OCTOBER was ushered in this week with real autumnal weather which has prevailed nearly throughout the week, dwelling with indoor affairs holding the center of attention for society. Dinners and luncheons and an informal evening or so for intimate friends and out of town visitors have constituted this week's entertaining.

Clubs are beginning their schedules in earnest this month and several more organizations are adding their programs to the interesting events for October. Umpqua Chapter of the D. A. R. has planned for the first meeting of the season next week and members are arranging the day as a memorial to the first president of the D. A. R., Caroline Scott Harrison. Mrs. R. H. Grinstad, Mrs. A. J. Bellows and Mrs. Cam P. Cuyler are joining as hostesses for the affair which will be at the Grinstad home.

Newly Organized P. T. A. Has Social Meet

A special meeting of the newly organized Edenbower P. T. A. was called for last Thursday at the schoolhouse and various business matters were taken up by the association, among them the appointment of a delegate to the regional convention here this month.

The association was re-organized on September 28 following the reception honoring the teachers of that school. The officers are Mrs. A. D. Addison, president; Mrs. Mary Travis, vice-president; Miss Venore Bates, secretary-treasurer. Besides the president, Mrs. Lilley has been named to represent that division at the convention.

Recent Bride Honor Guest at Shower

Among the week's social affairs with charming autumnal appointments was the miscellaneous shower planned by Mrs. W. L. Leonard and Mrs. S. D. Moore for the former's niece, Mrs. Max Kincart (Dorothy Hall) of Sutherlin, a recent bride. The affair was at the Leonard home which was decorated with seasonal flowers.

The honor guest was the recipient of many beautiful gifts from her friends. Following an informal social evening refreshments were served.

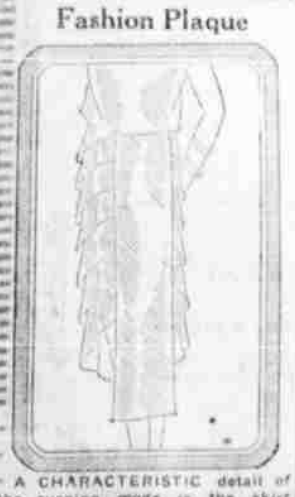
The guest list included besides Mrs. Kincart, Mrs. J. W. Cook, Mrs. Earl Johnson, Mrs. James Starr, Mrs. John Winniford, Mrs. Joe Winniford, Mrs. James Cole, Mrs. John Gross, Mrs. Dick Sebastian, Mrs. John Maddox, Mrs. Emil Hall of Sutherlin, Mrs. Emmett Hall, Mrs. W. L. Leonard and Mrs. S. Moore.

Roseburg Chapter of A. A. U. W. to Open Year's Schedule

Although no definite plans have been made for the year by the Roseburg chapter of American Association of University Women, the members are anticipating early the first meeting of the fall which is to be held a week from today in the form of a luncheon. Mrs. J. C. Leedy is president of the chapter and will call a meeting of the executive board for the first of next week to plan for the opening assembly of the association. A date for regular meetings each month will be named at the luncheon meeting and at this time it is expected that a full report will be made on the contemplated work for the year.

The other officers of the chapter are Mrs. Ben Larson, vice-president; Mrs. Maurice S. Newland, secretary; Mrs. Edw. G. Kohlhagen, treasurer. The directors are Mrs. Carl B. Neal, Mrs. Fred Fisher. One other director will be named soon to take the place of Miss Frances Wright who will not be in the city this year.

Fashion Plaque



A CHARACTERISTIC detail of the evening mode is the skirt which is longer in front than in back—the place where it is shortest is covered with a long loose panel.

Washington, D. C., Couple Entertained This Week

An attractive dinner party of charming autumnal appointments was that planned by Miss Bess Wharton on Sunday for the pleasure of two visitors in the city, Mr. and Mrs. John Rast, of Washington, D. C.

The dinner was in picnic style on the bank of the Umpqua bordering the Wharton home in West Roseburg. The hostess asked for the occasion Mr. and Mrs. Rast, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sayers and Miss Gertrude Rast.

A few friends, including Mrs. G. V. Wimberly, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Strong and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Wharton, called in the afternoon to meet the visitors, who formerly resided in the city.

Social Club Resumes Meetings With Luncheon

Among the fortnightly social clubs resuming their meetings this week after the summer vacation was that of a group of Edenbower ladies, Mrs. E. P. Ballou entertaining for the matrons and Mrs. J. E. Ballou, an additional guest from Bellingham, on Wednesday, arranging a one o'clock luncheon.

