ROSEBURG, OREGON, THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1928.

THE BEAUTY OF TODAY

The city of Rheims has been largely rebuilt. The great cathedral that was shattered by German shells is now something like its former self. The surrounding houses of the old French town have been restored to their old appearance. The scars of war are being removed. The beauty of Rheims once made the place a magnet for travelers from all over the world. When newspapers, during the war, announced that that beauty was being obliterated by high explosives, the world felt a pained astonishment. It was hard to realize that the loveliness which men had spent centuries in perfecting could vanish overnight, ripped apart by snub-nosed little cylinders of lyddite and TNT. Yet that is the way things are, and, all too often, the lost beauty cannot be repaired afterward as Rheims is being repaired. The world is a rough place, and men are careless. Beauty is fragile, easily destroyed. Sooner or later all beautiful things—buildings, poems, actions, melodies—disappear. Only the memory and the inspiration of them remain. But, perhaps, things could not well be ordered any other way. We need to make our own beauty. If we could bask all our lives in the aura of the fine things other men did and made we might not bestir ourselves. If the music of Orpheus had been preserved, what need would Beethoven and Wagner have had for self-expression? If the glory of heroic lives like Paul, Spinoza, Joan of Arc and Washington did not grow dim, might we forget to be brave and virtuous and altruistic ourselves? Also there is this to think of. The brutal ruthlessness of the world compels us, to our own lasting benefit, to take advantage of beauty while we have it instead of living too much in the future. Do you have, in your own life, something extremely precious and lovely—some such thing, for example, as love, creative work, a quiet home? Then cherish it with all your soul; some day, for all your watchfulness, the world may take it away from you. Do not look too much to the future. You get your happiness here and now. The finer a thing is the more perishable it must be. To face that fact frankly is to feel the essential tragedy of life, but it also is to be self-sufficient and prepared.

WHY HE KILLED HER

A New Jersey man walked into a police station the other day and confessed he had killed his wife. "Ever since we were married my wife wanted pleasure, pleasure, pleasure," he explained. "She wanted to go to the movies all the time but I could not afford it. She wanted me to go to dances but I don't dance. Today she insisted that I take her to an amusement park, though I told her I had no money for such things." Doubtless the man's wife may have been a bit insistent. Yet it does seem as if a man could take the trouble to learn a woman's tastes in such matters before he marries her. Once the ceremony is over it is time to make the best of it. Rushing into matrimony on the basis of a passing infatuation, without stopping to learn whether tastes and likes are at all suited, is sure to lead to trouble. It is a bit hard to work up very much sympathy over this wife murderer, even if his complaint is true.

WHAT'S A BELT LINE STEAK

Gov. Smith lost little time in letting the country know how he stands on prohibition. In the next few days, it is said, he will make his position similarly clear on other outstanding issues. But there is one little matter that he cannot elaborate on too soon for us. The other day, in Albany, reporters asked him what was his favorite dish. The governor remarked that he liked a "belt line steak" about as well as anything. Now a belt line steak is a mystery to us. Whether it is allied to the tenderloin or to the lowly hamburger is a puzzle. We cannot know just how we stand on this campaign until the matter is cleared up. The candidate must declare himself. What, Gov. Smith, is a belt line steak?

In conformance with our regular practice of printing some dry facts during the hot weather, it is hereby announced that prohibition agents occasionally go on a still hunt.

Visiting at Bellows Home—Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Clayton of Washington, D. C., arrived in Roseburg late yesterday afternoon from the south for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Bellows. The young couple of Mr. Bellows and are making a tour of the states, Mr. Clayton having just completed 37 years' service in the employ of the government as pensioner in Washington. They have just come from Los Angeles and will make other trips of interest while in Oregon.

NORRIS SPURNS NOMINATION BY THE 3RD PARTY

centered discussion on platform problems.
Possibility of a merger of the Prohibition party and the Farmer-Labor group ended last night when both vetoed the proposal.

Refusal Ignored
CHICAGO, July 12.—The executive committee of the Farmer-Labor party met today to formulate policies and lay plans for the national campaign, with Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska heading the ticket for president. Whether any action would be taken as a result of the announcement of the senator's secretary at Washington today that the Nebraska senator would not head a third party was undecided. J. Edwin Spurr of Oklahoma, a member of the committee, said:

Norris was nominated at the closing session of the convention last night despite the report of a party correspondent that he would not accept leadership of the party. Hoover Holds to Plan
INDIANAPOLIS, July 12.—Herbert Hoover, republican presidential nominee, will discuss fully his views on the farm relief question in his speech of acceptance of the nomination August 11 at Palo Alto, Cal. He informed William H. Scott, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau federation, in a telegram today.

Settle had previously sent a telegram to Hoover asking the nominee to state his personal stand on the farm relief question.
"It is my purpose," Hoover said in his message, "to refrain from making any public declaration regarding policies or issues until my acceptance speech when I will deal with the subject fully."

A committee of the farm federation today was considering resolutions concerning the stand the federation should take in the political campaign this fall.

Third Party Plans
CHICAGO, July 12.—The platform of the Farmer-Labor party, adopted before nominations were made, did not make a specific declaration on the prohibition question, but declared for "an enforcement of all laws."

Other planks in the Farmer-Labor platform declared for farm relief without capitalization fee, abolition of injunctions in labor disputes, public ownership of Boulder Dam and Muscle Shoals, scrapping of all armaments, and a policy of non-interference in Latin American disputes. A deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic was also approved.

Possibility of a merger of the prohibition party and the farmer-labor group ended last night when both vetoed the proposal.

ONTARIO HALTING STORING OF BOOZE ALONG THE BORDER

(Associated Press Special Wire)
TORONTO, Ont., July 12.—Seizure of liquor consignments valued at $100,000 today gave evidence that the Ontario liquor control board meant to enforce its recent ruling against the storage of surplus liquor stocks along the border.

