ROSEBURG, OREGON, FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1928.

THE SOUL OF A MACHINE

Every machine, according to Prof. Michael Pupin, famous scientist and inventor, has a soul. This soul, he adds, is part of the soul of the man who invented it. We are accustomed to consider our present age a materialistic age, for it is dominated by machines. Prof. Pupin says we are mistaken; on the contrary, he says, it is precisely the inventors and masters of the machines who are the greatest idealists. Having delivered himself of these rather surprising assertions, Prof. Pupin adds: "America must be the leader of the idealism of the world or the world will go to pieces." What is an idealist, anyway? Perhaps we may say that an idealist is a man who refuses to fix his standards of life and conduct by the world as it actually exists, but insists upon setting them in accordance with his ideas of what the world ought to be like. He shapes his life by ideas, that is, instead of by concrete facts. Sometimes this leads him so far away from realities that he gets mentally befogged and becomes somewhat ridiculous. Probably it is for this reason that the word "idealist" is often used as a term of reproach. But in its best sense, the word is a high compliment. For a man who gauges his life by the standard of what ought to be rather than what is, is obviously bent on making the world better. And who should be more of an idealist than the man who makes machines? Back of every machine in use today lay some man's belief that a certain phase of life could be improved upon. Back of the steam engine lay Watt's feeling that such tasks as pulling coal up out of mines were too hard for men's muscles, and that men ought not to have to work so hard. Back of the steamboat lay Fulton's feeling that the old method of crossing the water was too laborious and wasteful. Back of the cotton gin lay Whitney's feeling that men spent too much time and effort in turning fluffy cotton into usable threads. Back of the telephone lay Bell's belief that man ought to be able to communicate with his fellow man more easily and speedily. In other words; all of these inventors, and every other inventor and machine builder, were dissatisfied with existing conditions. Each one wanted to see life made more easy. Each one was an idealist. We have misunderstood our machines and their makers too long. We have conceived of them as the chief agents of the great wave of materialism that lately has risen too high. But we have been mistaken. The machines have given us a new civilization. Whether we realize it or not, the coming of the machine has upset old standards. Life can never again be as it was a century ago. And it is the maker of machines—the supreme idealist—who will see us through this transition.

SERVICE STATION
INSTALLING BRAKE
TESTING MACHINE

Ned Dixon is today announcing the addition of an electric brake testing machine to the equipment of his modern service station on South Stephens street. Mr. Dixon operates a brake adjusting and re-lining department and is giving free testing service using the new equipment now being installed. The machine tests the amount of power on each wheel, an electrically operated device showing exactly how each wheel is acting, and the amount of braking force exerted. This machine affords absolute adjustment for four wheel brakes. Installation is now underway and the machine will be ready for use next week.

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—

The atmosphere in our sanctum is saturated with the aroma of Myrtle leaves. Which the Rotarians are clamoring to propagate sheets. For distribution in Seattle and if it tickles the nose of the Fellers up there like it does ourn Their maws had Better put an Extry hanky in their carpet bag.

The crew of the Bremen say they will fly back to Germany. They're probably heard that the New York lagger is not up to the standard of German plunger.

To day the Office Cat informs us that the rain will soon cease. Now maybe we won't hafta have our shoes half-soled.

Houston, Texas, is preparing to bring many tons of salt from beds far below the earth's surface, says a dispatch. Either they're going to salt the democrats' tails down there, or use it to take with what they say.

One thing about those elections in Chicago—it's easy to hear the reports.

Henry Ford, according to dispatches from England, believes in "free trade all around." But, gosh! you can't trade one of those 1922 Fords for anything, unless it be old razor blades.

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE GAMES

(Associated Press Local Wire)

A two-run rally in the ninth yesterday sent Oakland to stave off a last minute surprise on the part of the Seals and bring up their first win of the current series, 4-3. Buzz Wetzel, recently acquired from Portland, held San Francisco to two runs until he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the ninth. Batteries: Wetzel, Craghead, Sparks and Reed; Moudy, Thurston, Malls and Sprina.

Four Seattle hurriers looked very much alike to the Hollywood hitters, who cuffed the quartet for 19 safeties and a 4-3 win. Heath and Roth, Hollywood outfielders, each collected four hits. Batteries: Kinney and Agnew; Graham, Nance, Sumrell, House and Boroan.

