EASTER! That time honored day is truly one of awakening, an awakening in the sense of the national spirit as well as the commemoration of Christ's resurrection and a world of colorful life which embraces the thought of church festival set, naturally for this day corresponds to the Passover or Pasch of the Jews, which also falls at a similar time, and marks the end of a period of thoughtful meditation. Tomorrow the world will respond again to ancient custom and in many places special Easter programs will mark the day. In the Roseburg churches various extensive programs have been prepared, some of them to last the entire day. Good Friday noted the latter part of the Lenten season. Holy Week has been almost void of social activity, which has given way for a last few days of meditation.

Not only religiously will Sunday be a full day, but it is also a time of pleasure for the younger generation. Numerous Easter egg hunts are anticipated and of special note are the largest affair for youngsters on that day will be the annual Easter egg hunt at the Roseburg Country Club for the children of the members. The hunt on the White Horse lawn at the national capital is a traditional event of interest for the Washington youngsters.

Two social events will make the coming week one of interest socially. On Monday evening will be the annual Easter Monday ball to be given under the auspices of the Umpqua Chapter of the American Legion Auxiliary at the Oriental Gardens. Thursday evening will be the most Easter dancing party for members of the L. P. T. Club at the Knights of Pythias hall, the affair to mark the end of the season's monthly dances for the club.

Song Recital Given by Former Roseburg Maid Before Portland

Interesting to those in Roseburg to whom Miss Margaret Kennedy, soloist in the quartet of the First Presbyterian church in Portland, is known, is the following article from the Oregonian complimenting Miss Kennedy on her work. She is the niece of Mrs. J. C. Hume of Roseburg and formerly made her home in Roseburg.

In a finely sung program of numbers rarely rendered, so far as selections are concerned, at Portland recitals, Miss Margaret Kennedy, solo soprano in the quartet of the Oregonian complimenting her yesterday before members of the MacDowell club in the Little theater of the Studio building, and won many compliments for her work. The recital had this added value: Miss Kennedy sang one dozen numbers—two in the Italian language, three in German and the balance in English—and sang them from memory, without using any music scores or notes of words.

The accompanist was Edgar E. Courson, who did finished, scholarly playing. Miss Kennedy has a well-trained dramatic soprano voice that is seldom heard in recitals, and so far she has contented herself with her church choir duties. Her voice is of exceptionally good quality, strong in the head register, with careful diction and fine expression. In the foreign group of songs, the gem of the collection is the Senegalese "Vidmang," which was interpreted with intelligent appreciation of the spirit of its dedication, and sang with dignity and pathos in its native German. The six songs in English were sung with power and artistic phrasing. Her extra number was "Dawn" (Curran).

A Feminist in the World's Sweetest Job

Work, Says Mary Bromberg, Is Woman's Only Way to Compete With Men.

By NEA Service.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 7.—Mary Virginia Bromberg has the sweetest job in the world.

She has just been made secretary of the newly formed Domestic Sugar Producers' association which represents an output equal to one-half America's yearly consumption of sugar.

Miss Bromberg is an expert in sweet facts. Comes a South Dakota farmer inquiring how he can grow 15 tons of sugar beets where 9 tons are now produced; Miss Bromberg tells him. Let a senator inquire about free entry of Philippine sugar and she gives him the pros and cons.

"It was luck rather than my own sweet tooth which got me my job," says Miss Bromberg, an extremely personable young woman with a slow, southern drawl. "But it was plain, unadulterated knocks of experience that taught me to weep at home, if I must weep, to check sensitiveness or hysterics at the office door and to expect equality with men workers in the amount of work I had to turn out.

"Femininity is no bar to success in big business," she believes. "But the girl who means to succeed must postpone thoughts of tea dances, studio suppers and theatre parties until after work hours. For men have a way of pitching in and working everlastingly until the job is done. If women are going to compete, they must concentrate."

Though born in Mobile, Miss Bromberg has believed always that women should have careers. Her uncle gave her her first business job as bookkeeper in his mercantile establishment. From there she obtained an appointment to the Federal Board of Vocational Education in Washington.

"Luck made me secretary to a chairman of the U. S. Tariff Commission, when I had to learn all kinds of things about sugar. It was fascinating so I just kept on learning. Then I entered the office of John M. Rogers, of the American Sugar Cane League, and worked several years with him. I was appointed to succeed him when he died a year ago. And now I have another sugar job. It just seems as if life gets sweeter and sweeter to me."

A NEW SPORTS SUIT IN ORCHID WOOL and flat-crepe bows to Fashion's dictate that sports suits must be sportier this year. The jumper is of angora wool with a tricky vestee in flat crepe that is cut in one piece to fashion a scarf that can be wound around the neck or tossed off the shoulder jauntily. The skirt has all-around pleats, in the flat crepe, and the felt hat, in orchid tone, has a faced brim a two-inch band across the crown and a modernistic buckle of purple straw.
