Unidentified Female Soldier in Confederate Ranks Listed Among Those Who Perished at Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 11.—Sixty-five years have passed since the battle of Gettysburg, but even schoolboys have in mind the main events of that decisive struggle of the Civil war.

They know of Meade, thrust into command of a great army three days before it was to be drawn into one of the outstanding battles of a century; of Lee, the beloved, cheered even by the wounded among his broken troops, despite failure and threatened disaster; Hancock, who shed his blood defending the fighting ground he had reported as "not unfavorable with good troops"; the taciturn Longstreet; and many more.

Heroic John Burns
But there were some who played minor parts in the present, without military status and with no legitimate place in the picture, and also won their bit of fame.

Among these was John Burns, 70-year-old Gettysburg constable, who shouldered a musket on the memorable first day of July, 1863, and joined the skirmishers in the open field. He received three wounds, fighting with the Iron Brigade, and was taken prisoner, but he survived to be embraced by Abraham Lincoln.

Shells Delight Boy
Among the foreign visitors with the Army of Northern Virginia at Gettysburg was Lieut. Col. Fremantle of the Coldstream Guards, oldest regiment in the British army.

About noon on July 2, Fremantle and an Austrian visitor rode off in search of a commanding position from which to view the impending spectacle without being exposed to federal artillery fire. They headed for the cupola of a church near the town of Gettysburg. Before they reached the limits of the town the artillery and musketry and the earth trembled under the roar. Somewhere on their way they had been joined by a 12-year-old boy on horseback, and he was with the officers when they rode into a heavy cross-fire. "This archer," Colonel Fremantle recorded, "took a diabolical interest in the bursting of the shells, and screamed with delight when he saw them take effect."

The visiting officers did not view the hazard with the same enthusiasm as their young companion, and when two shrapnel shells burst so near that a guide was hit, they decided to return to Longstreet's headquarters.

The boy they never saw again, nor did they learn his name or destination.

The Unknown Woman
The Confederate army had the "heroine" of Gettysburg. A single line of type in the official records of the war department in her epitaph.

Reporting, two days after the battle, the burial of 1,629 Federal and Confederate dead at Gettysburg, Brig. Gen. William Hays concluded:

"Remarks: One female (private), in rebel uniform." Who this girl or woman was, whence she came, with what command she fought, or by what trick of fate she was swept into the ranks of Lee's army are unanswered questions.

The woman may have followed where Armstrong led the Virginians, carrying his hat on the point of his sword, or she may have witnessed the massacre of color-bearing in Archer's Tennessee Brigade, but there is nothing like this to be certain about.

An inquiry addressed to the war department regarding this solitary woman brought this response from the office of the adjutant general: "Nothing has been found of record in this office by which the identity of the female private in rebel uniform, buried at Gettysburg and referred to in the report of General Hays can be determined."

ROSEBURG WILL HAVE ENTRY IN RADIO AUDITION

Believing that the city can receive a great deal of benefit through participation in the Atwater Kent radio audition, the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the local contest this year and will encourage the entrance of all local amateur singers.

This is a national contest in which the country is divided into districts, the districts divided by states and the states by communities.

In each community the singers may compete for honors. Then the representatives of each city or town will be given a hearing at Portland, where the winners will be selected to represent the state at the district audition. Then from the district contest the winners go to New York for the national audition.

Richard Haller, of KGW, Portland, is assisting the Chamber of Commerce in the local plans. J. A. Harding, president of the Roseburg chamber, has appointed a committee consisting of T. H. Ness, W. E. Ott and Charles McElhinny to take charge of the arrangements in this city.

The contest is open to any non-professional singer under 25 years of age and one young man and one young woman will be selected to represent Roseburg.

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE GAMES

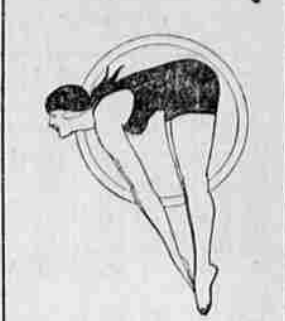

(Associated Press League Wire)
Behind fear hit pitched by Jack Kilgus, Portland yesterday stepped out for a 5 to 3 win over the Missions. Harry Krasner, veteran southpaw, had a wild streak and the Beavers got to him for six hits and five runs in five innings. Batteries: Krasner, Davenport and Baldwin; Whitney, Kilgus and Almsmith.

A tribute of runs in four innings gave Seattle a 4 to 2 victory over Hollywood. Led by Rube, with a double and a single, the Indians pounded two stars twirlers for a fourth hit, while Cole held Hollywood in seven scattered bingles. Batteries: McCabe, Mulcahy and Agnew; Cole and Schmidt.

Long eighth inning home run drive by Smoak today carried the Seals to a six to five win over Sacramento and placed them in a four way tie for first place in the coast league. Finelli gave "Dutch" Beuter a lead in the sixth which he lashed with one on, but the Seals came back and scored the count in the seventh when Sheely crashed a four bagger with the bases loaded. Sacramento outthrew the Seals 5 to 3. Batteries: Kuna and Seeverd; Beuter and Spry.