Lefty Viner held the Angels to eight hits and whiffed eight of them but his southpaw opponent on the hill, Tex Weatherby, was just a little better, and Los Angeles collected a 3-0 victory over Sacramento. Batteries: Viner and Koehler; Weatherby and Hannah.

Rain kept the Missions and Portland idle.

DEAL ENABLES FARMERS TO SELL WHEAT IN BULK

(Associated Press Local Wire)

PENILETON, April 20.—A deal which will benefit the bulk wheat farmers in the Holle region of Umatilla county is announced in the leading of the grain elevator and warehouse of the Holle Milling company by the Interior Warehouse company, controlled by Balfour Guthrie. This deal will enable the ranchers to bulk their grain instead of marketing and thus save considerable expense.

Markets

(Associated Press Local Wire)

PORTLAND, Ore., April 20.—Poultry prices are about a cent lower all around today following several days of large receipts. Good sized broilers were none too plentiful and held steady.

Country dressed meats showed little change with the market generally slow. Veal receipts continued heavy and the price weak around 18¢/lb. Other classes were quoted steady.

Eggs and egg prices were steady and unchanged today.

Wholesale produce prices were generally higher today on local markets caused by the continued rain and cold weather in nearby growing districts. Weather conditions in California have likewise been unfavorable and early crops along the coast are generally backward.

Spunch was scarce today and the market strong, best offerings going to the trade at $1.15¢/lb. per crate.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 20.—Wholesale candy and nut bkgm. WHOLESALE PRICES: Butter steady; Portland dairy exchange not quotable prices: Cakes extra 39¢; standards 39¢; prime firsts 35¢; firsts 35¢; Creamery prices: Prints 3¢ over cube standards.

Eggs steady; fresh standard extras 25¢; fresh standard firsts 24¢; fresh medium extras 23¢; fresh medium firsts 21¢. Prices to retailers 2¢ over exchange prices. Association selling prices: Extras 26¢; firsts 24¢; medium 21¢; ungraded 20¢.

Nuts steady; walnuts 14¢/27¢; almonds 25¢/28¢; peanuts 10¢/11¢; pecans 25¢/28¢.

Hops, 1923 crop 17¢/18¢, contract; fuggles 20¢.

Cascara bark steady, 7¢; Oregon grape root, 10¢/12¢.

BIDS TO THE FARMER:
Entirety steady, 40¢ station, 41¢ track, 43¢/44¢ l. o. o. Portland.

Poultry: Heavy hens easy to be lower at 24¢; light 15¢/20¢; broilers 30¢/33¢; Pekin white ducks 20¢; colored, nonpareil; turkeys alive 25¢/27¢.

Onions steady; local $1.75¢/2.25¢ per cwt. Potatoes 7¢/9¢/12¢ sack. Wool steady; eastern Oregon 23¢/24¢; valley medium 13¢; coarse 5¢/6¢ pound.

No change in livestock quotations.

BOSTON, April 20.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"The wool market is marking time for the moment, as is also the case with the market for goods. Occasional small piecing-out sales are reported and some buying for warps and by manufacturers when prices suit, but the market as a whole is no more than steady, although most dealers are optimistic concerning the future."

"In the west there is little that is new, scattering purchases being at unchanged prices."

"Foreign markets are generally quiet with prices barely steady in Bradford."

"Mohair is quiet at the eastern seaboard markets and manufacturers are by no means ready to absorb the prices recently paid at country points."

The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following wool quotations tomorrow:

Scoured basis: Oregon, fine and fine medium staple $1.15-1.18; fine and fine medium clothing $1.15-1.18; valley No. 1 $1.15-1.18; Mohair: Original lvs. average 12 months, Oregon, 35-60; Graded stock: First combings 75-80; second combings 45-50.

OPENING SERVICE
SCOVILLE MEETING
SUNDAY MORNING

Opening services of the Charles Reign Scoville evangelistic campaign to be held under the auspices of the First Christian Church of Roseburg will be held Sunday, when the Rev. James R. Axtell, assistant evangelist, of Kenosha, Wisconsin, will preach. At the 11 a. m. service Mr. Axtell will preach on "Counting All as Loss," and at the evening service his theme will be "One Thing Thou Lackest." All Sunday services will be held in the new church located on the corner of Kane and Douglas streets. In connection with the revival a number of "Get Ready" services will be held in the following homes at 7:30 o'clock this evening: District one, Miss Jessie Gibbs, Maple avenue; district two, Mrs. C. G. Stanton, 793 S. Pine; district three, Mrs. Mary Decker, 745 E. Seventh; district four, Mrs. A. A. Sprague, 326 S. Main.

