SQUAWS TO SELL REAL SHORTCAKE

That splendid booster organization, The Umpqua Squaws, again do their bit to advertise the Umpqua Valley strawberry. Each year the Squaws erect a booth on the main streets of the city and serve real strawberry shortcake to the carnival visitors. They realize no profit from the sale as they dispense a heaping dish of the shortcake, brimming over with thick cream for the small sum of 15 cents. This year the booth has been placed on the corner of Jackson and Oak streets and it is hoped that the ladies will be given liberal support. They have selected the best berries obtainable for their booth this year.

CONVENTION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS ENDS SUNDAY

Speech, Music, Breakfast Comprise Program Of Final Session

OFFICERS ARE NAMED

Mozelle Hair to Continue as President; National Head Is Heard By the Delegates

Today's ideals of American womanhood have been widely discussed and sought but there can hardly be need to look further than the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, of which the Roseburg and state clubs are affiliated, for all that is the ideal of forming to standard in perfection for woman of the present generation. The state convention which came to a very successful close here Sunday struck a hearty response from not only the hearts of federation members but also from hearts of the Roseburg people who became acquainted with the interpretation of the values of the club life and work.

Saturday Luncheon

The federated luncheon held Saturday noon in the Presbyterian church and served by a committee from the Roseburg club group, headed by Mrs. S. L. Kidder, was a delightful part of the day's program. Sponsors of the luncheon were presented by the Portland club to the women assembled and these songs were sung during the luncheon hour, led by Mae Ross-Walker of Portland, the Oregon federation song and yell leader. A booklet on "Know Portland," compiled and issued by Mayor George L. Baker, was also a token. The varied program and the address made by Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University of Oregon, featured the luncheon hour and at 2:30 o'clock the afternoon session was resumed in the Elks temple.

Main Business Session

Miss Mozelle Hair, state president, was in charge of the afternoon meeting. Grown singing was led by Mae Ross-Walker with Frances Lintott accompanist and Mrs. Irene Graham, made a report. A list of names for state officers for the new year was submitted and the committee suggested that these be unanimously elected, which the delegates voted to do.

Officers Elected

Unfinished and new business were disposed of and a revision of the state and national constitution was made. The report of the credentials committee was made by Miss Vera Fredrickson of Roseburg. The total number of delegates, outside of state officers and visitors attending was given as 71.

Will Visit Europe

Some very interesting data was given by Miss Phillips to the convention visitors. Facts on the activities of the national organization were told in an interesting manner and was given the good will tour that the national organization is sponsoring for the summer. Miss Phillips will be spokesman for the party and Miss Mary C. Kennedy of La Fayette, Indiana, will be its conductor. The group will sail July 27 and will remain in Europe until September 1. A large number of nationally known business and professional women will be included among those making the trip and the tour will have unusual prestige by reason of the fact that arrangements have been made with the United States Department of Commerce whereby the commercial attaché of the American embassy will meet and greet the federation party immediately upon its arrival in each European city and arrange introductions to the officials and the business women the travelers desire to meet.

Stunts and Frolic Follow

Following Miss Phillips' talk the convention adjourned to the ladies rooms in the Elks temple, which was a veritable garden of flowers and formed a unique and attractive setting for the stunts and frolic which were diversions for the rest of the evening.

National President at Banquet

Miss Lena Madessin Phillips, the national president of the federation, as she entered the banquet room of the First Methodist Episcopal church with Miss Mozelle Hair, state president, who presided at the restoration banquet at 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening, was given a stirring ovation by the club women and guests, who rose as she took her place at the speakers' table and gave loud applause.

Concert Orchestra Plays

As the guests were being seated for the dinner, which was given by the Roseburg Women's club, the Roseburg Concert Orchestra of which Mrs. A. J. Young is director, played several selections.

