Friends departing on extended trips and those arriving from out of town, stopping for brief intervals to be entertained by town groups, have provided interest in the month past.

Among those to lately arrive are Miss June Wharton, who has been living in Los Angeles for more than a year, and Miss Emma Ueland, who traveled west from Geneva, New York, where for the past season she has been instructing in a girls' school, to join Miss Wharton in the southern city and return here with her this week.

Friends anticipate the arrival of another former Roseburg maid, Miss Florence Wharton, who sailed June 15 for Honolulu, joined her mother, Mrs. Chas. W. Wharton, at Seattle Thursday and is to return here for the vacation season. Mrs. Wharton is in company with Mrs. Nathan Fullerton and Mrs. J. F. Barker went to the Washington city last week. Mrs. Barker is to remain there for a time and will visit with her son and daughter, Clifford Barker and Mrs. L. W. Jones, who were formerly of Portland. Mrs. Joase will accompany her mother home for a stay.

Roseburg Girl and Portland Man Wed at Pretty Ceremony Sunday

Under a beautiful arch of pink roses, interspersed with greenery, Miss Opal Noyer of Roseburg and Arnold Tollefson of Portland plighted their troth at one of the prettiest weddings which have characterized the month of June. The ceremony being an event of last Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Minnie Noyer, at 560 Pitzer street.

The living rooms of the home were a bower of seasonal flowers, lilies, Canterbury bells, sweet peas, sweet Williams and white daisies, being attractively arranged in the color scheme.

Preceding the ceremony "At Dawning" was played and as the brides were heard the members of the bridal party took their places under the arch. Rev. R. W. Dairs, pastor of the First Christian church, read the pretty service at 3:30 o'clock before an assemblage of 25 intimate friends and relatives of the couple.

The bride was a charming picture in an unusual crown of blue and silver lace over white satin and carried a shower bouquet of red buds and ferns. Her slippers were of pale lavender.

Mrs. E. Morgan, sister of the bridegroom, was the bride's attendant and Joe Noyer, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served in the dining room. Mrs. George Cox and Mrs. R. Roberts assisted Mrs. Noyer.

Mr. Tollefson, a former Roseburg man, has returned to Portland and will be joined there the first of the month by Mrs. Tollefson, who is completing her work at the local telephone exchange.

Mrs. C. J. Bjerg Is Honor Guest at Shower

Business Women to Travel in Southland on Way to Convention

NEW YORK, June 23.—Two special trains from the north will carry through Dixie the delegates to the tenth annual convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, which meets in New Orleans the week of July 9.

One of the trains, having as its honor guest Miss Lena Madelin Phillips of New York, president of the federation, will start from New York City, but will carry delegates from all sections of the north and east. It will leave here at noon, July 5.

The second special on which Miss Elizabeth Fitzgerald of Salt Lake City, first vice president, will be the honor guest, will have Chicago as its official starting point and will leave at 8:15 p. m., July 6.

The president's special will make stops in Washington, Charlottesville, Va.; Greensboro, N. C.; Atlanta, Ga., and Mobile, Ala. At Charlottesville the party will visit the University of Virginia, Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson, and the grave of Jefferson, upon which Miss Phillips will place a wreath as the inscription a tribute to the author of the Declaration of Independence. At Atlanta one of the objectives will be the famous carved figure of Confederate leaders on Stone Mountain. At Montgomery a typical southern barbecue will be provided for the delegates.

The vice president's special will stop at Memphis, Tenn., and Jackson, Miss., and will join the president's special on the morning of July 8 at Gulfport, Miss., where there will be a day of entertainment on the gulf coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo D. Henderson (Beulah Jarvis) of Eugene were visitors in this city Tuesday.

Summer Sportswear Takes To Prints

Combined With Plain Fabrics, They Lend Distinction to the Outdoors.

By HENRI BENDEL (For NEA Service)

NEW YORK, June 23.—Sports clothes take to prints in the latest editions of what well-groomed women will wear on the side-lines of golf and tennis.

Polka dots stand first in popularity. And because of their newness in the realm of sports wear, polka dots take liberty with sizes and may be as big as a dollar or as small as a pin-point.

Next to polka dots for sports come the new tweed patterned silks. These, in colors, in appearance and in effect resemble the finest of imported tweeds, plus that luxurious something that silk has over and above all its other appeal.

Plain and Prints Combined

In the manner of fashioning these new printed sports things—the feminine style is the right one. But never, never on out-of-door things can fussiness be tolerated this year. The sharply defined up-and-down of last season is not far enough back for furberlows to have any favor at all.

It is still better taste to combine plain material with prints than to have either stand alone. And in the manner of combining we have the distinctive touches that this year's clothes cannot live without.

Many sports costumes take top-coats or cardigans over their two-piece chie to form ensembles good for cooler days. These top coats may be real tweed in matching tones and designs. Or they may be the plain silk over the printed suit.

Back fullness is one thing some new skirts are featuring. All skirts are fuller. Many insist on belts. If so, they usually put them near the waistline and, if I may predict a brown flat crepe. Its skirt is frankly gored, a very new note. This gives a little more freedom and does away with a bunglesome hip-line.

Here's how prints combine with plain fabrics to give summer sportswear distinction: brown polka dotted crepe, set off by brown flat crepe at the cuffs, girdle and v-neck, fashion the intriguing suit at the left; the other is of the new tweed silk combined with plain English red.

Polka Dots, Sized From Half-dollars to Pin-points, Lead in Popularity.

Deep cuffs of brown add a novel note—similar to the long dark kid gloves of another era. Across the body of this suit the brown crepe fits in diagonal edged banding and brown crepe, the V-neck, running on down like a jabot right on the dress.

Tapering Diagonal Lines

With this goes an eye-shade pillbox hat, a new shiny, rough straw that has the crispness and assurance of youth in its weave. This needs only a simple band of brown to be vastly chic. It's crown is deeper in front than back, giving a line not dissimilar to the points on the jumper banding.

The other model shows the new tweed silk at its best—in a charming English red, that new, bright shade that women find so becoming. Here we have tapering diagonal lines giving the broad-shouldered effect that is sportive looking. A collar of tweed opens out, banded with red.

The skirt of red and beige tweed silk has tucks running up and down and inserts of stitched tucks running across. Very novel and quite full is this skirt when its tucks let out their fullness.

A feminine touch that is new is the sleeve with its puff of tweed silk gathered into a plain cuff of red.

With this jaunty sports suit goes one of the Reoubux three-cornered ballbunt hats of English red and a deep tan. This season is the first to sponsor the tricorne for almost a decade. Always becoming, it is no wonder women are finding them to their liking again.

summer style, the normal waist-line will be the only one that counts by the time July is here.

Newest in sports wear is a brown and string colored polka-dotted crepe suit, combined with
