

Harry C. Stearns' History of Roseburg and the State of Oregon

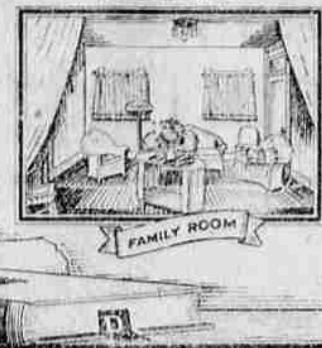

WHEN, in 1804 the Lewis and Clark expedition crossed the newly-acquired Louisiana Territory, they followed the Mississippi River to its headwaters, crossed the Rocky Mountains, reached the Columbia River, and followed it down to the Pacific.

They camped on the north side of the river's mouth, on Cape Disappointment, and remained there the winter of 1805-06.

NOTED AUTHORITY ON SHAKESPEARE IS DEAD AT 83

(Associated Press Leased Wire) NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—James Appleton Morgan, lawyer and authority on Shakespeare, died here today at the age of 83. Mr. Morgan developed a theory that the Shakespearean plays, as printed in the 1623 folio, were not always strictly monographs but the work of many actors and stage censors, improving them constantly from their original mounting by Shakespeare. In support of this he published the Bankside edition of Shakespeare in 20 volumes. He wrote and edited books on law, railway management and literature. He founded the Shakespeare society in 1885 and served for many years as its president. He was active in several state historical, revolutionary and Mexican war societies.

MANDELL BEATS O'DONNELL

(Associated Press Leased Wire) JAMESVILLE, Wis., Aug. 15.—Sammy Mandell never was much of a puncher in the days he was climbing to the world's lightweight championship, but in recent months he has demonstrated that there's a steam in the lightning left and the accurate right of his. Johnny O'Donnell of St. Paul found it out here last night, when Mandell stopped him after eight rounds of fighting. O'Donnell's trouble was that he was outclassed. For seven rounds he took an artistic drubbing, most of that time with his left eye closed. He was sent to the floor at the close of the eighth round, the bell sounding just as the referee had tolled a count of two. The referee examined O'Donnell during the intermission and then announced the fight was over.

FLYER SHUNS $56,000 FOR SAKE OF PRINCIPLE

(Associated Press Leased Wire) PARIS HILL, Maine, Aug. 15.—That Captain Harry Lyon, navigator of the monoplane Southern Cross, will return to his home here under a $56,000 financial loss, $6,000 of it actual and $50,000 potential, was disclosed here today. Retusal of a 20-week vaudeville contract at $2,500 a week account for the larger amount. "I could not bear to see my father's name, Admiral Henry W. Lyon, U. S. N., on the bill boards," he declared. A purse for $6,000 presented to him by Oakland friends after he returned from Australia, was attached to it, he said here, by R. A. Way of California, who declared himself the accredited agent of Lyon.

COPEO FEATURES NEW AUTOMATIC IRON

To introduce the new Hotpoint Super-Automatic iron to the housewives of this community The California Oregon Power company is sponsoring a special offer which will hold good only until September 15. The new Hotpoint Super-Automatic iron is considered all modern in its operation as it maintains any desired heat merely by a touch of the thermostat. It eliminates all watching and guess work and assures easier and shorter ironing days for the housewife. Some of the unusual features are the automatic temperature control, patented Calrod heating element, which is practically indestructible, the convenient thumb rock hinged plug and heel stand, all of which combine to eliminate much of the old drudgery of ironing.

As a fitting companion to the new Hotpoint iron the Copeo electric stores are featuring the new Albany Automatic Ironing Board which is the "last word" in ironing boards. It is made of the finest materials, is light, strong, and has a great strength and lightness and can be opened and closed with one hand.

A special combination offer of these two time and labor-savers for the home is being featured during the Copeo campaign with easy payments and a liberal trade-in allowance for old irons. Full details may be secured from the Copeo ad which appears elsewhere in this paper. It is predicted that many local housewives will take advantage of this attractive offer during the next few weeks.

OREGON COLLEGE COED NEEDS $505 FOR YEAR

What will it cost the "sweet girl graduate" of an Oregon high school to attend college this fall? The answer, of course, depends somewhat on the individual herself, but if she attends Oregon State college she may reasonably be expected to spend around $505 a year according to results of a survey reported in the current number of the Journal of Home Economics.

Furthermore, the survey shows, if she decides to attend the Sweet Briar College for Women in Virginia she had better take along from $1205 to $1465, though if she cares to go on down to Florida State College for Women she might squeeze through a year on from $340 to $745, depending on her standard of living.

Detailed figures for co-eds at these three institutions happened to be made this last year by classes in economics in these three widely separated sections of the country. The first college named is a privately endowed, non-sectarian institution with an enrollment of about 450. The second is supported by state appropriations as is the college here in Oregon.

The study made at Oregon State represented exact accounts kept for three years by students in certain classes in home economics. Averaging these it was found that girls in college there may be expected to spend $260 a year for board and room, $92 for tuition, fees and dues, $27 for books and supplies, $26 for travel and $100 for miscellaneous expenses including an average of $76.16 spent for clothing while actually in school.

The study showed that the bulk of a co-ed's expenses are more or less fixed and do not vary materially. Fraternal organizations were found to exact only 4 per cent of the total, aside from board and room. Church contributions reached 3 per cent and social life 1.1 per cent.

PROSPECTOR LOST 48 DAYS IN CANADA

(Associated Press Leased Wire) THE PAS, Manitoba, Aug. 15.—Weak and emaciated, Andy Taylor, local prospector, was recovering today from the hardships he suffered while lost for 48 days in the dense wooded country north of The Pas.