Corresponding with the room decorations was the pretty arrangements of michaelmas daisies in a low bowl at the luncheon table. Covers were placed for the Mesdames J. E. Ballou, S. M. Curtis, F. A. Stewart, V. R. Buckingham, F. D. Owen, Almyra Smith, A. H. Williams, G. S. Jones, C. L. Mabley, P. E. Beaver, D. E. Hendrickson and the hostess.

The guests enjoyed the afternoon informally.

The club meets next time at the home of Mrs. Mabley.

Rose P. T. A. Outlines for Year's Work at First Fall Meeting

Opening the winter series of monthly meetings, the Rose school P. T. A. met for a business session on Monday at the school building, outlining the early winter program.

The officers for this year are Mrs. J. C. Leedy, president; Mrs. G. C. Findlay, vice-president; Mrs. Clair K. Allen, secretary; Miss Elizabeth Parrott, treasurer.

Delegates to the district convention here this month were named. They are Mrs. Carl Wimberly and Mrs. A. Dawe.

The association is making plans for a reception to welcome the teachers of the school, the affair to be held soon after the regional convention.

Pleasureable Affair Honors Matron Who Will Make Home in Eugene

A pleasurable affair of the week given for Mrs. Wayne Drollinger, who is leaving to make her home in Eugene, was the surprise party at the home of Mrs. O. C. Houser. The honoree was the recipient of a number of lovely gifts.

At the close of the evening refreshments were served to the Mesdames Wayne Drollinger, Max Meyers, C. W. Bradford, Mary Teater, Ward Jolliff, F. Sharp, Lucille Fitts, O. Martin, D. E. Hendrickson, J. Burkhart, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stark, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark and family, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Houser, Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Trueblood, Mr. and Mrs. L. Rolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Teater, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Clarke and daughters, the Misses Stark Drollinger, Mary Potvin, Bradford, Jolliff and Robert Dawe.

D. A. R. to Open Year's Work With Memorial Program

A program commemorative, opening the series of winter meetings of the organization, interesting for the coming week is the meeting of Umpqua Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution to be held on Monday, October 8, at the home of Mrs. R. H. Grinstead, who will be assisted in entertaining the chapter by Mrs. A. J. Bellows and Mrs. Cam P. Cuyler.

The day is to be Caroline Scott Harrison Memorial Day, set aside by the women of the United States when Mrs. Harrison was the first president of the D. A. R. and the daughters are building a memorial building at Oberlin, College, Ohio. This will be known as the Caroline Scott Harrison memorial.

The program will be appropriately carried out on the occasion and a silver offering is to be taken to swell the fund for the memorial. A history of the first president will be given by one of the chapter members.

Mrs. Earl B. Stewart is the regent for this year and will preside at the business meeting. Mrs. W. E. Boles is program chairman for the afternoon.

Miss Jane Wharton to Sail for Honolulu Next Week

Miss Jane Wharton, charming young Roseburg maid, is to leave Monday for the south after which she will sail for Honolulu to spend several weeks and possibly the winter season.

Miss Wharton will visit one day in Sausalito as the guest of Miss Grace Lloyd and will sail on the "Maui" from San Francisco on Wednesday. She will visit with her niece, Miss Florence Wharton, in Honolulu.

Mrs. Shoemaker Entertains for Niece at Evening Affair This Week

Mrs. S. J. Shoemaker issued invitations to several for an attractive evening affair on Tuesday complementing her niece, Miss Marjorie Snyder, who left Friday to attend school in Portland this season.

Michaelmas daisies, asters and autumn decorations were colorful in the rooms where tables were placed for cards, the diversion for the evening. At luncheon the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Henry Snyder.

The list included besides the honoree, Mrs. Fred Hermsen, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Bruton, Mr and Mrs. Edw Walton, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Coffell, Mr. and Mrs. Glade Bruton, Miss Irene Cox, Miss Rhea Gates, Miss Esther Miller, Miss Essie Hudon, Floyd Church and Ralph Church.

Visitors Entertained at Dinner Wednesday

Among the attractive social events planned for the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. John Rast during their visit here from Washington, D. C., was a dinner party Wednesday for which Mr. and Mrs. Earl Strong were hosts at their Rice Hill home.

The guests spent the evening informally following the dinner hour.

Mrs. Wharton Entertains 12 at Dinner Party Honoring Visitor

One of the most charming social affairs of the week was the dinner party at 6:30 o'clock on Wednesday evening for which Mrs. J. R. Wharton was hostess at her attractive home in compliment to a Roseburg visitor, Mrs. Fred Wygant (Ivo McLaughlin) of Medford, invitations being issued to girlhood friends of the honor guest.