Another fence busting orgy was staged by Astoria and Los Angeles. The Angels won 10 to 3. Batteries: Smith and Smith; Smith and Smith.

BALL SCORES IN MAJOR LEAGUES

(Associated Press League Wire)

The west, with its many pitfalls for the unwary, has no booster in John McGraw, the "master-mind" pilot of the New York Giants.

After taking three straight on the chin at Pittsburgh, the Giants moved into the even more dangerous territory of St. Louis yesterday and encountered a storm of home runs that gave the team a 5 to 1 victory in the first game of the series.

Their defeat dropped the Giants into third place, Cincinnati moving up into the runner-up position by its 12 to 4 defeat of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Hartnett's single with the bases loaded in the ninth gave the Chicago Cubs a 7 to 6 decision over the Boston Braves in a wild battle at Wrigley field.

The Warner boys drove in the tying and winning runs in the Pittsburgh Pirates' 6 to 5 victory over the Phillies.

The Washington Senators moved up to a tie for fourth place in the American league by beating the Cleveland Indians in both ends of a doubleheader, 5 to 3 and 9 to 6.

Los Blue and Frank O'Rourke led the St. Louis Browns to a come back triumph over the Detroit Red Sox in the opening game of the series.

HOME RUN RECORD IN COAST LEAGUE MAY GO HIGHER

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND (Associated Press Sports Writer)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—It's a pretty dead ball that hasn't a few dozen home runs sewed up in its leather cover.

Coast League batmen have found that out and are whaling the sphere to all corners of the lot this season. The result is that last year's record of circuit drives seems due to be surpassed by one or more players.

Elmer Smith of Portland cracked out 46 homers in 1927 to lead the parade. This year, with the season but one week past the half way mark, Smoak today, slugging 22 full of the Seals, has punched 22 full fare tickets in the proper space. Unless he breaks an arm, he may complete his 1928 fence busting activities with a larger number than did Smith last year.

Earl Averill, who also pastimes in the outfield for the Seals, is not far behind his team mate as the season takes up today for this week's series. He has leaned heavily on pitchers' offerings 18 times and barring unlooked for difficulties should be up around last year's record if not bettering it.

Chili McDaniel, Mission first baseman and Durr Arlett, Oakland right fielder, are crowding Averill with 15 each. At the 12 station are Charley Tolson and Walter Berger, both with Los Angeles, and "Fuzzy" Hult of the Athletics. Hollis Thurston, pitcher first baseman of the Seals, is eighth on the list with an even dozen of the wallops that call for loud cheers from the crowd.

INSPECTOR AND FOREST RANGERS HAVE CONFERENCE

John McLaren of Missoula, Montana, forest inspector with the U. S. forest service, who was here for a week making an inspection tour of the Umpqua forests, held an all day conference Tuesday with Fred Asam, ranger of the North Umpqua district, Charles Thurston, ranger of the Quartz Mountain district, and D. M. Matthews, assistant supervisor of Umpqua forests, at the federal building.

The meeting was held for the purpose of discussing the angle of fire control which has to do with public cooperation, ranger work and individual help. Mr. McLaren for many years has been engaged in this work in district two, which includes Colorado and the lake states and has been greatly interested in its development. He told many of his personal experiences which had to do with forest protection work.

STRANGLER LEWIS DOWNS PLESTIAN IN 3-FALL BOUT

(Associated Press League Wire)
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 10.—Ed (Strangler) Lewis had a busy evening defending his world's heavyweight wrestling title against Martin Plestian, Chicago, last night. He won, but only after going three falls.

The champion used a series of headlocks with the Chicago grappler for the first fall in 27 minutes and 21 seconds. Plestian took the second in 17 minutes and 57 seconds with a crotch and half Nelson. The same hold was employed by Lewis to take the deciding fall in seven minutes, 21 seconds.

In taking the second fall, Plestian locked his flaps and brought them down with terrific force on the back of Lewis' head. The blow pitched the champion face forward to the mat and before he could get out of danger, Plestian pinned him with a crotch and half Nelson.

Nick Larso, former Notre Dame athlete, defeated Cowboy Jack McCarthy, of Montana, in 12 minutes and 14 seconds in a preliminary.

GRAIN RATE HEARING RESUMED IN PORTLAND

PORTLAND, July 10.—With a fifty per cent reduction in "grain rates" from interior points to the waterfront demanded by the Oregon Public Service commission as a condition for the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing, the hearing of testimony was resumed here today.

The commission hearing the testimony is endeavoring to determine whether some farm relief cannot be given by a reduction of freight rates. Seattle is seeking to have the differential of two cents per hundred pounds of wheat removed, while Portland is asking for lower rates and for a larger territory from which these rates will be increased.

A. H. Harvey, rate expert for the Oregon Public Service commission, declared
