PIONEER OF CITY SUFFERED STROKE OF PARALYSIS

Geo. W. Rapp, pioneer and business man of this city, suffered a stroke of paralysis during the night and the left side of his face and left arm are affected. Mr. Rapp has been in poor health for some time and for the past week has been confined to his bed. His son, Wallace Rapp, has arrived here from Bakerfield, California, and a daughter, Mrs. H. D. Wilson, are expected today. Leo Rapp, who is residing in California, has been notified of his father's serious illness.

Secure complete cooperation with all branches of county and state law enforcement departments by electing R. A. Hercher County Judge. (Adv.)

WILBUR ACADEMY REUNION TO BE HELD, JUNE 2

A large attendance is anticipated for the Umpqua Academy reunion to be held at Wilbur, Saturday, June 2. Information received by various members of the Umpqua Academy association, that sponsors the reunion each year, is to the effect that a great number of pioneers will be present to attend the program, which is to be featured by an address, it is expected, by Governor L. Patterson. The Umpqua Academy was the first school of academic learning in Oregon south of Salem, and many of the prominent men and women of early days in the state secured their education at this school, which was started as a religious institution. Each year a reunion of these students is held at Wilbur, and the date for this year's even has been set for Saturday, June 2, an excellent program being arranged.

Regulate the expense of county government to the lowest possible minimum by electing R. A. Hercher County Judge. (Adv.)

UMATILLA RIVER YIELDS VICTIM

(Associated Press Special Wire) PENDLETON, Ore., May 16.—The body of Ed Mathison, who was drowned in the Umatilla river five miles west of here April 28, was recovered Tuesday evening by deputy sheriffs a quarter mile below the spot where he disappeared in the swift current. The body was lodged against the roots of a tree, and though it was seen soon after the accident it was not thought at the time to be the body of a man.

ABDUCTORS OF OFFICERS BELIEVED BOOTLEGGERS

(Associated Press Special Wire) PORTLAND, Ore., May 16.—Discovery today of the automobile used by three armed men on kidnapping two deputy sheriffs from Forest Grove, led officers to believe they were on the trail of the men who were suspected of being bootleggers. Owners of the car was being sought today.

When A Girl Loves

by RUTH DEWY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Nathaniel Dann, struggling artist, is engaged to Virginia Brewster, whose father is a prominent Wall Street financier. After losing his fortune in speculation, Brewster dies suddenly of heart failure and leaves his daughter penniless.

Niel urges Virginia to marry him at once, but an old family friend, Frederick Dean, and his daughter, Clara, persuade her to make her temporary home with them. This decision angers Niel, for he suspects Dean's motives and does not like Clara.

Returning to his studio he finds his model, Chiri, waiting with hot coffee for him. He knows that Chiri is the daughter of Virginia and feeling that she will become a nuisance, he repulses her and she leaves in a temper.

Meanwhile, Virginia is puzzled and unhappy by the insinuations of Clara to the effect that now she will have to marry for money and a veiled warning against trespassing where her fiancé, Russell Wainwright, is concerned. She is also worried by the attentions of Mr. Dean, and resolves to tell Niel her fears. She phones his studio in the evening and is surprised to hear the voice of Chiri over the wire.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER VIII
Virginia recognized that slow, drawing "hello," instantly. It was the same voice that had answered her early that morning when she called Nathaniel and been told that she had the wrong number.

"What could it mean? Surely it was not possible that she would get the same wrong number a second time, Virginia was stunned into silence, held in the grasp of a great fear. Then her faith in Nathaniel reasserted itself, and she felt herself pricking with shame at the thought that had flashed through her mind.

"Oh, I'm sorry," she said politely. "I'm afraid I have the wrong number."

She started to replace the instrument on the stand when the other voice stopped her. "Are you Miss Brewster?" it asked.

Virginia's hand paused in mid-air. She was, for an instant, unable to move. Again doubt of Nathaniel was filling her mind with torturous conjectures. Then she lifted the instrument and brought herself to say with a brave measure of calm, "Yes, I'm Miss Brewster; may I speak to Mr. Dann?"

"Niel is out," the other voice returned brightly. "This is Chiri Mond. I recognized your voice, Miss Brewster. Shall I ask Niel to call you when he comes in?"

"No, thank you, Miss Mond. I'm going out immediately. Just tell Nathaniel I called, will you?"

When the connection was broken Chiri congratulated herself upon her luck. She had found Nathaniel at work a few minutes before, as he had told Virginia he meant to be, and as he had been not using her that afternoon Nathaniel had asked her to pose for half an hour or so. He wanted to finish up the illustrations in which he was using her before beginning work upon the murals.

He had discovered himself to be short of colors and had gone out to get them only about a minute after he had finished the murals.

"Fat chance," Chiri told him, she called. "Chiri Mond while she waited for Nathaniel's return."

"And if she recognized my voice she'll have something to think about."

Virginia did indeed have something to think about. She understood that Chiri might be in the studio at this hour as a model but why had she been there so early that morning? And why had she pretended, when she answered the telephone at that time, that it was not Niel's number? Niel had answered a moment later. . . . that he must have known what Chiri had done.

Virginia's cheeks blazed with outraged pride. Could Niel do such a thing for a girl like Chiri Mond? And now at this time when her head was already bowed with grief for her father? It was too cruel—too cruel to believe of Niel.

"There must be some explanation," Virginia protested against her fear that the only true explanation was one that would hurt her. "Niel couldn't do that," she cried over and over to herself.

She was sorry after a while that she had told Chiri she was going out. It had been a gesture of pride to say that. And to pay for making it she must forego asking Niel to spend the evening with her. The lingering bit of doubt that she could, if removed from her mind, make it impossible for her to telephone again and tell Chiri that she had plucked it nothing more. The girl was sharp enough to see that, Virginia murmured.

Perhaps Niel would call her. Virginia found some comfort in the thought but it left her as the day wore on and she did not hear from him.

Niel, working away at high speed, forgot the hours until the arrival of dusk compelled him to say aside his brushes. Then his thoughts turned to Virginia. He would have liked to go to her but he knew that he never could bring himself to be a familiar of the Dean household. No, he would wait for her to call him; he believed it was understood that she would arrange their next meeting. Virginia did not call.

Just before dinner Clara had come to her room to tell her they would have company—Russell and a woman Virginia did not know.

"Sorry, dear, if it appears inconsiderate, but you see Mrs. Farley comes in rather often. I'd just as well tell you about it. It's just as well that you should meet her now as later. She's a widow and got chummy with while I was abroad."

To the Republican Voters of Douglas County

As sheriff, I am required to enforce the law at any place in Douglas County at any time, day or night. As a result I cannot make a personal campaign in my own behalf without neglect of my duty.

I ask that every Republican voter in Douglas County consider this statement my personal pledge.

The duties of sheriff are hard and endless; criminals commit most of their crimes in the night; the sheriff must be ready to answer the call the minute it comes. Experience in police work is just as necessary to the sheriff as experience in farming is to the farmer or experience in clerical work to the bookkeeper. I have had over six years' experience in city and county police work. I believe that experience has fitted me to be sheriff. Since my appointment as sheriff last September I have given the best service I could to the office and I intend to continue to do so. (The results show that my services have been efficient).

I have no complaint or criticism against anyone. I am making my race on my standing in Douglas County as a man and on my reputation as an officer.

If I am elected to the office of sheriff I shall conduct the office as I have in the past. Firm, honest, vigorous law enforcement at as little expense to the taxpayer as possible is my pledge. On that basis I solicit your support.

Respectfully yours,

PERCY A. WEBB