An autumn motif was used in the exquisitely appointed tables where three were seated, Mrs. Wygant, Mrs. Ivan McLaughlin, Mrs. Roy Catching, Mrs. Kenneth Quine, Mrs. Chas. S. McElhiney, Mrs. George Wharton, Mrs. G. V. Wimberly, Mrs. Guy Cordon, Mrs. O. M. Berrie, Mrs. S. J. Shoemaker, Miss Bess Wharton, Miss Jane Wharton and the hostess.

Informal amusement entertained the guests following the dinner hour.

The Waistline Has To Be Drawn Somewhere

Slowly Returning Toward Normal, Says Patou

By JEAN PATOU
For NEA Service

PARIS, Oct. 6.—One of the most important questions, where the technicalities of fashions are concerned is the waistline.

More than three years ago I presented, in one of my collections, a model typifying a tendency which I anticipated in the waistline. In this model the waistline purposely was somewhat exaggerated; it was almost normal and consequently caused a great deal of surprise and comment.

Today this very same model could be shown in my collection without attracting more comment than any of the other dresses. This in itself is sufficient proof of the evolution of fashions in the sphere of the waistline.

Gradual Transition

This resumption of the normal waistline is a slow process, however. If a comparison is made between my present collection and the fashions of three years ago, although one has a very definite impression of a higher waistline, it would be difficult to say of any model that it typifies this change.

The question of changing the waistline was one fraught with many difficulties for the couturier. Women offered a certain amount of resistance to the idea. Today it is practically an accomplished fact, but only because this change

Some of the ways Patou introduces the new, almost normal waistline. Left to right: A blonde lace and georgette frock uses a narrow georgette belt to mark the waistline, though the lace points below it front and back. A pink crepe evening frock has folds of self-material end just where the waist should be. A handsome evening gown, with all-over embroidery of white pearls and black beads, achieves a waistline effect by graded beading.

Uneven Height in Belts Creates an Illusion

was effected through the reasons in an almost unconsciously progressive way. Another reason is that a very great diversity of means was employed, so that little by little women's eyes became accustomed to a waistline which was not placed just somewhere above the knee.

In any instance, a waistline can be a very elusive thing and can give the impression of being nearly normal without its being so in reality. This illusion is secured with the help of various effects. The more usual pretext takes the form of some sort of belt. In certain instances this belt is nothing more than a superposition of material, not very marked, but giving the required effect. Again, when the top of a gown is trimmed either by a work of incrustations, stitchings, tucks or frills, these various trimmings are made to finish a little lower than the so-called normal waistline.

Belt in Uneven Line

Another effect I have used in my winter models is that of a belt placed at the same height as on my summer models, but raised in the back or front.

I believe, however, that the time has not yet come to launch dresses with a determined and normal waistline. My theory is that one cannot impose a brusque change on women, unless they can be taken completely by surprise.

Engagement Former Roseburg Maid Is Revealed

An out-of-town engagement which will be of interest to the younger set is that of Miss Hazel Marchbanks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hill Marchbanks, to Mr. Stanley O. Lake of Noxone, Montana.

Miss Marchbanks is formerly of Camp View near this city. She attended the local high school in 1927 and her home is now Trout Creek, Montana. She is at present attending the State College of Washington.

Mr. Lake is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity and a student at the State College of Montana.

Mrs. V. D. Beauchemin accompanied her sister, Miss Harriet M. Morrill south this week to visit for two months in Stockton. Miss Morrill was here for a fortnight as a guest at the Beauchemin home.

Badoura Club to Be Entertained at Entler Home the Coming Week

For the meeting of Badoura Club, daughters of the Nile, Mrs. Roy Entler has invited the matrons of the club to be her guests at her home in Laurelwood, Tuesday, October 9.

The meeting will be in the evening and it is planned as a social affair. As the club was forced to postpone the first meeting this fall on account of inclement weather, the work for this year will be outlined.

Three Roseburg Students Pledges at O. S. C.

OREGON STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Oct. 6.—Three students from Roseburg have become fraternity pledges at the close of the first three days of their college career. Lee Hunt has pledged to Theta Chi, Robert Casebeer to Theta Delta Nu, and Melvin Thurston to Beta Theta Pi. Oregon State has 25 fraternities.

Rosebud Circle Names Officers for New Year

On Monday evening of this week Rosebud Juvenile Circle of Neighbors of Woodcraft met at the Knights of Pythias Hall, at their first meeting of the season electing new officers for the organization.

