ANTI-SALOONERS OPPOSE AL SMITH

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 5.—Prohibition as a definite issue in the 1928 presidential campaign in the south was squarely before Anti-Saloon league officials attending a dry convention of nine southern states here today.

In an address which had been announced as an official expression of the league's attitude toward candidates already in the field, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., told the opening session yesterday that the nomination of Governor Al Smith, Albert C. Ritchie or Senator James A. Reed in his opinion would be the "greatest calamity that could befall the Democratic party" and called upon dry southern Democrats to hold their party candidates strictly to account if a wet should be named at the Houston convention.

Charging that Governor Smith and Ritchie by successfully endeavoring to prevent state cooperation with favorable authorities, enforcement of the prohibition law in New York and Maryland, have done more to encourage a breakdown of the eighteenth amendment than all other agencies combined, the speaker exhorted his hearers to prevent the nomination of a "cocktail president."

WOOL GROWERS IN POSITION NOW TO MAKE SOME MONEY

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 5.—American wool growers now have an opportunity to "place their industry on the best financial basis in history," J. F. Walker, marketing specialist of the department of agriculture, reported to the department today following a trip around the world undertaken to study the wool industry.

"Wool production in New Zealand, Australia and South Africa already has reached the saturation point," he said, "and even further exportation because of limiting climatic and geographical factors."

Australia has more sheep than at any time since 1891, and certain sections are carrying more than 100,000, he said, adding that lack of space would have further production in New Zealand.

"Wool stocks today are extremely low, he said, despite the fact that foreign production has increased greatly in recent years."

THOMAS NOT TO ENTER THE RACE

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
MARSHFIELD, Ore., Mar. 3.—J. L. Thomas, mayor of Marshfield, definitely eliminated himself as a possible contender for the congressional nomination today. When asked to permit his name to be used, he hesitated. "The election of Congressman Willis C. Hawley to the chairmanship of the ways and means committee places him in such a strategic position that it would be a grave mistake for Oregon to undertake to replace him with a new congressman at this time," Mr. Thomas said. "I believe that way, I could not consider being a candidate for that office."

Recently, there has been gathering strong movement having for its purpose the placing of Mr. Thomas in the race for state senator from Coos and Curry counties, and it is believed this also had considerable influence in causing Mayor Thomas to step aside in the congressional race. To this time, Mayor Thomas has not committed himself as to the lure of the senatorial nomination.

RADIO PROGRAMS

KPO, the big Hale-Chronicle transmitter in San Francisco, which during the past two years has taken a commanding position in the west in the broadcasting of sporting events, on March 18 will broadcast the first preliminary baseball game of the 1928 season. All of the games played at Recreation Park during 1928 will be put "on the air." These include preliminary games played between the San Francisco Seals, the Mission Bells, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Wichita Club, and all of the local Pacific Coast League games.

The baseball broadcast is one of the most popular features of the air in the bay district and is under the sponsorship of the Associated Oil company, which, last year on the Pacific coast, made possible the broadcasting of the big football games.

MULTI-LUXURIED

Many luxuries come at a comparatively modest price in "The Haverhill."

First, there is the luxury of plenty of room. Wide center hall sweeps through the downstairs and the up. A spacious living room stretches its majestic length from the windows on the front to those on the rear. Four bedrooms, each with a large closet, give their occupants a view of two exposures.

Secondly, there is the luxury of convenience that so increase the happiness of the modern housekeeper. A breakfast nook, downstairs closest, built-in ironing board, kitchen tables, glass cupboards, vestibule closet and seat, extra lavatories upstairs and down, and a linen closet of good proportions.

Both front and back, this home features double windows, triple and even quartet windows instead of stately allowing only one, each time. The breakfast nook gets its morning sunshine through one window and each work table in the kitchen has its own window.

SCOUT TROOPS AGAIN COMPETE IN ANNUAL ROUNDUP

The Boy Scouts of the Douglas-Cool Council are again to compete in an achievement Round-Up. A Round-Up was conducted last year with great success, the number of scouts being increased from 325 to 500.

The Round-up this year will be slightly changed over that of last year in that there is now available a list of merit badges for second class scouts. Each troop competing will fill out a quota card showing the number of scouts they expect to have by May 1st. The number of trophies to become second class, the number of first class or higher who will earn merit badges and the number of subscriptions to Boys' Life magazine that will be turned in by May 1st.

This quota will be passed upon by the round-up committee and if the troop fulfills it as accepted an award of a troop flag streamer will be made. To each tenderfoot who becomes second class and also earns at least one second class merit badge will be given a second class miniature lapel pin. The first class scouts who qualify for first class and earn at least one first class merit badge will be presented miniature first class lapel pins. This same award will be given to each first class scout who earns at least seven merit badges.

The round-up begins with the first troop meeting following March 12th and ends May 1st. There will be one court of honor in each district this month and in all probability two during April.

