

LITTLE MINISTER WILL SPEAK EACH NIGHT THIS WEEK

"Choose Ye This Day Whom Ye Will Serve," was the Little Minister's subject last night. The little lad spoke so clearly that his audience was greatly moved. People are marveling at the profound wisdom of this little child, and his sweet simplicity. "A good business man chooses whether he will sell a certain piece now or wait for better times. In school we have to choose whether we are going to pass an honest examination or whether we are going to cheat through a groceryman must choose whether he will weigh his hand along with the vegetables or whether honesty is the best policy," said Richard Hendrick. "There are no good reasons why I should serve the world but there are urgent reasons I believe for serving the Lord. One of the greatest reasons is because God so loved the world, that He gave His only-begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him shall not perish, but have everlasting life. Let us choose the road that leads toward the best life and think what the end of the road leads to, not the beginning. "The Bible says in Luke 16:13, "No servant can serve two masters. For he will hate the one and love the other or else he will hold to the one and despise the other; ye can not serve God and Mammon. In other words, no man can serve two masters. "Are we choosing the world and its riches? The Bible says that they are clouds without water, carried about of winds; trees whose fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots; raging waves of the sea, wandering stars, to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever. Richard Hendrick will speak every night this week at the Bible Standard Temple. This afternoon there will be a special meeting for girls at 1:30. Mrs. Hendrick will speak on "Keep the Home Fires Burning" at 2:30. At the 3:30 she will tell the story of Richard's life. -CORRESPONDENT.

PEKING TO FALL TO NATIONALS WITHOUT FIGHT (Continued from page 1) was reported at Tientsin living in the Japanese concession. Defense Collapses The dispatch said that Japanese reports indicated the main Northern army had collapsed along the Peking-Hankow railway and that the Nationalists might occupy Peking within five days. While foreigners in Peking probably will not be endangered, it was thought that the majority would leave within the next 48 hours because of the danger of looting by the defeated Northern troops. Chang Tso-Lin, until recent victorious drives of the Nationalists from the north, was the most powerful lord in China and was dictator of the northern government. Chang, who is about 53 years old, first came into prominence as a bandit leader in Northern Manchuria. He fought for the Japanese in the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-05 and then joined the Chinese regular army becoming military governor of Fengtien in 1911. As the central government at Peking weakened, Chang became more and more independent and after varying fortunes, he decisively defeated Wu Pei-fu in 1925 but was betrayed by Feng Yu Hsiang, now a Nationalist ally, who seized Peking. Feng, however, did not last long in Peking and in the spring of 1926 was overthrown by a combination consisting of Wu Pei-fu and Chang E-shan. Since then he has steadily lost ground and is now virtually out of the picture, while Chang took Peking and has exercised dictatorial powers there ever since. Retreat Ordered TOKYO, June 1.—Advices from Sun-Chang, Northern commander now in the fight against the Nationalists, has ordered the Northern forces on the Tientsin-Peking railway front to carry out a general retreat. Chang's Valedictory PEKING, June 1.—At an impressive gathering in the presidential palace this afternoon, Marshal Chang Tso-Lin addressed the diplomatic corps. He intimated that he was remaining in Peking pending the outcome of a decisive battle (to which he expected to be waged) at Luliho, 35 miles to the southwest. Chang recounted his efforts since he took over the reins of government at Peking 17 months ago to maintain peace and protect foreigners. He gave assurances that he was arranging such protection and would continue to do so in the immediate future, regardless of his personal whereabouts. Although the dictator's address and the reply by the Dutch minister, W. J. Oudendijk, the dean of the corps, avoided any specific reference to plans for Chang's early departure, the opinion of the diplomats was that the dictator's speech was in the nature of a valedictory. The event was described as somehow affecting. The dictator's assurances of protective arrangements in the immediate future were received as a hopeful indication that the expected handing over of the capital to the Nationalists will be accomplished peacefully. WOMAN ACCUSED OF MURDERING MANY BELGRADE, June 1.—Accused of selling insidious poison mixtures during the last fifty years to married peasant women who wished to rid themselves of their husbands, a ninety-year-old peasant clairvoyant named Anujka Patinya, of Vladimirovac, Bosnia, has been arrested and charged with murder. The number of husbands who have fallen victims to her slow acting poisons are said to reach some scores.

