The Best Food for Growing Children

Children require nourishment more often than do grown-ups. Nothing fulfills Nature's requirements for the between-meal "piece" for the children like bread, buttered or with good jam or jelly.

Wheat is a nourishing, balanced food for both children and adults. It contains all the requirements for the building of healthy, robust constitutions.

Umpqua Chief Flour is fitted for every baking purpose where excellency is the aim.

CONFIDENCE, SPEED YOUTH AND PEP ARE ATTRIBUTES OF CUBS

BY VICTOR G. SIDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer.

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., Mar. 13.—Into the National league pennant race the Chicago Cubs expect to thrust a threat even more menacing than their challenge of last year. All of the attributes of a pennant winning team are centered in the aggregation manager Joe McCarthy has gathered about him to play in the uniform of the north siders of Chicago's baseball. If confidence, youth, speed and dash will carry a baseball team to victory the Cubs, says McCarthy, are "in."

The National league pilot believes the squad has improved both defensively and offensively over last season. He has added the veteran and colorful "Kiki" Cuyler whose record every ardent baseball fan knows and a number of minor leaguers who bring much to the various departments.

It is in the pitching department that McCarthy thinks the greatest improvements will be in evidence. Two hurlers who met with misfortune to their throwing arms during the latter part of the season, Percy Jones and Bob Osborne, have returned to form, while the veteran Guy Bush is back from the hospital, and Harold Carlson has returned from a jaunt into other territory.

McCarthy considers Charley Root, winner of more games last season than any other National league pitcher, as good or better than he was in the 1927 pennant campaign.

A lack of relief hurlers, brought forward as one reason for the Cubs' failure to take the Gonfalon last season, has been relieved by the addition of Perce Malone, obtained from the Minneapolis club together with a record of 20 victories and the title of strike out king of the American association. Malone pitched in some 55 games in the double A league last season and will see considerable relief work on the mound for the Cubs. The sharp shooting John "Sheriff" Blake again will be a mainstay of the twirling corps, while the former Giant, Art Nehf, who was a free agent in 1927, may contribute to the Cubs' win column.

The infield staff is one McCarthy has not definitely decided upon but the way things look it lines up much in this shape:

First base—Charles Grimm, with Joe Kelly, outfielder, as an understudy.

Second base—Fred Maguire or Norman McMillan.

Shortstop—Woody English, with Clyde Beck to relieve him.

Third base—Elmer Yoter or John Butler.

As in the case of the infield, the outer garden looks strong both defensively and offensively. McCarthy has three right handed hitters and two swing from the port side of the plate. Jackson "Riggs" Stephenson, who ranked as the fourth best batsman in the league last season with a mark of .344, seems secure in left field. The rotund Hack Wilson, whose stick work averaged .317, has the call in center, and Cuyler is certain in right. In addition, McCarthy has Earl Webb and Cliff Heathcote for fly-chasing work.

Miguel Gonzales, Cuban, and Charles "Gabby" Hartnett form a first string catching duo. John Churry, Jr., the other backstopping regular, has not reported to the Cubs camp yet due to illness.

JOHNNY RISKO IS WINNER OF SLOW BATTLE

Tex Rickard's Campaign Is Given Setback by Colorless Brawl.

By EDWARD J. NEIL,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Mar. 13.—Whatever "logic" there was in Tex Rickard's campaign to produce a logical contender for Gene Tunney's title was swept out of Madison Square today by the cleaners along with whatever hopes Jack Sharkey had of some time ruling the crowning heights of pugilism.

Theoretically, Johnny Risko, the pudgy Austrian baker of Cleveland, stands out today as the foremost challenger for the title the big marine won and defended in two battles with Jack Dempsey. Almost on a par with Risko stands "Honest Tom" Heeney, the plugging blacksmith of New Zealand.

But there isn't an ounce of the color the promoting impressario has sought industrially in either Risko or Heeney. The Baker boy whipped Sharkey decisively in 15 rounds last night in mixing before the smallest crowd that ever saw an important heavyweight match here. Risko's victory over Sharkey was a most uninteresting brawl that merely dragged everybody concerned into mediocrity.

From the opening round, the rotund shock absorber, a veritable balloon-tire of a man, leaped and plunged into Sharkey, belaboring him constantly with a left hook to the body that curled up from his heels. The Boston sailor man boxed his rival and still the left hook zoomed out of nowhere to smack into its mark. Sharkey worked in close to evade the punch, grabbed the left arm, nailed both elbows to his ribs and tried every defensive trick of the game, but still the left hooking went on.

In the end, that left hook, the sole real offensive that Risko carried, won nine of the fifteen rounds. The short right flush to the heart, Sharkey's best punch, coupled with a left hook, won his heats for the Boston man, who just a year ago was considered the greatest of the younger heavyweights.

Round after round, with no variation, the battlers stuck to their favorite styles and the fans yawned. Risko made his best showing in the second, eighth, ninth, tenth and thirteenth rounds when he hung his left with equal abandon on Sharkey's ribs and chin. In the tenth, Sharkey went down for a count of four but it was more of a slip than from the effects of punches and he assured the referee—although nobody appeared really interested—that he was "all right."

