A Trillion In Gold.
When Ford Advertises.
One Pint, Life.
Comes Monkhtar Bey.

By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright 1927 by Star Company)
Interest on "time money," with which Wall Street gentlemen speculate, dropped from 4 1/2 to 4 per cent yesterday and stocks went gaily upward.

If John Bracken, Prime Minister of Manitoba, is right, the northern part of his country contains treasure that would shake finance the world over, make our national gold supply a pitiful joke and disrupt the world's credit if it could be produced suddenly.

According to Mr. Bracker, the Flin Flon mining region in Northern Manitoba contains 80,000,000 tons of copper, as much zinc, 32,000,000 TONS OF GOLD and 16,000,000 tons of silver. The gold alone would be worth more than a trillion dollars, and "trillion" is a word that even Wall Street hasn't dealt with yet, although it will come.

When Henry Ford builds automobiles, he builds automobiles. When he advertises, he advertises. Publishers are interested in advertising that starts the new Ford car on its way, five full pages on five successive days, in 2,000 DAILY NEWSPAPERS.

Henry Ford understands advertising. First, he spends time, money, effort and thought, producing what the people want, then lets the people know he HAS IT.

Mr. Ford starts his new task as enthusiastically as he began more than twenty-five years ago, and every word he says, every detail about his new car, is important news to 115,000,000 people.

The good thing about the new Ford car is it will not disturb any other efficient automobile manufacturer or organization. Ford will continue inducing people to drive automobiles, encouraging good roads, and his work will increase the sale, as it always has done, of bigger, more expensive cars.

Those that buy stocks evidently think Henry Ford has a good new car. His United States stock is not for sale, he owns it all, but stock in his company in Canada went $105 a share in two days, passing $700 a share. Last May, Henry Ford advised a few of his friends to buy it around $300 a share. It was good advice.

Michigan has a criminal case that ought to satisfy the most ardent prohibitionist. Fred Palm, convicted of possessing a pint of gin, his fourth conviction, is sentenced for that crime to life imprisonment, according to Michigan law.

It seems a long time for one pint of gin, especially when you consider that truckloads of it are driven up and down the country by bootleggers that are "in right."

Monkhtar Bey, ambassador from Turkey, comes ashore, and police guard him, fearing an Armenian attack. Armenians say Monkhtar killed 30,000 Armenians during the war. He says he did not.

In any case, Armenians should settle any political quarrels away from American soil.

TWO PARALYSIS CASES FOUND WITHIN COUNTY

One Reported in Roseburg and the Other Is in Oakland.

CLOSE ALL THEATRES

All Public Meetings Are Forbidden and Persons Under 21 Put in Isolation.

QUARANTINE RULES
Theatres and churches closed and all public meetings prohibited, affecting lodges, dances, clubs, etc.
All persons under the age of 21 years, regardless of occupation, confined to own homes and forbidden to leave own premises.
Strict quarantine of all cases and contacts.
All Roseburg, Oakland and Winston schools closed.

With the discovery of one case of infantile paralysis in Roseburg and another case at Oakland immediate steps looking to the control of the disease within the county are being taken today. The case in Roseburg is in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forrier on West First street, where Mrs. Forrier's son Tom Hartfield, a student at the Senior high school and a member of the football team is ill. He is suffering a mild form of the disease his right leg being partially paralyzed. He is not thought to be in a serious condition and the paralysis is not expected to be permanent. He is under the care of Dr. B. R. Shoemaker, who reported the case.

At Oakland Mark Hanna, age 6 years, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hanna, is the victim. He has been sick since Monday and has been under observation. Paralysis did not develop, however, until yesterday, when a positive diagnosis became possible, the partial paralysis being located in the right arm.

Quarantine Imposed
Dr. T. W. Laraway, county health officer was immediately called and imposed a rigid quarantine. The sick child and the family were placed in absolute isolation for a period of two weeks and the schools were ordered closed for two weeks. If there are no further cases the schools will be reopened after two weeks. All persons under the age of 21 years were ordered to remain strictly at their homes and will not be allowed on the streets, in stores or at any public gatherings. These regulations will apply for only two weeks unless there is a spread of the disease.

The Roseburg case was not definitely reported until yesterday afternoon so that no action was possible until last night. A meeting of the Douglas County Medical Society was immediately called with all of the physicians of the county present, and a very thorough discussion was had. It was decided that an immediate isolation should be declared within the city and all persons under the age of 21 years required to remain strictly at home. While it was realized that this action will work a hardship on many, yet it was shown that in every community where the disease has become prevalent that a quarantine has become necessary. In many places the restrictions were not imposed until after the disease had gained considerable headway, making the quarantine last longer than might otherwise have been necessary. The physicians felt that as isolation appears to be the only effective method of control that it would be better to impose the regulations immediately and endeavor to confine the disease to the one case.

