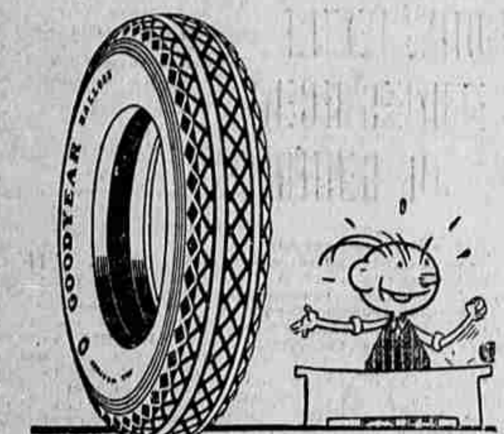
Quality and Price

Yes, But Don't Forget Tire Service

The kind of a tire you get and the price you pay for it are two very important things—but don't forget SERVICE. Mounting and dismounting tires, changing them around. Inspecting them for cuts and other injuries. Removing rust from rims. Free air—these and other kinds of service we are always glad to render, are of utmost importance and have a lot to do with the final performance and cost of your tires.



It's mighty nice to have a dependable place to go to when anything happens to your tires.

When you buy a Goodyear Allweather or a Goodyear Pathfinder from us you've established a tire home for life.

KIWANIANS TALK TURKEY

Turkey talk constituted the program at today's Kiwanis luncheon program. Mrs. C. G. Brink, manager of the Idaho Turkey Growers association, and L. R. Breithaupt, of the Oregon State College, each made a short talk. The Kiwanis club went on record as being willing to use the influence of the club to assist the turkey growers in securing a loading in transit privilege from the railroad company and will take any action desired by the growers. County Agent J. C. Leedy spoke briefly on the progress being made in the formation of a local turkey growers association and its importance.

OLDEST OF OREGON DAILY NEWSPAPERS HAS NEW OWNERS

Salem Statesman Acquired by E. M. Brownlee and S. F. Sackett for $200,000.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 1.—The Oregon Daily Statesman of Salem, the oldest daily newspaper in the state, will change hands today. The purchasers are Earl C. Brownlee, former owner of the Forest Grove Times, and Sheldon F. Sackett, formerly one of the owners of the McMinnville Telephone-Register. It is understood the consideration for the sale is $200,000. The paper is being purchased from R. J. Hendricks, present editor and publisher, and Carl Abrams now secretary of the state board of control. Hendricks has been associated with the Statesman since 1884 and Abrams since 1903.

The Statesman was founded by Ashael Bush at Oregon City, the first issue appearing in March, 1851. He continued as editor, publisher and proprietor of the newspaper there until he moved the office to Salem in 1853, where he continued with it until 1861, when he sold out. The Statesman has had connected with it at various times men who later became prominent figures in journalism in this state and elsewhere, including Edgar B. Piper, later editor of the morning Oregonian, who secured his early reportorial training here.

The new owners, in their letter to the local business men, say under the provisions of the sale, all publications and the commercial printing establishment owned by the company, become the property of the new owners who will continue all phases of the present business. The Statesman Publishing company also publishes the Pacific Homestead, a farm magazine; the Northwestern Poultry Journal and the Oregon Teacher, all of which circulate more or less widely over Oregon and the northwest.

In his 44 years' connection with the Statesman, R. J. Hendricks has become widely known to newspaper men all over the northwest. In addition to his editor and publishership of that and its affiliated journals, he has also been active in politics at various times. He served as superintendent of the school for boys, was collector of internal revenue, has been census enumerator in this district and in various other ways connected with political activities. His partner in control of the company, Carle Abrams, also has been active in politics, for some time having served as industrial accident commissioner and for a number of years has been secretary to the state board of control. The Statesman is republican in its politics.

BALL SCORES IN MAJOR LEAGUES

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

After taking three straight on the chin at Cleveland the Yankees turned on their formentors yesterday and beat the Indians, 12 to 9, in a wild battle. This victory profited the Yanks nothing, however, except to keep the Philadelphia Athletics riding the crest of an eight-game winning streak, five and a half games away from them in the standings.

The Athletics apparently have the St. Louis Browns' number for the fourth straight day and the ninth straight time, the A's beat the Browns, this time by 8 to 4. Six home runs featured the battle, two by Haas and four by the Mackmen.