While the fight left Heeney and Risko on the top of the contending heap, that part of the elimination tourney was settled months ago in Detroit where Heeney won a decision over Johnny that was as colorless as though it was a part of Rickard's own program.

For the promoter there appeared but one ray of hope on the gloomy horizon. Jack Dempsey himself, saviour of the heavyweight situation last year and the only man who ever inspired a $2,500,000 gate, will return to New York to settle several court actions. He will discuss the situation with the promoter and the man who made Jack a millionaire admitted that his pleas for a second comeback on the part of the former champion "ought to move any one's heart."

For the time being, Rickard plans to match Heeney with Risko. But he frankly admits that his fingers are crossed, that there probably won't be any title fight in June after all, and that if Tunney does defend his crown this year "Jack Dempsey must be in the other corner."

GOOD FIGHTS IN PROSPECT FOR THE LEGION SMOKER

Promoter Clyde Wiard is working to arrange an exceptionally good boxing card for the American Legion smoker to be held at the armory Friday, March 23. While he has not yet completed the arrangements for the program he expects to have Scott Holley as one of the principals in the main go, and hopes to match the colored boy against either Sergeant Eddie Smith of Art Kileans of Vancouver Barracks.

He is also planning to match Joe Wilde of Eugene with Stanley Rogers of Portland, and Earl Morrison of Tacoma with Freddie Warnick of Eugene.

A fight of great local interest will be the semi-final bout between Comet Gibson and Young Judd, both of Roseburg. These two boys are about of a size and have been appearing regularly in the bouts staged by Promoter Wiard and fans have been anxious to see them clash.

The Umpqua Post smoker is free to all ex-service men, regardless of whether or not they are members of the American Legion. It is an annual event and is for the purpose of getting all the World war veterans together for a good time.

Fight fans, who are not legionnaires, will be admitted to the boxing card for a small admission fee, but the banquet which is to precede the smoker is for veterans only.

WILL HAYS USED METHOD OF CROOKS, ROBINSON STATES

Democratic Chief Assails Manner in Which Bonds for G. O. P. Jackpot Were Returned.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—Reviewing the testimony before the Teapot dome committee, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, today declared that Will H. Hays had "subjected himself to the possible charge of perjury."

The Democratic leader carried the oil case before the senate shortly after Secretary Mellon agreed to appear before the oil committee tomorrow.

The secretary will be asked about the $50,000 in Continental Trading company bonds sent to him by Hays, who is former secretary of the Republican national committee, and refused by Mr. Mellon.

Robinson, in a brief speech, dealt entirely with campaign contributions from Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, to the Republican committee.

"Mr. Hays secretly received $85,000 in Liberty bonds from the chief beneficiary in the fraudulent transactions by which the naval oil reserves were bartered away," he said, "and proceeded by methods common to crooks with efforts to exchange the bonds with prominent Republicans for cash.

Viewed as Corruption

"Such records as kept warrant the conviction that the whole transaction was corrupt. The testimony of Mr. Hays before the committee in 1924 warrants the conclusion that he deliberately concealed the use by him, as political chairman, of the bonds obtained from Mr. Sinclair, and in that sense subjected himself to the possible charge of perjury.

"Quite lately before the committee, when at last the slimy transaction was divulged, Mr. Hays said: 'I did not volunteer about the government bonds. I was not asked about that.'"

"Every witness when sworn declares that he will tell 'the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.' True, nobody asked him direct questions as to whether Liberty bonds were received from Mr. Sinclair in 1924 to help pay the deficit but in that year when testifying it appears that he was asked whether Mr. Sinclair had contributed more than $75,000 to the Republican committee deficit of 1920 and he answered 'No'. His testimony now disclosed $85,000 in government bonds in addition to the $75,000 as a contribution, making a total of $160,000."

"Recent testimony before the senate committee," the Arkansas senator declared, "discloses peculiarly disgusting corruption."

He declared that the committee some time ago had "revealed an infamous betrayal of trust by two cabinet officers—Secretary Fall and Attorney General Daugherty"—and spoke of the "asinine stupidity of the secretary of the navy, Mr. Denby."

Butler, Hays Summoned

Mr. Mellon will be the first witness at the reopening of the hearings and probably will be followed by William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, who has advised Senator Walsh that he received no Liberty bonds or other contributions to the Republican national committee from Hays or Harry F. Sinclair.

Hays also has been summoned for a third time and will be asked to explain why he withheld from the committee on his previous appearances the information that he had sent $50,000 of the Sinclair bonds to Secretary Mellon.

Prune Talks

Douglas Cooperative Prune Association

By W. F. Drager

Cash for Prunes

Paragraph 9 of the marketing agreement reads as follows:

"If the grower should desire to release his prunes of any year to any particular packer, the association will consent thereto, provided it shall approve the price to be paid, that there may be no price cutting to the detriment of growers generally. Without the express consent of the association, the grower shall not deliver any prunes covered by this agreement to any other person, firm, association or corporation."

