ROSEBURG WILL JOIN IN ATWATER KENT AUDITION

Local Singers to Be Given an Opportunity to Compete in National Radio Contest.

Preliminary plans for the local participation in the national Atwater Kent annual audition have been arranged. The local committee was named by the chamber of commerce and consists of T. H. Noss, chairman, W. E. Ott, and Charles McElhinny. This committee is securing cooperation from the Douglas county chapter of the Oregon State Music Teachers' association and will also seek the help of other local organizations in carrying on the contest.

It is felt that Roseburg has a number of singers fully equal to those of other communities, and that the city should be represented among the contestants for the national honors.

There will be a local audition held during the latter part of September. Applications for this audition will be required by the first of September, the exact date for closing entries having not yet been fixed.

One young man and one young woman between the ages of 18 and 25 will be selected to represent Roseburg in the state contest, which will be held in Portland, the voices being broadcast from one of the radio studios of that city. While no provision is made in the national plan to pay the expenses of the state contestants, the local committee expects to arrange transportation