There is a possibility that by means of an effective and immediate quarantine, it was stated, the disease can be confined entirely to the one case or to this case and the contacts already developed, if any. With this in mind the physicians believed that the best policy would be to impose the isolation restrictions at once in the hope that the disease can be stamped out and brought under control within a short space of time instead of having to continue the quarantine for a long period as might be necessary at a later date.

Recommendations Adopted
After considering the situation from every angle the physicians decided that they should recommend the policy of complete isolation and also adopted a set of recommendations advising parents regarding control methods in the

To Patrons of The News-Review

The sudden quarantine imposed by the county health authorities has worked complete disruption in the carrier system of the Roseburg News-Review. The carriers who have been delivering the papers each night are all affected by this protective measure and so the News-Review is without its usual organization for paper deliveries. In this emergency the patience and cooperation of all subscribers is asked until better conditions can be restored. The News-Review will make every possible effort to supply its customers without a break in the service, but it will probably be impossible to completely meet the situation without some delivery failures. If subscribers who are missed will call at the News-Review office they will be supplied with the copy they desire. Patrons may rest assured that everything possible will be done to get the papers to them regularly but in cases of misses or errors the News-Review asks that its subscribers cooperate and help until a new organization can be built up and trained.

THANK YOU.

OUTBURSTS OF REMUS RELATED TO THE JURY

Uncontrollable Temper Caused Him to Go Into a Terrible Frenzy.

WAS JEALOUS OF WIFE

Raved for 10 or 15 Minutes After Being Told That Wife Was Enjoying Liquor Party.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Dec. 1.—Further testimony detailing outbursts of George Remus which he declared led him to the belief that the former bootleg chief was insane, was related today by John T. Rogers, a reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, in Remus' trial for the murder of his wife, Imogene.

Rogers was called for re-direct examination today at the opening of court.

"During the Jack Daniels trial at Indianapolis when Remus was being held as a witness, Connors and I were with him one night in December when John S. Berger of Los Angeles came into the room and said, 'George, your wife and Dodge are now down on the fourth floor having a high ball party,'" said Rogers. "Remus leaped from his chair as if he had been shot, shrieked and dashed for the door."

"Remus raved for ten or fifteen minutes. He upbraided us in a high falsetto voice for permitting him to go and defend his honor. "He talked wildly, struck at us, and then calmed down and became tranquil and apologetic. Then he had a bad attack of nervous prostration."

Rogers related that George Connors, a Remus associate, thrust Berger from the room. Rogers said that in the effort to control Remus he fell down.

"It is that the same Berger who shot that time attempted to blackmail Mrs. Remus in St. Louis," asked Prosecutor Taft upon cross-examination. An objection prevented an answer.

"It is that the same Berger who went to St. Louis and tried to blackmail Mrs. Remus give him $25,000 or $26,000 at Remus' request," rephrased Taft.

SOVIET PLAN TO END WAR BRINGS OUT CRITICISM

London Press Angered at Radical Plan for Russia for Disarming.

STUPID INTRIGUE

Calls Move "Theatrical Buffonery"—Sharp Criticism Results from Proposal.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The Russian proposal at Geneva for the complete abolition of armament aroused anger and contempt in the London press today.

Papers of all shades of political coloring damned the Soviet scheme with vituperative adjectives. It was declared, among other things, "a cynical joke," "a grotesque mockery," "stupid intrigue," "clumsy farce," "and impudent buffonade," and "theatrical ruffonery, put forward with the tongue in the cheek."

Some of the sharpest criticism appeared in the editorial columns of Liberal organs, which sometimes themselves incur derision for their alleged weak pacifism.

It was contended that the Soviet scheme was put forward with the obvious idea of placing the other governments in a false position.

The Russians it was urged, could have felt little uneasiness in submitting a program of self-armament which they knew they would not be called upon to make, but which they hoped would show the world how wicked "capitalistic nations" are and how good and peace-loving are the Soviets.

The labor and socialist press seen in the Soviet plan a challenge to the other powers to reveal to what extent they are in earnest when they talk disarmament and declares that the reply of the powers will disclose their real intentions.

Head Still Buzzing
GENEVA, Dec. 1.—The newly appointed security committee of the preparatory disarmament commission, declared today that the Soviet proposal of yesterday for the complete abolition of armaments, began its labor today.

The Russian proposals, the relations between France and Italy with regard to the Balkans and the Polish-Lithuanian controversy, although not specifically before the security committee, all presented problems prominent in the minds of the delegates.

One feature of today's session was an ironical attack on M. Politis of Greece, and other speakers by Lord Cusheaden, the British delegate, for seeking to revive the old Geneva protocol which Britain rejected recently as impractical and over-idealistic.

"Certain things have been definitely judged and it seems useless to reopen the question of how far objectives to the Geneva protocol correspond to reality," he said.