Foreign Happenings of Interest Chinese Frustrate Efforts to Suppress Opium Traffic and Habit — Child Slavery Follows Famine — Tree Disease From America Destroys Scotland's Firs — League Considers Alcohol (Associated Press Leased Wire) POOCHOW, China, May 31.—Opium, for centuries past, the cause of wars throughout China, continues as one of this nation's principal causes of disorder, dishonesty and unrest. Efforts have and are being made throughout China to abolish the trade, but the revenues to be derived from the traffic and the habit, clung as it is on many of the populace, prevent and frustrate much of the effort made for abolition. Enthusiastic sounding programs for opium suppression have been issued by the various Chinese governments and the legions of warlords, big and little. But few of them seek to accomplish the smallest part of their proposals. Natives Resist Search A vivid example of the working of the Peking provincial opium suppression bureau, exposing the difference of opinion existing as regards the drug, has come to light here. Two opium inspectors from the county seat of Futsing, near here, proceeded, accompanied by a platoon of Chinese marines to a nearby village looking for opium. The villagers resented the search and in the fight that followed two marines were killed, the marines were overcome by sheer numbers, a considerable part of their force was severely beaten and the opium inspectors and marines alike retreated in disorder to Futsing. One of the inspectors, a Chinese of the old style with long flowing whiskers, characteristics of a former generation of Manchurian authorities, was forced to submit to having his whiskers pulled out by the roots. Since this incident there has been no attempt by the authorities to supervise or inspect opium activities in that neighborhood. About Futsing there are hundreds of poppy fields for opium production. The suppression bureau collects a high tax for allowing poppy growing, and no effort is made to destroy the fields. Slavery in Famine's Wake PEKING, May 31.—The white slave trade—if it can be called that among the Chinese—follows greedily in the trail of the famine that stalks through a wide belt south of Peking. Missionary reports disclose that in the towns of many towns in southern Chihli procurers from Shanai provinces have set up agencies to buy young girls from starving parents. In Shanai children, boys and girls alike are being sold into labor slavery to become farm workers or household drudges. It is difficult to estimate the extent of this practice, for no one wants to know that starvation has brought him to this pass. Mothers have drowned their children rather than sell them or see them starve.

Kaiser Bill and Cantigny Ten Years After the War

Ten years after the Yanks launched their first big attack by capturing Cantigny on May 23, 1918, and turned the tide of the war, Herr Wilhelm Hohenzollern, the former Kaiser, continues to live in quiet seclusion at his estate near Doorn, Holland, as these recent and newest pictures of him show. On the right is the former German emperor enjoying a quiet smoke after tea with friends on his vast and beautiful estate. The police dog's name is Harro, a pet of Princess Hermine. At the left is the former ruler at his wood pile in a far corner of the spacious grounds. He keeps fit by daily sawing and chopping. Below is Cantigny as it looked when the Americans entered the town 10 years ago, and a scene showing how the same spot looks today. The monument in the picture on the right stands on exactly the same spot as that occupied by the devastated farmhouse on the left. In this twisted timber ruin, the only structure still standing, Americans captured several German machine gunners.

Markets (Associated Press Leased Wire) PORTLAND, June 1.—Canners have started taking Oregon strawberries and indications are that the market will keep well cleaned up on good quality stuff hereafter. Supplies were ample to meet all demands today, however, and prices were from 10 to 25 per crate under yesterday's quotations with most sales bringing from 75c to $1.15. Demand for gooseberries continued dull. Spinach was also rather scarce and the price was firmer around $1.00@1.10 per crate. Lettuce, on the other hand, was quite plentiful and of average high quality. Most sales today were at $1.25 per crate. Except for an increase of half to 25 cents per dozen in the quotation of standard first egg prices in that division were unchanged. Country dressed meats were somewhat easier in all classes except lamb which were in lighter supply. Veal moved slowly at 19 @20c, but most sales fetched the lower figure. Pork was down about half a cent at 13@13 1/2c. Spring lamb sold around 22@25c, a jump of from 2 to 3c, but old crop lamb held about steady. Poultry quotations showed no noteworthy changes but receipts of desirable sized broilers were light. Choice broilers over 1 1/2 pounds sold as high as 30c, but the bulk of broilers moved around 25c. Leghorn broilers were steady at 25c. BOSTON, June 1.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: "The wool market here has been possibly lower than last week, but prices are firmly maintained and if there is a tendency it is against the buyer, notwithstanding the fact that the goods market have given poor encouragement to the wool merchant, on account of the adverse weather. "The west is being rapidly cleared of wool, with interest focused on Texas at the moment, when best 12 months clips have been selling on the upper side of $1.15, clean at Boston, and eight months wools at $1.05 and $1.02. "Foreign markets are all quiet but very firm. "Mohair is slow of sale but there is a good clearance reported at the Cape and in Constantinople of the new clips. "The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following wool quotations tomorrow: Oregon: Fine and F. M. staple $1.50@1.15; fine and F. M. clothing $1.00@1.05; Valley No. 3, $1.05@1.10. Mohair: Original bag average 12 months Oregon 70c 72c. Graded stock: First combing $2.50@2.60; good carding 55@60.
