COUNCIL HOLDS SHORT MEETING

The city council met last night in a brief session, there being but little important business for consideration.

City Attorney Wimberly informed the council that he is preparing to file a number of suits in court to foreclose delinquent taxes. The city is holding title to a large amount of property upon which owners have allowed sewer and paving assessments to become delinquent. It is proposed to clear title to this property by foreclosing.

are suits in the circuit court, so that the city will be able to sell the property with a clear deed.

The health and police committee was authorized to have repairs made to the police car.

Considerable discussion was entered into regarding charter revision pertaining to election.

The committee on city improvements was given authority to purchase a power lawn mower to be used in caring for the North Roseburg parkings.

On and after March 19, 1928, I will not be responsible for bills contracted at the Grove Auto Camp or California Service Station, Canyonville, Ore.

Defeat for Both House and Senate Thomas J. Walsh's Early Lot Before Success Crowned Montana Struggle

HELENA, Mont., Mar. 20.—(A.P.)—The candidacy of Thomas Jefferson Walsh for the democratic presidential nomination completes the span of a political career that he hewed out with his own hands.

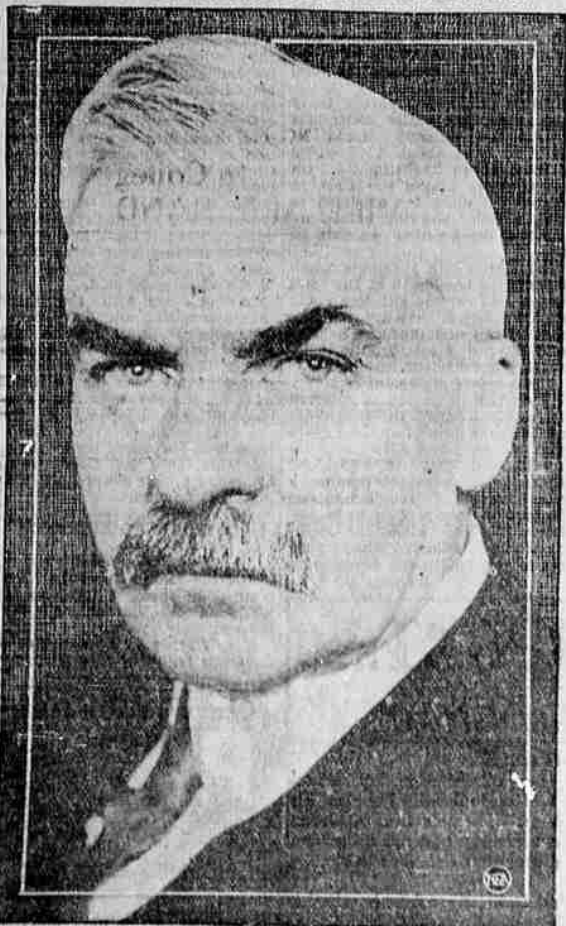

Walsh tasted bitter political defeat in Montana before he won a victory. Montana takes its politics with the seriousness, tenacity of feeling that actuated the horsemen who once pursued rustlers across its open ranges.

He was 31 when he came to Helena in 1880 to open a law office. It was 22 years later that bought in vain a congressional seat from his home district.

But in 1912, when Montana voters made their own selection of a United States senator for the first time, Walsh won. He was re-elected in 1918 without difficulty and again in 1924. He was a standard bearer for the administration during the World War and a leader in the fight for American membership in the League of Nations. But it was in the summer and fall of 1923 that his beetling eyebrows and his drooping moustache became recognized the coun-he went to Washington as a United States senator. Today he is a national figure, notably for his work as prosecutor on the senate committee which ferreted out the illegal oil reserve leases.

Twice Tasted Defeat

In 1910 the Montana legislature was deadlocked for weeks, unable to decide whether to send Walsh or Henry L. Myers to the United States senate. Myers won by two votes. Four years earlier, Walsh, a lawyer with a stern jaw under his drooping moustache, had 3, try over, when he became the leader in the senate's special committee for the investigation of the oil leases.

Senator Walsh is a widower. His wife, whom he married in Redfield, S. D., where he began the practice of law at the age of 25, died in 1920. He has one daughter, Mrs. Emmett C. Gudger, now at Newport, R. I., whose husband is a commander in the navy, and two granddaughters, children of the Gudgers. Ellen, 7, and Gloria, 3, pamphlets is, of course, optional. Preparing for Primaries

Only the two major political parties in Oregon, the Republican and Democratic, are subject to making their nominations for the offices to be filled at the general elections through the primary election. This is because no other political party in this state has a sufficient number of votes to bring it under the provisions of the primary nominating election law.

As required by law, the Secretary of State, will, prior to April 3rd, mail to the various county clerks by registered letter, statements listing the several national, state and district offices for which candidates will be selected by the Republican and Democratic parties in the primary election to be held May 18.

It is the duty of the county clerks to prepare printed notices containing the various national, state, district and county offices for which there are to be made nominations in their respective counties, not less than thirty days prior to the primary, and to mail two of these notices to each judge and clerk of election in each precinct.