The church banquet room made a colorful setting for the evening's program. Profusions of garden flowers decorated the entire room and the tables were appointed in a lovely color scheme. Low bowls of white, sweet peas and flowering mustard, with ferns, were spaced at intervals and baskets of cut flowers were placed in the centers of the tables, while at various points, tall yellow candles, placed in a floral decoration, burned during the dinner hour.

Songs and Yells The early part of the dinner hour was featured by songs and yells by the various club groups. "My Old Kentucky Home," was sung by all the clubs in respect to Miss Phillips, whose home is in that state.

Miss Mozelle Hair, state president, made a brief talk, extending her thanks to Roseburg for its wonderful hospitality and stated that the club and people of the city could have done no more to have added to the pleasure of this convention.

Address of Welcome

J. E. McClintock, representing the Roseburg business men, made an address of welcome to the state and national presidents and delegates and visitors.

Following the welcome Miss Helen Casey of Roseburg, with piano accompaniment by Miss Gladys Strong, sang "Mon Cour Si Je Voyais" and "Saint Saens and 'La Serenita,' Tosti."

The Marshallfield chorus, of which Edythe Laegerstrom is director, sang "At Parting," Rogers and "I Sing Because I Love to Sing," Singulati. Miss Margaret Stauff was the accompanist.

Miss Madessin Scott of Roseburg with accompaniment by Miss Gladys Strong entertained with two violin solos, "Hejre Katl," Hubay and "Chant de Veslemoy," Halversen.

Madam Frida Stjerna, well known vocalist of Portland, gave a delightful number and the Portland chorus under her direction entertained with selections.

The introduction of the past president, present, and the national officer followed.

National President Addresses

Miss Lena Madessin Phillips of New York City, the national president, whose address to the women was one of the most outstanding and enjoyable features of the entire convention, was introduced and immediately was the center of attention. Her personality is one which instantly draws and her dynamic manner commanded the interest of every one present.

Miss Phillips spoke before one of the largest assemblages of women in the state in recent months and there were representatives from affiliated clubs from nearly every section in Oregon to whom her fine address at once became a message to apply to their work in the state federation.

"Avoid self pity," is the terse advice given to the business women of today by Miss Phillips in her address.

The woman who dares believe in herself and ventures into the unknown is the woman who becomes self-independent. Endurance is the all-important factor in the fundamentals of success in business, life and progress.

"Women must be sold on themselves, they must appreciate themselves and state their own value to other women," the national officer declared. "Above all they must learn their value to their employer and demand a just salary. Unselfish business women learn that it is not unbusinesslike to ask for a raise they will not get very far in the best of times." "Women must be sold on themselves," she said.

Miss Helen Casey of Roseburg gave a delightful vocal solo. The group sang a hymn and the evening benediction closed the meeting.

At 10:30 o'clock, a meeting of the new executive council was held and the remainder of the morning was spent with scenic drives about Umpqua valley, Roseburg people being hosts to the visitors.

This closed one of the most delightful and successful conventions of the federation, according to visitors and officers who were here and expressed their appreciation of the fine hospitality extended them during the convention.

Directors Elected

The new directors who were elected Saturday afternoon and announced at the banquet Saturday evening are: Ona Renay of Oregon City, finance chairman; Bertha C. Smith of Coquille, Emblem chairman; Colia Bevier of Astoria, membership chairman; Dr. Lucetta Smith of Roseburg, official organ chairman; Dorothy N. Povey of Portland, publicity.

The Roseburg club is again fortunate in having a member on the state executive council, Dr. Smith being the chairman of the official organ and emblem.

Resolutions Passed

The following resolutions were passed at the main business session: Endorsement of the Education Bill, providing for a secretary of education, to be a member of the President's cabinet; and recommending the participation of the United States in a World Court.

National Officer Touring

Lena Madessin Phillips, the national officer, is being entertained today by the Portland club at a large luncheon. Her western trip this year is due to her acceptance of invitations to speak at the state federation convention and from Oregon she will go to Idaho to speak at the state convention at Boise.

