METHODISTS TO TRY BISHOP AT MAY ASSEMBLY

Relations With Official's Wife and Expanding of $200,000 in Eleven Years Figure.

IN PRISON 3 MONTHS

(Associated Press Leased Wire) KANSAS CITY, April 13.—For the first time in history, a bishop will be tried by a tribunal of the Methodist Episcopal church.

When the quadrennial general conference, the law-making body of the church, meets here in May, it will select a court of 17 ministers to sit in judgment on Bishop Anton Bast of Copenhagen, who already has served a prison sentence following conviction in the civil courts of Denmark for misappropriating church funds.

Bast, now under suspension from his office, has protested his innocence of misusing money entrusted to him, and an investigating committee headed by Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Detroit has refused to sustain the charges.

At the civil trial in Denmark, there was testimony concerning his relations with Mrs. Ellen Vedel, the wife of a government official, and about a yacht owned by him and Mrs. Vedel, and also about his personal expenditures totaling $200,000 in 11 years.

While the investigating committee voted against sustaining the charges involving money, it referred these charges, along with the one of "imprudent and unministerial conduct" to the general conference.

The court, presided over by a bishop, will hold secret sessions. Itself. Thus a dissenting opinion subject to review by the conference itself. Its findings will be final, but subject to one or more members of the tribunal may result in the airing of the case before the gathering of 900 delegates and thousands of visitors from 35 countries.

Expulsion from the church as well as permanent ouster from the ministry may be the penalty inflicted by the ecclesiastical court.

OLYMPIC TEAM MATERIAL WILL SOON BE TESTED

Relay Carnivals Scheduled at Pennsylvania, Drake Universities. EASTERNERS FAVORED Only 14 of 90 Places to Be Filled Conceded to the West, Principally in the Sprints.

MOVIE COMEDY TO BE FILMED HERE

(Associated Press Leased Wire) KANSAS CITY, April 13.—The studio of the talent for places on this year's American Olympic track and field team is being transferred to the coast in short order. It is already on the way to the balmier climes of the Pacific coast while the eastern middle western stars will have their first big outdoor tests in the great relay carnivals the end of this month at Pennsylvania and Drake Universities.

Hence it isn't strange to find the experts already out with form sheets and pencils, figuring how the sectional lists will fare in getting tickets on the boat to Amsterdam.

Amsterdam prospects mean anything the east will fill nearly half the ranks of the track and field team. Ninety places will be available and well qualified observers figure that 44 of these will be grabbed off by eastern performers.

The same calculations allot 22 places to the middle west, 14 to the Pacific coast, six to the southwest and four to the south. So far as the proportion goes it is about the same as that in the make-up of the 1924 team that went to Paris. It was a bigger array that year, totalling 115 athletes, with the east represented by 61 performers, the middle west by 62, the Pacific coast by 20, the southwest by one and the south by two.

Sprinters From West From this outpost it appears far west will contribute heavily to the sprints, with Borah and Packard leading the field, as well as several of the field events, where Barnes in the pole vault, Houser, and Hoffman in the shot-put and discus and King, Coggeshall and others in the high jump are among the best.

The middle west has Locke and Alderman in the sprints, Hubbard in the broad jump, Elkins in the decathlon, Conger in the middle distances, Taylor, Werner, Cuhel, Kinzey and others in the hurdles, Burg and Osborn in the high jump, Schwarze and Kueck in the weights.

The southwest has a great high jumper in the Texan, Haggard, among other stars, while the south boasts a fine broad jumper in Hamm and a national champion, Baekin, in the hurdles.

The east may claim Sablu Carr but his home is in Iowa. Hahn is a Nebraskan although he sports the colors of the Boston A. A. Scholz came to New York from Missouri but Husey and Bowman in the sprints, Lermond in the distance runs, Demar in the marathon, McGrath and Adelman in the weights, Wells in the hurdles and such quarter milers as Tierney and Barbuti are homebred eastern candidates.

ANTLERS

"Man Crazy" Starring Dorothy Mckcail and Jack Mulhall, Now Playing at Antlers

Dorothy Mackall, co featured with Jack Mulhall in "Man Crazy" now at Antlers theatre reversed that old popular song, "Put Me Among the Girls" and has been singing "Put Me Among the Men."

Miss Mackall was playing in scenes with dozens of the handsomest men in pictures for this story of New England and it is from this fact that the picture gets its name, "Man Crazy."

Miss Mackall, attired in a natty riding suit, is seen entirely surrounded by young men in the noblest of riding togs. As Clarissa, the impetuous daughter of a pioneer Back Bay family, Miss Mackall has a role that fits her ideal.

"Man Crazy" is from the Saturday Evening Post story, "Clarissa and the Post Road" and was directed by John Francis Dillon with Charles R. Rogers, the producer.
