assuring comfort and safety for the passengers.

RUBBER BOOMERANG HITS ENGLAND

Exclusive Market that Snapped at American Buyers in 1923 Strikes Back at British Producers

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Early in 1923, it was America. Now it is England that has become alarmed about rubber.

This map shows the important rubber fields of the world, with England and Holland controlling the Orient, while Ford and Firestone in Liberia offer threats to their markets. Insets show Henry Ford, at right, and Harvey S. Firestone.

The United States is the world's greatest consumer of crude rubber. The bulk of the rubber comes from Malaysia, Ceylon and the Dutch East Indies.

production, 516,200; average price, 63 1/2 cents.
1926—Consumption, 545,000 tons; production, 617,500; average price, 50 cents.

the plan proposed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover whereby America used a great deal of worked-over rubber.

price is only 33 1/2 cents. There are two main reasons for this: First—Smuggling about 24,000 tons annually.

There is a fad in some parts of the country for the blue, or "daylight" type of headlight bulbs. They are bought in the belief that they give more light and at the same time do not hurt the eyes of approaching drivers.

Both ideas are mistaken. The blue bulb has been found to give no more light than the clear bulb and yet use much more current from the battery.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The southward trek is beginning, and the way of those passing through Washington can be glorified and varied by a pleasant detour down the "eastern shore."

Preserved in many of its aspects, Past the state capitol at Dover and on to historic Georgetown and the road goes, until it crosses Maryland not far from the Atlantic shore. Another way is by the right road from Dover to the mill town of Salisbury, where innumerable crates are made to handle the large supply of fruit grown in this territory.