While there will be no regular service on Monday evening, Rev. Wm. R. Baird, local pastor of the Christian church, acclaimed one of the finest readers in this section of the country, and Professor Isaac N. Farris, member of the Scoville party and a musician of national reputation, will put on an entertainment in the church Monday evening at 7:30. Mr. Baird will give a number of negro, Scotch, Irish and Italian impersonations and Mr. Farris will play several piano selections from the great masters. There will be no charge for admission.

Revival services will be resumed Tuesday night. According to present plans Dr. and Mrs. Scoville will arrive in Roseburg Wednesday evening in time for service.

OLD BONE FOUND
IMBEDDED IN WOOD

A peculiar wood growth was on display today at the Zigler-Craven Hardware store. It was found by a woodchopper in the Max Weiss canyon who brought the piece of wood to town for display. At some time, apparently many years ago, a piece of bone, evidently a leg bone of some large animal, was caught or placed in a crotch of a tree. As time went on the wood grew around the bone until it was completely imbedded. The outer end of the bone, which projected a fraction of an inch beyond the outer circumference of the tree, was badly weathered, showing considerable age, but the portion which had been surrounded by the wood was hardly discolored. The bone was broken before it was discovered in the block of wood that was being cut.

THE TINYMITES
STORY & HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES & MUSIC

The flying man was scared all right, and he soon flew right out of sight. This left the "Tinymites" alone upon the mountain side. The big black birds came right up near and Scouty said, "I sady fear that they will soon be with us. Just see how they dive and glide."

"Oh, well," said Clowny. "Let's not fret. They really haven't harmed us yet. The one that carried me through the air was kind as he could be. Perhaps they'll merely want to play, and will not mind it if we stay right in their nest. All we can do is wait and see."

The big birds circled high and low. They did a lot of tricks in low, first very fast, then very air, which pleased the "Tinymites." "What would we do," was Clowny said, "if they should pack us on the beam? I hope this doesn't happen cause I hate to be in flight."

The little birds within the nest bent to call the big ones down to then chirped and did their very them. Perhaps they wanted food. Tien Clowny cried, "I have a hunch, 'twill please the big black birds if we begin to feed their brood."

"A great idea!" Scouty said. And so the Tinymites went ahead and brought forth little crackers, which they broke up very small. The little birds began to eat, and quite enjoyed the thoughtful treat. Then, as the big birds flew up, Scouty said, "We'll feed them all."

The big birds landed, safe and sound, and for a moment looked around. And then they opened up their bills. They wanted crackers, too. "We're safe. The crackers turned the trick," said Scouty. "Come on, feed them, quick!" And

AMNESIA VICTIM OFF TO JOIN HIS SISTER

(Associated Press Local Wire)
PORTLAND, Ore., April 20.—Claude Amy, amnesia victim, who was identified Monday, left here yesterday for Dorris, California, where a sister, Mrs. J. L. McCormick, lives.

Amy came to the central station here two weeks ago with his memory blank. He asked police to find out who he was. He was identified by a former Dorris man.

FARM REMINDERS

An occasional soft shelled egg may mean little or nothing about the flock, but if the condition becomes general a lack of calcium in the diet is indicated. Most successful poultrymen keep oyster shell before the chickens at all times. Mineral may also be added to the mash by mixing together 5 pounds bone meal, 2 pounds oyster shell flour or ground limestone, and 1 pound of table salt. Two or three pounds of this are added to each 100 pounds of mash, says the expert station.

Alsike clover when grown for seed usually gives best results if the first growth is allowed to develop for seed purposes, as the second growth is not vigorous. Detrital effects have resulted from pasturing back and clipping. Red clover, on the other hand, usually fills better if it is pastured back or clipped in sections where the growing season is long enough to mature the second crop.

cars from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana. A few farm-ers are growing sweet potatoes successfully in the vicinity of Hermiston. Irrigated soils of that section which are warm and mellow produce excellent yields of these roots. Cooperative experiments carried out in Josephine and Malheur counties by the Oregon station show that some of the warm irrigated soils in that region are well suited to sweet potato production. Leading varieties include the Yellow Streak, Triumph, and Purple Rico.