Under the working of this paragraph, if any packer or packers have contracted to purchase quantities of prunes from the association, and want them delivered to certain packing houses or stated delivery points, the association will notify the growers in the vicinity where said prunes are wanted. These growers can negotiate with the packers holding such contract with the association and arrange for delivery in accordance with the terms of such contracts, at prices as high or higher than that fixed by the price fixing committee. The grower must notify the association of any such arrangement and he will get the consent of the organization to carry out the transaction. The packer will pay the grower in full on delivery, holding out $1.00 per ton which the packer will pay over to the association. Also, if any storage or insurance charges are due from such lots the packer will also pay such amounts to the association. No insurance or storage charges will be due from growers making delivery direct to packers on contracts with the association.

This arrangement will give growers an opportunity to select the packer with whom he desires to deal and the packer also has a voice in selecting the prunes he chooses to purchase. Of course the packer will select good quality prunes. But prunes of poorer quality will naturally be left until the best are cleaned up. Automatically this will induce growers to produce better quality prunes.

MOHAIR MEETING MAJESTIC THEATRE MONDAY, MARCH 19

A service meeting for all mohair growers in Douglas county has been arranged, as a part of its educational program, by the Pacific Cooperative Wool Growers, to be held in the Majestic Theatre at Roseburg, on Monday afternoon, March 19, at 1:30 o'clock p. m. County Agent J. C. Leedy and other members of the Extension Service of Oregon State College are assisting in the arrangements. Every step from the raising of the goats to the manufacture of the finished mohair plushes will be covered by lecture, demonstration and moving pictures.

Edgar L. Ludwick, assistant manager of the Pacific Cooperative Wool Growers, will talk on "Mohair Marketing." This growers association has been active in the mohair industry of western Oregon for the past seven years. It was the first to secure premiums for kid hair, has secured recognition for graded clips, has worked to develop markets, and has been instrumental in keeping up the general price level.

Herbert Bentley, United States licensed mohair grader for the Pacific, who has spent his whole life in the biggest mills of England and America and who is probably the best mohair grader west of Boston, will demonstrate mohair sorting as it is carried on in mills.

O. M. Nelson of the Extension Department of Oregon State Agricultural College will talk on "Goat Management." Growers who wish to improve their flocks will secure valuable information from Mr. Nelson.

The most complete motion picture film on mohair ever made will be shown by A. C. Gage, editor of the "Angora Journal," who has shown this film from Oregon to Texas. Two reels show goat raising and some of the pictures were taken in the Willamette Valley. Two reels show the various steps in the manufacture of mohair from the time it is shorn until it is woven into the beautiful plushes and draperies in Eastern mills.

This is said to be a highly educational and entertaining film and the mohair growers are invited to bring their families so that they, too, may enjoy it.

CINCY REDS WILL TALK THINGS UP

BY BRIAN BELL,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

ORLANDO, Fla., Mar. 13—The Cincinnati Reds may talk themselves into a position somewhere near the front of the National league stage, if their lungs hold out, the red legs training at Orlando will be the chatterboxes of the circuit when serious play begins.

Cal George "Kelly" scampering about first base like a gay gazelle is the magpie of the infield with heavy vocal support from Critz, Ford and Dressen.

The Reds think they will be in the pennant hunt and do not mind saying so. No drastic changes have been made in the personnel since last season, but there is every indication that the team will get a beter start than was the case a year ago.

Manager Hendricks does not know what he will do about the outfield although two of the positions are almost sure to go to Walker and sensational young Ethan Allen, who joined the Reds last season without minor league exprience and showed that he did not need it.

"Kid" Purdy, who represented the Reds from Seattle last year and made a deep impression before he was injured, is fighting for a place as is his former team mate, Marty Callaghan.

The Reds brought over a number of first string pitchers from last season. The catching will be done in the greatest bulk by Captain Bubbles Hargrave, assisted by Val Picinich and Clyde Sukeforth.

AIRWAY FROM ROSEBURG NORTH TO BE SURVIVED

According to information received today from Portland a survey is to start at once on the airway between Roseburg and Portland. The survey has been completed from San Francisco to Roseburg and from Portland to Seattle so that the Roseburg-Portland gap is the only remaining section on the coast line to be linked up.

The government in the surveyed sections has leased emergency landing fields and is preparing to light the airports and to establish a system of beacons to permit night flying. A. P. Tallaferro, Jr., airways extension superintendent for the aeronautics division of the United States Department of Commerce, is in charge of the work and has just completed the survey between Portland and Seattle and announces that work will start in the very near future between Roseburg and Portland.

Umpqua Post of the American Legion before advancing an airport project for Roseburg, held several meetings with U. S. Department of Commerce representatives regarding the proposed airport here. The government men were well pleased with the site selected and the promise was made that as soon as Roseburg puts the field in shape for aerial traffic that a government beacon will be placed there and the field made a part of the coast airways system.