Taking over the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 2, the Detroit Tigers registered their seventh victory in their last eight games.

Ted Blankenship blew up in the eighth inning when the Washington Senators scored four runs but the Chicago White Sox already had piled up a six run lead and won, 7 to 5.

The St. Louis Cardinals stretched their National League lead to five games by pounding the Phillies into submission, 18 to 5, getting 16 of their runs in four successive innings.

Jackie May weakened in the late innings and Brooklyn beat the second place Reds, 3 to 2.

The New York Giants and Chicago Cubs divided two at the Polo grounds. The giants won the first, 8 to 7, by scoring five runs in the ninth inning, and the Cubs won the nightcap, 10 to 4.

Meadows and Bramo were hit hard at Boston, where the Braves downed the Corsairs, 11 to 5.

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE GAMES

Mickey Heath's timely homer in the tenth yesterday not only gave Hollywood the first game of the series with the Missions but also put them into the upper berth of league averages.

While the Stars were winning 4 to 3 in a close fast game, Sacramento, league leaders for some weeks, fell to a batting barrage of Oakland 7 to 6. For seven innings the Star-Bells game was a pitching duel between McCabe and Pillette then with the Bells having the game virtually cinched, 3 to 1 in the ninth, Hollywood scored twice to tie.

Batteries: Hulvey and McCabe, Bassler; Pillette, Baldwin.

With a four run lead in the ninth Sacramento had counted another victory until the Oaks came at bat. Even then two men were out and the bases empty before the barrage started that netted five runs and the victory. Batteries: Cooper, Pallas, Dumovich, and Daglia, Lombardi and Read; Gould and Kunz, Keohler.

Dutch Ruether won easily for San Francisco from Los Angeles 7 to 2, featured principally by Averill's homer. Batteries: Ruether, Sprinz; Barfoot and Weathersby, Sandberg.

Jack Knight brought the Beavers another victory, his third consecutive, this time from Seattle, 8 to 1. His wild pitch gave the Indians their only run. Batteries: Knight, Whitney; Cole, Cox and Collard, Ainsworth.

Spain Removes Barriers Against Protestants

Various Sects Conduct Churches, Schools, Hospitals Under Liberal Statutes.

MADRID, July 31.—(A. P.)—Protestants are "tolerated" in Spain since Jose Canalejas removed the restriction by which they were forbidden to indicate in any way on their chapels and meeting places the fact that they were Protestants.

At the present moment there are in round figures 200 Protestant centers in this country, including churches, chapels, Sunday schools, elementary and high schools, hospitals and other like institutions. These are spread over many provinces, including Madrid, Barcelona, Malaga and the Asturias, while most of the provincial towns possess some center belonging to a Protestant sect.

Among the followers of the various sects are to be found men of substance from all stations in life. In Madrid there are five Protestant churches besides a number of meeting places. There are also several excellent Protestant elementary schools in the capital, the number of scholars of both sexes attaining 1,200.

Until a few years ago Protestant literature was divided up into small local pamphlets representing the various sects, but now all have joined together in the publication of a weekly organ named "Evangelical Spain," or "Espana Evangelica."

"BULL" MONTANA BEATS JACK WOODS IN 3-FALL MATCH

"Bull" Montana, simian featured celebrity of the movies, won a three-fall wrestling bout with "Sailor Jack" Woods at the Roseburg armory last night. After losing the first fall in a head scissors and wrist lock in 16½ minutes, Montana captured the second with a head lock and body scissors in 21 minutes. Woods was so groggy after being slammed about on the inadequately padded mat in the second session that the six-minute intermission did him very little good. When he returned to the mat for the deciding fall he was easy game for the cinema cave-man and succumbed to a series of headlocks in two minutes and ten seconds. "Hod" Turner was the referee.

There was a preliminary massage of the canvas by a Russian behemoth and a leather-skinned, stiff-legged human being introduced as the "Terrible Turk." The latter was certainly terrible, so was his over-stuffed opponent, so was the so-called exhibition, which was liberally punctuated with "boos" from 200 unkind spectators. The irritation was scheduled for fifteen minutes but the timekeeper "had a heart" and clanged the gong two minutes ahead of time.

Equally as disappointing was the boxing match, scheduled between Pat Padelford and Morris Harris. The latter failed to show up and a transient "ham-and-egger" was substituted. Pat laid him away without effort in one minute and twenty seconds of the first round.