At the same time Lord Cusheaden stated that Great Britain was ready by every possible way in its power to encourage and assist the promotion of disarmament, but insisted that the security committee should get down to clear cut propositions.

Maxim Litvinoff, head of the Soviet delegation who threw yesterday's "peace bomb" into the conference, addressed himself busily today to matters which came up before the security committee whose mission is to see how far international security can be pushed in order that the nations may be induced to consent to a reduction in their armaments. He attended the session as an observer, since Soviet Russia, as did the United States, declined to take an active part in the committee's labor.

He smiled slightly on several occasions when he saw a number of the delegates busily studying the official Soviet "annex" distributed today.

HOW TO FEED HUBBY ON 51 CENTS PER DAY

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—The University of Chicago will show wives tomorrow how to feed a husband on 51 cents a day.

It will show, according to announcement, how smart wives by careful buying in large quantities may effect a saving of as much as $273 a year without the husbands even noticing the difference.

Two daily menus which supply a 150-pound man with his 3,000 calories at widely different costs will be explained. Besides the 51 cent menu, there will be one of $1.26 for food of approximately the same nutritive value.

ELIMINATION OF 300 RADIO STATIONS PLAN

Wholesale Reduction Is Aim of Federal Radio Commission.

WILL AID THE PUBLIC

Better Reception Will Result From Drastic Action—Licenses to Be Revoked.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Elimination of possibly 300 of the present 694 broadcasting stations operating in the United States during the coming year has been decided upon by the federal radio commission.

Commissioner S. M. Pickard, speaking for his associates on the commission, declared today that the wholesale reduction in the operating broadcasting stations had been decided upon as the only means of enabling full public utilization of radio possibilities.

Members of the radio commission, he said, had fully realized the necessity of such an action, but had deemed it necessary to delay the application of the federal authority to the end desired until the law creating the body had been tested and until they had been able to make full observation of conditions in the radio field. He added that there had been sufficient court action upon the law's provisions to insure the commission's authority, while the commission's action in the radio field had demonstrated the necessity of the step.

Explaining the method of eliminating stations that the commission intended to adopt, Mr. Pickard said that all outstanding broadcasting licenses expiring December 31 would be continued to February 1. Thereafter the commission would consider elimination recommendations from its radio inspectors in the field.

In determining which stations may survive, the commission expects to use the standards set up by the radio law and to grant licenses to those enterprises which it considers to be most needed by public convenience, interest and necessity. A secondary consideration will be the priority of its station in its field. In this connection it was pointed out that about 250 new operating stations have been new service since 1926 while the others were in the field before that date.

PROMINENT MAN DIES

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 1.—J. R. Godden, 77, one of the best known men of the Mt. Hood district, was found dead Wednesday at his home. He was born in Armath, Ireland, in 1853. Godden became superintendent of an Indian school at Yakima, Wash., and later held similar positions at Pendleton and Warm Springs, Oregon. For nine years he served as Polk county school superintendent.

WINS SHEEP PRIZE
CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—David J. Kirby, of McMinville, Ore., today was awarded a string of prizes in the breeding sheep division of the International Livestock Exposition. He took a number of second, third and fourth prizes for Cotswold lambs and rams.

OLD MAN WINTER UNLOADS SNOW THROUGHOUT EAST

Severe Storms Reported in New York, Penn., and Maryland.

MERCURY SLUMPING

Seven Inches of Snow in Many Sections and Floods Damage Many Cities.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 1.—Snow stretched from the Rocky mountains to the upper Mississippi valley states today to support winter's threatened invasion of the east.

Originating in the Canadian Rockies over the week-end, the storm swept through Montana and Wyoming to close mountain passes in Colorado and then turned eastward to blanket the middle-west and southwest with one to nearly five inches of snow.

Moving along a six state front yesterday, snow hurried from the Canadian line to the Texas panhandle sent thermometers to sub-zero marks in the Dakotas and Minnesota. The mercury slumped to the upper twenties in the southwest to nip flowers enticed from winter beds by temperatures well above 70.

While seven inches of snow fell in the northwest, central Missouri points led the southwest with four and a half inches, the heaviest snowfall in that section since 1926.

Snow changed to sleet as the storm crossed the Mississippi in the advance on the Atlantic seaboard where storm warnings were broadcast.

Little damage to transportation or communication lines was reported in the west.

Weather forecasts generally predicted continued cold tonight throughout the storm area.

Floods in New York.
JORNELL, N. Y., Dec. 1.—The waters of the worst flood in the history of this city, receding after causing damage that will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars today left more than 300 families homeless in their homes. Public utility facilities were crippled and railway roadbeds and highways were washed out or inundated. No lives were lost.

The temperature dropped today and a light snow began to fall.