No pledge ribbons are to be worn this year but all new scouts must be known as "mavericks" and will wear a badge bearing that name. The scout who brings in a new one will wear a "companion" button.

In addition to the increase of membership and the advancement of scouts during this round-up there is to be a patrol contest carried on. This is for the purpose of promoting more patrol work within the troops and is on a point basis which is as follows: scout present on time, 2 points; scout present but tardy, 1 point; were uniform at meeting, up to date, 2 points; each scout prepared, 2 points; attendance at all meetings during a day hike, 5 points; attending overnight hike or camp, 10 points; attendance at special patrol meetings, 5 points; for each court of honor award, 10 points. After the round-up is over some type of an outdoor rally will be held in which the winning patrol only will compete. It is very likely that other things worth while fighting hard for will be announced soon. Each patrol is out to win for the sake of doing and for what good can be done and gotten at the same time.

SUTHERLIN WILL INTERVENE IN RAILROAD CASE

The Sutherland Chamber of Commerce has filed a petition with the Oregon Public Service commission asking to become a party to the commission's suit to force the construction of a railroad from Crane road through Oregon.

The commission has filed a complaint with the Interstate Commerce commission asking that contract to build a railroad from Crane road to Odele be ordered. This would create a direct route from western Oregon and would materially shorten the distance to mid-western and eastern markets.

Sutherland is vitally interested in this project, particularly as railroad operations previously projected in the Sutherland valley would undoubtedly be connected up with the line in the event the plan is ever carried out.

The Sutherland chamber recently sent a delegation to Marshfield to meet with the commission in regard to the matter and is now taking a more direct part by asking permission to intervene and become a party to the action, so that representation can be made on the part of the Sutherland district.

SUPREME COURT DECISION IS AID TO COOPERATIVES

Federal and state laws declaring expressly or in effect that farmers' cooperative associations shall not be deemed monopolies, combinations, or conspiracies in restraint of trade, and that contracts made by such associations with their members are legal, are upheld at least by implication by the supreme court of the United States in a decision handed down February 20 in the case of the Liberty Warehouse company versus the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Marketing Association.

This decision, says Secretary of Agriculture J. C. Brannan, is of far reaching importance because in addition to validating Kentucky's cooperative marketing laws, it virtually upholds the Federal Capper-Volstead Act, section 5 of the Clayton Act, and the cooperative marketing statutes passed in forty-two states. In the Kentucky case judgment was affirmed against a warehouse company which bought tobacco from a member of the burley association, after being notified that delivery of the tobacco to it would constitute a violation of the member's cooperative contract.

Cooperative marketing acts, the United States supreme court indicated, promote the common interest, and provisions for protecting the members by outsiders are essential to the plan. In the suit against the Liberty Warehouse company, the Burley association, which was incorporated under the Kentucky Cooperative Marketing Act of Kentucky, recovered a penalty of $500 prescribed by the act, because the warehouse company received and sold 2,000 pounds of the 1923 tobacco from a member of the Burley association, although attention had been called to the penalty provided for such action. This measure authorizes associations formed under it to recover the penalty mentioned "from any person, firm, or corporation conducting a warehouse within the state of Kentucky who solicits or persuades or permits any member of any association organized hereunder to breach its marketing contract with the association by accepting or receiving such member's products for sale or for auction or for display for sale contrary to the terms of any marketing agreement with an association." The association was successful in the lower court, and also when the case was appealed to the court of appeals of Kentucky.

In upholding the judgment the United States court declared the state of Kentucky undoubtedly had power to authorize the formation of corporations with membership limited to farmers for the purpose of dealing in farm products.

LUMBERMEN CELEBRATE

PORTLAND, Ore., Mar. 3.—The Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen, better known as the 4L, will observe the tenth anniversary of its founding with a two-day convention to be held in Tacoma, April 27-28. It was announced today by W. C. Ruess, president of the organization. Delegates from 4L locals in Oregon, Washington and Idaho will attend. Ruess said, and all members, ex-members and friends of the organization are invited to be present.

In briefly tracing the history of the 4L, Ruess said: "Began and carried on for a year as a war measure the 4L proved of such mutual benefit to employers and employees that after the armistice a convention was held in Portland and the organization re-established to meet peace-time needs. It has functioned as an industrial relations organization since that time and its standards of working conditions, wages and hours (the eight-hour day) are now generally accepted throughout the Pacific northwest."

"The 4L is in no sense a 'company union' nor is it a labor union. It stands for the eight-hour day in the lumber industry, decent wages and working conditions, efficient labor, and equal voting power in both employers and employees in determining all matters of mutual interest."

The tenth anniversary, Ruess said, will not be a celebration, but will be a business convention of representative employers and employees, to review the past accomplishments and mistakes and to plan for the future of the organization in the interests of the industry it represents.