The liquor stocks on the Carling and Nathaniel docks at Windsor were seized by Inspector F. E. El-Hatt.

"The practice of forwarding liquor into Ontario to be held at strategic points in the hope of a possible export or perhaps illegal distribution in the province will have to cease if anything this board can do will stop it," Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the board, said after the seizure.

ROSEBURG NEWS-REVIEW
POEM FOR THE DAY

By LOUIS ALBERT BANKS

AN OLD, OLD STORY

The other day in Portland a man who had been often in police court for drunkenness stood there for the last time. To the inquiry of the judge for his excuse he began: "Well, Judge, I did fall off again—didn't mean to—I—" He crumpled to the floor—he was dead.

Such men used to lounge around the front of the saloons in droves. We rarely see one under prohibition. God hasten the day when we see no more such sad wrecks.

SOUNDS LIKE DAYS OF OLD

A relic from the olden time

When tales like this were nothing new.

Saloons were here and in their prime.

When every mother lived in fear

When'er her boy was out of sight.

Lest he should learn the path of beer

And she should lose her mother's fight.

A million mothers through the land

Remember those most awful days

When liquor with its slimy hand

Filled all the air with beery haze.

Bootleggers still may ply their trade.

But law is on the mother's side.

And now the seller is afraid.

The penitentiary's gaping wide.

From ancient wisdom we may quote:

"The serpent bith in the end."

O mothers, never fail to vote

And keep the law your faithful friend!

The Foresters of America installed officers as follows last Tuesday evening: C. R. S. W. Van Allen; adj. Frank Kennedy; treas. Wm. Currier; fin. sec. W. McWilliams; rec. sec. E. H. Lenox; sen. woodward, F. E. Patterson; jun. woodward, Asher Agee; sen. beadle, Geo. McCalland; Joe Blomberg; trustee, Max Weiss; lecturer, Chas. Giffin; court physician, E. V. Hoover; court druggist, A. C. Marsters.

The young people of West Roseburg were very pleasantly entertained by Mrs. R. H. Hemm at a taffy pulling Friday evening.

One good thing about the prosperity of 1902 is that it is marked "to be continued."

Ashland is to have an occupation tax, a new scheme for raising revenue. The rates are tentative: abstract office, $20; attorneys, $25; auctioneers, $10; bakery, $12; barber shops, $20; banks, $50; billiard halls, $50. Roseburg has had such a tax in full force for, says these many years.

The Roseburg Brewing and Ice company have just placed an order with the Harris Ice Machine works of Portland for a new ice machine with a daily capacity of six tons. The old machine of four tons which they operated last season is too small to supply their present large business.

Capt. and Mrs. Ben D. Boswell of Boswell Springs were in Roseburg Saturday evening on their way to Oakland, Calif., to spend the winter. Boswell Springs hotel will be closed in their absence.

Relief From Curse of Constipation
A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall's Cathartic has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the bowels, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or over-increasing the dose. Chew a Rexall's Cathartic at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.

$600,000 DAMAGE ACTION FACED BY LIBERTY MAGAZINE

(Associated Press Special Wire)
FORT WORTH, Texas, July 12.—Suit for $600,000 damages against Liberty Weekly, Inc., publishers of Liberty Magazine, was filed in district court today by Mrs. Tom Heston of Woodward, Okla. The four children of Mrs. Heston also are plaintiffs.

According to the petition, Liberty published an article June 9 concerning General Sam Houston in which it was stated that Temple Houston was the son of the general and an Indian squaw. The article was written by Don Seitz.

INDIANS ADDED TO CAMP OF THE COOLIDGE PARTY

(Associated Press Special Wire)
SUPERIOR, Wis., July 12.—Twenty-four Indians from Cedar Island lodge last night, but not long enough for President Coolidge to hear had been awake.

A band of Chippewa Indians, in feathered headdress and beaded buckskin garb, went through their various tribal dances at Winneshiek park, in the forest their forefathers held. They were from the reservation at Ojibwa and will remain in the neighborhood of the Coolidge camp for the summer as an attraction to tourists.

President Coolidge had nothing more on today's program than additional battle with fruit trout.

DOLE FLIER WILL CARRY PASSENGERS HERE FRIDAY P. M.

Martin Jensen, noted aviator, and his trans-Pacific plane, Aloha, are to be in Roseburg tomorrow to inspect the local field and to carry passengers for short flights about the city.

The famous pilot, who achieved fame through his daring trip across the Pacific Ocean from San Francisco to Honolulu in the Dole flier, which cost so many lives, is now on a trip around the United States, visiting the principal cities along the airways endeavoring to stimulate interest in aviation.

It had been planned to pass up Roseburg, because of the fact that the city had no municipal field, but Mr. Jensen learned that money has been voted for a suitable site and that temporary improvements have been made, so is stopping to make an inspection here and to confer with the American Legion committee, giving such help as may be within his power. His knowledge of flying field needs to be given with his vision of future aviation progress will enable him to give the local committee a great deal of valuable information and advice, it is expected.

He is expected to arrive about 11 o'clock tomorrow morning from Medford. He will be at the field all afternoon and will carry any passengers who may desire to make flights in the ship that crossed the Pacific Ocean.

The plane with which he made the trip is a 5-place biplane manufactured in San Francisco and loaded with a Wright whirlwind motor. It has a wing spread of 41 feet and an overall length of 27 feet. Its cruising speed is 100 miles per hour, with a cruising range of 5-600 miles.

Loaded with extra fuel tanks it made the trip of 2,490 miles from Oakland, California to Honolulu, in 28 hours and 16 minutes, winning second place in the Dole flight.