The Canasto valley has been inundated for miles and fears are felt for the lives of many people in that section.

Hornell is on the extreme western part of the state, and has a population of 16,000.

Dikes constructed under the city's $450,000 flood abatement program gave way, letting the flood waters of the Canasto river into the city.

East Is Storm-Swept.
NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Storm swept districts of New York state, Pennsylvania and Maryland in cold weather today took stock of the damage of high winds, rains and floods. After a warm ending to November, December 1 started cold throughout the eastern states.

Wind and rain storms of almost hurricane force swept Williamsport, Penn., and Cumberland, Md., late yesterday. No lives were lost so far as was known.

BEACH CONFESSED KILLING DOCTOR SAYS A WITNESS

Courtroom tense as Baltimore lawyer and showman tells of conversation with the accused poultryman --- Mrs. Lilliendahl rigid as testimony is given.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
MAYS LANDING, Dec. 1.—Samuel Bark, Baltimore lawyer and showman, testified today that Willis Beach confessed to him the killing of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl.

He testified to talking with Beach in Baltimore last September.

"I told him I saw by the papers he was wanted and he said not very bad," he testified. He and a man named Thompson asked me for $600, but I said I was no bank. They said they wanted the money to take some jewelry out of bank in Philadelphia.

Thompson told Beach it looked like he was in an awful fix and Beach said he could bet it.

Then I asked him just how he got in this fix and Beach said he'd got in a racket with the old man and shot him.

"Who did he mean by the old man?"
"Dr. Lilliendahl. We were talking about the murder. Beach told me he had been having some trouble about money or dope or something."

Beach said that Beach told him the killing was staged at the isolated spot off the Atison Road, "because we had to fix it for a getaway."

"Beach told me he met the old man, shot him in the head and ran back to his car. When he got there he said he should, 'yoo-hoo' to Mrs. Lilliendahl to let her know he was safely away and then she spread the alarm."

Under cross-examination Bark classed himself as a "trick roper" in traveling shows.

Robert McCarter, counsel for Mrs. Lilliendahl asked Bark if he could write and then had him describe his signature which was marked for identification.

Bark said he had known Beach for about a year, having been introduced in Philadelphia by Clyde Thompson, the mutual friend who was present at the alleged confession.

Beach sat calmly at ease in his chair while Bark related the encounter in Baltimore. Mrs. Lilliendahl, her back turned to the spectators, remained rigid.

J. Sherwood Thompson, brother of the widow, made hasty notes, while next to him little Alfred Lilliendahl worked industriously on his latest drawing of a house in the woods. Back in the spectators' seats, Mrs. Amanda Beach, wife of Mrs. Lilliendahl's co-defendant, craned her neck anxiously for a few moments, staring at the witness. Then she resumed her old posture of bent head and closed eyes and seemed to pray to head the accusation of the state's star witness against her husband.

Bark said he had been told by Thompson in September that Beach was going to Baltimore to see him. The day of the meeting was Saturday, October 3, he said. Bark testified that when told Beach was coming to see him he knew all about the Lilliendahl case and Beach's connection with it.

"What was the first thing Beach said?" McCarter asked.

"He said he was in a tight fix and had to have some money. Thompson said he had none and they turned to me."

"I asked what security, and Beach said jewelry. I said I had all the jewels I needed. Finally I lent Thompson $25 and he gave it to Beach."

"Then it was that the murder came up and Beach said he could beat the case. Thompson said it was a hard case to beat."

"Then we asked how it all happened and Beach said when he came to the place where the Lilliendahl were the old man raised his head and began to raise hell. Then Beach said he shot him and escaped."

"He said the trouble began over money he had lent Dr. Lilliendahl and also that the doctor had ordered him out of the house once."

PLEADS GUILTY TO NON-SUPPORT

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 1.—Although he stoutly denied before the Marion county circuit court that he had failed to support his abandoned wife and minor child in Kings county, New York, John Murtaugh pleaded guilty when his case was called for trial in New York, says information received at the office of Attorney General Van Winkle.

Murtaugh's habeas corpus trial here, brought to combat extradition, was a local sensation for several days.

TWO BOYS HELD FOR STEALING CAR

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 1.—Two boys, William Magill, 18, and David Cameron, 18, are in the Marion county jail here for the theft of an automobile from Portland. They were apprehended Wednesday at Jefferson.

OUR WEATHER MAN
THE SUN'S STILL SHINING.
And gosh, even tho' the Weather Prophet says "occasional rains to-night and Friday" we can hardly believe it. Last night after the beautiful sunset we saw the copper-colored skies and we would have bet our last shirt that today would be a dinger.
AND IT IS!
Fair.
So why should we have a whole lot of it?
A little cooperation from Prophet Pugh and the rabbit foot packed by the Office Cat oughta bring results.
At any rate...
It's a great day today and NO PROBLEMS.