Dr. Banks Gives Address

Dr. Louis Albert Banks was the featured speaker at the breakfast.

"It is a pleasure and a privilege to say a brief word of congratulation to you ladies this morning," he said. "This is a wonderful age for womanhood. When I was a boy, all the great colleges were closed to women. Now they are all open. There were no women doctors; now they abound. There were no women lawyers; now an Assistant Attorney General of the United States is a woman. There are several women members of Congress. Both Texas and Wyoming have had women governors. In educational circles women lead America. In my youth there were no women preachers. I had the great honor of intimate friendship with Frances E. Willard, Mary A. Livermore, Lucy Stone and Julia Ward Howe, among the greatest human personalities of their age. All desired to be preachers, and would have graced any pulpit in America. They lived in an age of closed doors for women in the pulpit. But they are flocking to the pulpit now, and I am sure are to be a great blessing."

This convention of your own proves how women are growing in importance in business circles. All the barriers are going down; all the doors are to open.

"Let me close with a little poem of my own entitled 'The Woman's Age,' which more fully expresses my personal thought and feeling on this question of the new age: 'She writes her name on every page; A time for her to wisdom hark, And on world councils make her mark. She holds the future in her hands; Can mold the forces in all lands; Can bring mankind a brighter day Where noblest dreams shall hold their sway.'

"Her Red Cross mothers all the world; Her woman's banner's high unfurled; She teaches all our girls and boys, And dictates where we find our joy. I've faith that she will stand the test, And bring us only what is best; That she will grow to match her fate, And be to man his heaven-sent mate."

"We hope to see an age when mind shall find its grace in being kind, We hope to reach the place where heart shall rule, instead of technique art; When reason takes the place of force, Appeal to fight our great resource; The foolish wastefulness of war, The foolish wastefulness of war."

"We hail you, partners in the race, To make this world a better place, We bid you welcome in the sun—Our noblest hopes are always one, Both man and woman, too, must serve— From that great purpose never swerve; In heart and mind we're much the same, God give us grace to play the game!"

Miss Helen Casey of Roseburg gave a delightful vocal solo. The group sang a hymn and the evening benediction closed the meeting.

At 10:30 o'clock, a meeting of the new executive council was held and the remainder of the morning was spent with scenic drives about Umpqua valley, Roseburg people being hosts to the visitors.

KIDNAPERS BLAMED FOR MISSING CHILD

$5000 REWARD SPURS SEARCH FOR MICHIGAN TOT

(By NEA Service)

PONTIAC, Mich., May 14.—Harry Monson and his wife are not rich. But they are willing to go into debt for the remainder of their lives if $5,000 will restore their missing 4-year-old son, Norman.

Norman has been gone for more than a week, and his father and mother believe he has been kidnaped. So they are offering a reward of $5,000 for his safe return—offering it although $5,000 looks almost like all the money in the world to them. All Michigan has joined in the search.

Police searched the city. Farmers living on the outskirts of town told of seeing a man leading a weeping child through a desolate stretch of gravel and woodland, and the vicinity was combed thoroughly, but no clue was found.

The father hired private detectives. Once they thought they were near success; they had a "live tip" that a man held for some petty crime in an Ohio city could tell them about the supposed kidnap. They hurried to see him, and the hopes of the Monsons rose. But the "tip" was false. The detectives returned empty handed.

At first the police believed the boy might have met with an accident. They have abandoned that theory now, however, and are convinced that he was kidnaped, either for ransom or revenge—although Monson knows of no one who might hold a grudge against him.

The Monsons have been busy figuring lately—figuring how to raise the $5,000 they are offering as a reward. They have decided to mortgage their home, although that will put them in debt for years. Police and detectives are fairly swamped with "tips" phoned in by citizens. To date every one has proved fruitless, but none is considered too fantastic to investigate. The officers hope that sooner or later one of these wild clues will bring results.

Norman Monson, 4, who is mysteriously missing.
