The only drawback this year is that the warm weather has caused the feathers to keep on growing and it will be a job to divest the birds of pinfeathers before they are placed on the market.—Portland Journal.

BEAVER SHORTSTOP MARRIES GIRL AND CHARGES ARE DROPPED

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 15.—Chalmers W. Cissell, shortstop recently bought by the Chicago American league baseball club for $123,000, was married today to Miss Bernice Ryner of Valley Junction.

Their marriage is expected to end a charge of seduction filed against Cissell by Miss Ryner before he returned to his home in St. Louis after playing baseball with the Portland, Oregon team of the Pacific coast club.

"I always wanted to get married," Cissell said as he purchased a wedding ring and obtained a marriage license.

GRUDGE BATTLES ON THE GRIDIRON

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Four traditional football games, as near to grudge battles as Western Conference gridiron engagements ever get, close the Big Ten pigskin season this week.

In all four games there are special reasons for the interest of the players to the limit of human strength. In two of them the hopes of a conference title rest upon the outcome though to Michigan and Minnesota the honors depend upon the defeat of the hitherto invincible Illinois eleven at Columbia.

Back in 1921, Ohio State was in the same situation Illinois enjoys today, almost in each of the Big Ten championships, and confronting an Illinois team which had been trampled on considerably. The Illinois Buckeyes' hopes, 7 to 0, and now it is Ohio's turn to take a whack at the title hopes of Coach Zuppke's warriors.

The "little brown jug" which once held water for battered ball carriers and now holds the hopes of both Michigan and Minnesota, has had no Minnesota victory painted on its sides since 1919. The Gophers had triumph in their hands last fall but it slipped thru their fingers when Benny Oosterbaan scooped up a fumble and raced for a touchdown, after which Captain Benny Friedman kicked goal for the winning point. Both Purdue and Indiana have their greatest teams in many years, but Purdue seems to have a bit the edge.

Northwestern, co-champions with Michigan last year, has seen its best backfield hopes shot down one by one and no one capable of filling the vacant shoes. Iowa's confident squad, on the upgrade at last with a victory over Wisconsin—after ten straight defeats, will be hard for Northwestern to stop.

TROJANS PREPARE FOR W. S. C. CONTEST

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15.—Washington State College, not Notre Dame, seems to be the direct objective of the University of Southern California football team in its practice plans for this week. The Trojans play the Washington State here Saturday in a Pacific Coast Conference game and leave the following Tuesday for Chicago where they tackle Notre Dame November 26.

Coach Howard Jones remembers a rainy November afternoon two years ago when the Washington Cougars, with their present leader, "Butch" Meeker, came to the coliseum and clawed and scratched out a 17 to 12 victory from an over-confident U. S. C. team. Although but two days of drill will be left before the Trojans leave next week, the Cardinal and Gold coach will take no chances with these invaders and no time or preparation for the contest with Notre Dame.

RUSSIANS SEND EXPEDITION TO "LOST WORLD"
(Associated Press Leased Wire)
LENINGRAD, Russia, Nov. 15.—"The lost world," in the Yangtze district near the eastern borders of Tibet, is to be explored by the Leningrad Geographical society. It is preparing to send out an expedition under the direction of M. Kozloff, a well-known scientist and explorer. Nothing is known to science of the vegetation and fauna of this vast territory, which covers hundreds of square miles.

The scientists of western Europe are said to believe in the existence there of forests of the richest varieties, with trees of enormous dimensions, ferns as large as oaks and druid trees which would provide food for hundreds of thousands of humans.

The animals of this unexplored region also are strangers to zoologists.

Regarding his plans M. Kozloff says, "The sources of the Yangtze-Kiang have attracted much attention for years among scientists everywhere, as the country has never been explored thoroughly. The expedition's task will be to investigate the upper tributaries of the river, the source of which is outside China and lies on the Tibetan plateau near the Kuen Lun Chain, which likewise remains uninvestigated. The expedition will have to carry out its work under most trying conditions, sometimes in mountain passes 16,500 feet high. These passes have always been a source of danger to explorers, not so much on account of their steep and craggy nature and cold winds as because of the rarified air."

Failure to pay his fine of $50 today resulted in Jess Miller being served.

BOY TRAMP DIES IN AUTO WRECK
SALEM, Ore., Nov. 15.—An unidentified boy about 16, believed to live in or near Everett, was killed when the automobile in which he was riding struck a telephone pole near Sublimity Monday night. His companion R. A. L. P. Houseman, 18, is in Stayton and is lending assistance to efforts to establish the identity of the dead lad.

According to Houseman, who lives near Everett, he and the other boy were beating their way north and were picked up by a "some man" in an automobile near Seattle. The name of the owner of the automobile was not learned by Houseman.

A mile this side of Sublimity there is a sharp turn at the foot of a steep grade and the driver failed to negotiate the turn. The owner of the car disappeared after the accident.

BRITONS DENOUNCE YANKEE APPLE PIE
(Associated Press Leased Wire)
LONDON, Nov. 15.—Apple pie is now blamed for American prosperity.

"American pie breeds dyspepsia, dyspepsia breeds restlessness, and restlessness begets a feverish but none the less formidable material progress," declares The London Evening News in lamenting displacement of the good old English apple tart by foreign substitutes.

"The American apple pie is the sheer gastronomic equivalent of an incendiary bomb."

In its plea for the protection of the revered British apple tart, The News pleads: "Let us have no truck with any restaurateur or maitre d'hotel who offers us stewed apples and mass-produced pastry in that sacred name."

British authorities are much at variance in the description of the real apple tart. Some say it is a small open-faced bit of crust with stewed fruit in it. Others describe it as stewed fruit baked in a pan with a crust over the top of it, and still others say it is stewed fruit baked with pastry over and under it.

But whichever it is, Americans in England remain loyal to the old apple pie of their homeland and are even more emphatic in the denunciation of British tart than Britons are in their slanders upon American pie.

Of course real American apple pies are seldom produced in London, partly because the proper sort of pectin can seldom be bought in the shops. British pastry is never shortened to the taste of Americans, and in England the apples are cooked before they are laid in the crust. So Americans insist that most Britishers have never tasted a real Yankee apple pie, and consequently have no right to pass judgment.
