ROSEBURG, OREGON, FRIDAY, JUNE 22, 1928.

MERCHANTS BEING "GYPED"

The merchants of Roseburg, as well as other business institutions, including the News-Review, are being "gypped" each month for various sums of money for special police protection during the night.

What we're waiting for is a moving picture where the hero, with just one minute to spare, picks up the telephone to tell the warden that another has confessed and that the doomed man is innocent, and gets a busy signal.

As soon as the democratic nominee for president is "lined out" the big parade will start for the November election.

We are just passing from spring to summer—and it certainly feels good to the natives in this neck of the woods who are enjoying an atmosphere unequalled by any other section in the state.

Judging from comment prevalent about the old town at this particular moment Roseburg's city election will not be as tame as some people expect.

Roseburg's next big event is the G. A. R. convention which opens next Tuesday. Give them a hearty welcome—and all that goes with it.

Always those who have the most to say regarding the characters of others are trying to fool themselves for their own protection.

Local grocerymen state there has been a great slump in the sale of canned corn during the past few days.

Merchants who use the advertising columns of the News-Review can always depend on getting results.

Corn on the cob has no comparison to corn in the sewer.

A little rain right now wouldn't be a bad idee, Jupel!

Judgin' from the newspaper report of the Walker-Hudkins battle last night both of the boys musta been mad at each other.

They're still findin' owls in the top of the courthouse and the fella over there are figgerin' on boilin' 'em just to see what the proverbial boiled owl looks like.

They haven't taken our fingerprints yet, folks, nor shaved our head—but if this hot weather keeps up, we're in favor of the latter.

Attention!

In choosing your swimming suit let color harmony be your guide.

Jantzen is the foremost in the field to make a colored swimming suit to harmonize with your complexion.

For the blonde, Jantzen blue, recalling the tropical blue of the gulf stream.

For auburn hair, Jantzen emerald green.

For brunettes, Jantzen orange with the light glow of sunset.

This is why the diving girl predominates wherever swimming is done.

THE TINYMITE STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNOCK

"Giddap there, shark," one Tiny cried. "You're giving us a dandy ride. We don't know whose we're looking for, but neither do you. The fun is to travel on these. This, that is, if nothing goes amiss. We all are feeling very good out in this nice fresh air."

Thus Dairyland was left behind, but as a Tiny seemed to mind, the shark swam through the water, and it pulled the boat real fast. Said Clowny, "Gee, what would we do if he should bite our rope in two?" But nothing like this happened, and an hour or so went past.

"Oh, look, we're coming to a bend. It surely is not the end of this fine ride," yelled Carpy. "It would spoil a wondrous thrill. It wasn't long till they could see that he was wrong as he could be. The stream just took a sudden turn and went on, farther still.

All of a sudden, Mister Shark decided he would end the lark. Perhaps the pulling made him tired. He jumped with all his might, and let the rope fly into air, and caused a momentary scare. "He's gone," exclaimed wee Carpy, as the shark swam out of sight.

"That's just our luck," somebody said. "Now we must work, to move ahead. Let's take turns at the paddle." Then the bunch heard Scooty rummy. "Sny, look we're as larky as can be." The Tinymites all looked and saw some monkey up on shore.

The monkey then amused the crowd. They hopped around and squealed about "Let's land," exclaimed one Tiny. "We can surely have some fun." And so they PORTLAND, Ore., June 22—Egg values advanced sharply yesterday, all grades moving up from 1 cent to 11 cents per dozen. Both grades of mediums showed the greatest strength jumping a cent and a half to 26, on extras and to 25 cents on flats. Standard flats advanced a cent to 29 while standard extras rose a half cent to the same figure. Continued light receipts coupled with good storage demand and higher prices in the south indicate that prices will remain firm.

Country dressed meats and poultry showed no price changes today and trading was normal. Receipts were moderate but enough to satisfy demand.

Potatoes prices were unchanged, with only two turns daily.