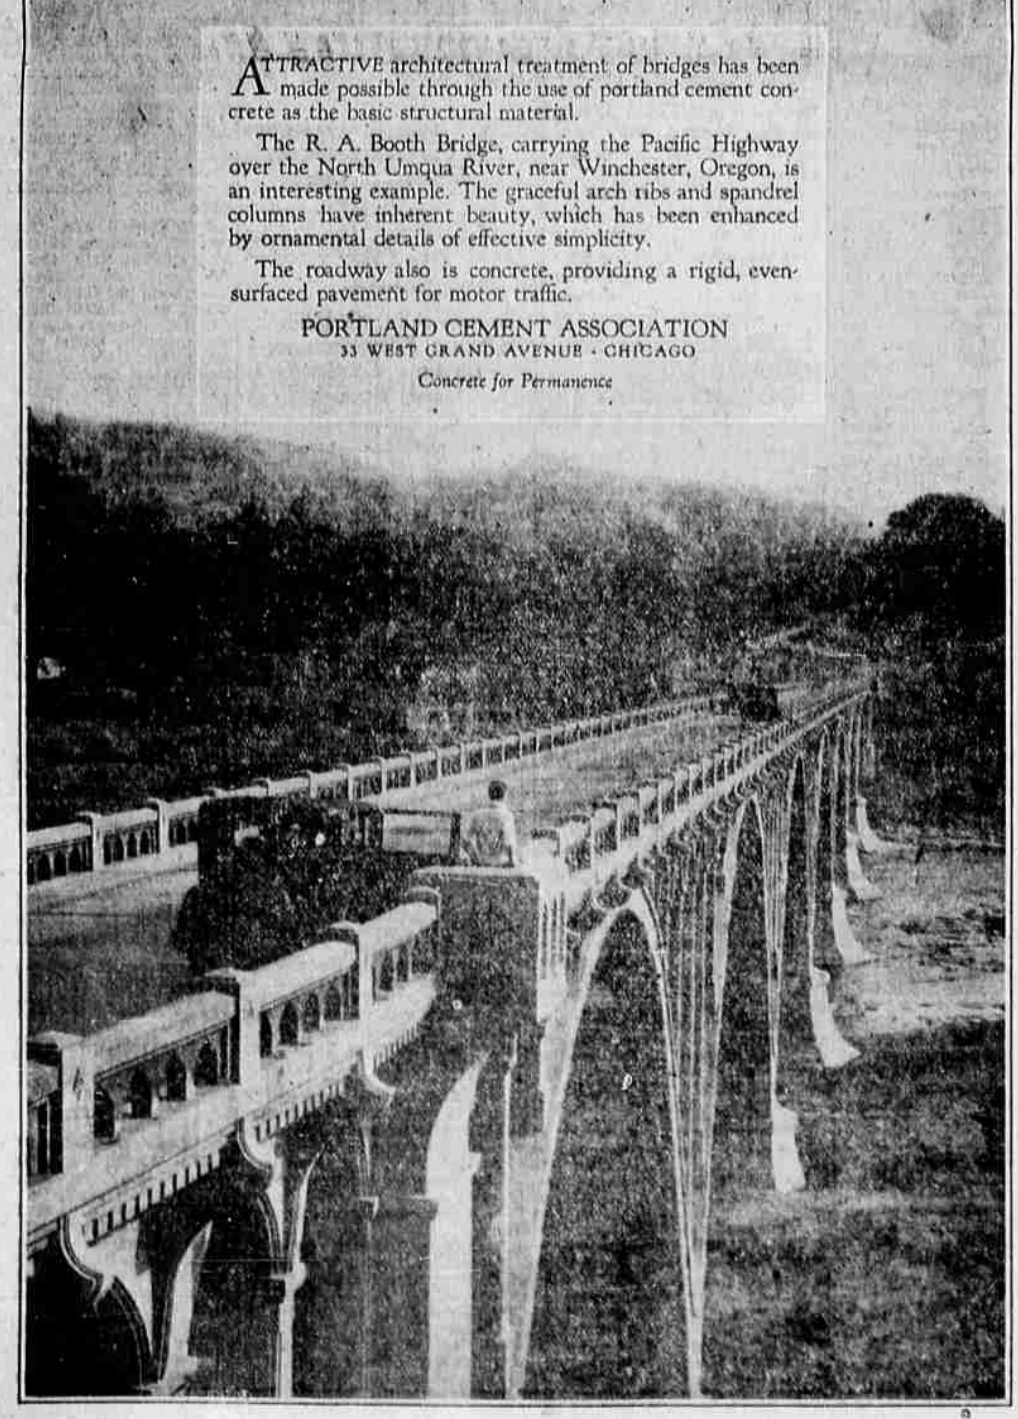

Frog and dead fish found floating on the surface of the river formed part of his diet during his weeks of aimless wandering in the virtually untracked wilderness. He was found by searchers yesterday near Burnt Wood lake and brought by airplane to The Pas. He was scarcely strong enough to tell rescuers the story of his hopeless search for traces of human life.

This beautiful half tone photo of the Booth Bridge spanning the North Umpqua River, five miles north of Roseburg, was featured on the back cover page of the Concrete, Highways and Public Improvement Magazine, July issue, published by the Portland Cement Association, Chicago, who very kindly loaned The News-Review the right to reproduce in this paper. The photograph, taken from the hill at the north approach and just west of the bridge, gives a glimpse of Winchester with the green hills south and the concrete highway threading its way along the base thereof toward this city.
