A Sensible Thought About Shopping at Home

"Do you know," a customer told us recently, "I never shop out of town any more, and I find that I am really better dressed than ever."

"When I used to go to the City I was always so nervous and hurried that I never got the things I really needed. Now if I have the slightest bit of doubt, I go home and think it over."

"Then, too, the salespeople here know so much more about what I need. They often telephone me when new things arrive."

"Shopping at home seems only sensible to me," she concluded.

Go Far in Borrowed Car

Adventure ended abruptly for these two 19-year-old Eau Claire, Wis., girls when the borrowed sedan in which they had driven from Minneapolis, Minn., plunged over a 50-foot embankment near Memphis, Tenn. A trip to Minneapolis for the Wisconsin-Minnesota football game started their adventure. Ava Smith (left) borrowed a car from one of her boy friends and she and Esther Cook (right) started on their way. In jail at Memphis, Ava said her folks could provide bond for them, but she didn't know whether they would or not.