Those who were elected and who will be installed at the next regular meeting, the first Monday of November, are Murle Branch, guardian noble; Virginia Oakley, advisor; Delbert C. Taylor; magician; Richard Ruff, clerk; Cleda Neal, banker; Dorothy Gartsend, attendant; Richard Crenshaw, captain of guards; Helen Wetherell, musician; Eloda Taylor, outer sentinel; Harry Oakley, inner sentinel; Durward Johnson and Woodrow Hughes, flag bearers. Mrs. Oliver Johnson is senior guardian of the circle.

After the business session the group enjoyed a social hour and confections were served.

Autumn Wedding Is Event of Sunday

Among the autumn wedding announcements of interest in town was that telling of the marriage of Miss Marvel Morgan of Looking Glass and Ray M. Lehman of Roseburg.

The ceremony was quietly read at the Geo. K. Quine home Sunday evening, Judge Quine officiating before only a few. The bride is a well known young woman of Looking Glass and Mr. Lehman is employed by the Peoples' Supply Meat company.

They went to Marshfield on their wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Potvin Entertain at Luncheon

Charming appointments characterized the one o'clock luncheon arranged on September 29 by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Potvin for seven guests.

The table was centered with a low bowl of roses, which also lent color to the room, and held covers for Mrs. Mary Potvin, Mrs. W. B. Craswell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Erwin Page, John Page and the hosts.

Roseburg Union Announces Delegates to County Convention

A well attended business meeting of the Roseburg W. C. T. U. was held Wednesday afternoon in the Woman's Club rooms. Mrs. J. O. Arthur, president, presided. Mrs. R. L. Eddy conducted the devotionals and reports of work done the past year were given by the retiring officers, showing a substantial gain in membership and progression in all lines of the work.

Superintendents of departments were appointed after which plans were made for the county convention which will be held in this city next week. Delegates were elected for the state convention to be held in Eugene on October 16-19. Those elected are Mrs. L. B. Barenbark, delegate at large; Mrs. R. A. Barenbark, Mrs. Josephine Bettes, Mrs. W. E. Boles, Mrs. J. M. Ashcraft. A number of other officers and members are also planning to go. Beautiful bouquets of flowers with scripture texts attached were presented to the retiring officers in appreciation of the splendid work done during the past year.

Club Women Open Year With Plans for Winter Schedule and Program

Mrs. H. D. Harris, new president of the Roseburg Woman's Club, presided at the first meeting of the fall held on Tuesday afternoon in the Roseburg Woman's Club building on South Jackson street, the date also being guest day.

The members opened the meeting with group singing, led by Mrs. W. W. Ashcraft. Reports of delegates to the state convention held in the early summer in Klamath Falls, were heard as the regular meetings of the club had closed preceding that time. Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Wm. Bell made the reports.

Mrs. Bell also made the report of the club house for the board, listing the amounts of money taken in last year. A report of the service shop committee was made by Mrs. L. B. Skinner, who has charge of that department. Two rummage sales have been held so far this fall and the committee reported the shop making good progress.

Mrs. Homer Grow entertained the club with a group of whistling numbers and at the close of the afternoon the members of the board presided at refreshments.

Among the immediate affairs planned by the club women is the dinner to be given on the evening of October 24 in connection with the regional convention of the P. T. A. The place for the dinner is to be decided later.

Mr. and Mrs. Wharton Hosts for Washington, D.C., Visitors on Friday Evening

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Wharton were gracious hosts on Friday evening at their home on Chadwick street, entertaining at dinner for Mr. and Mrs. John Rast of Washington, D. C.

Seated about the table, which charming autumn appointments, were the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sawyers, Miss Gertrude Rast and the hosts.

Roseburg Maids Pledge Sororities at U. of O.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Oct. 6.—(Special)—Two Roseburg girls have been pledged to national sororities on the campus. They are Mildred Stringer, Delta Delta Delta, and Maxine Moore, Delta Zeta.

Enrollment at the university for this term is expected to near the 3,000 mark, according to Earl M. Pallett, registrar. A total of 2989 have registered to date, with a number of late arrivals yet expected. This does not include the medical school in Portland, correspondence courses of extension classes.

With an increase in the number of students entering at the opening of winter and spring terms expected, a record enrollment of 3400 for the year is looked for.

Mrs. Mary Potvin and Mrs. W. B. Craswell of St. Cloud, Minnesota, have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Potvin since August and leave in a short time for their home in that state.

Their friends regretted the departure a few days ago of Mr. and Mrs. Allan D. Abbott and their family for the south to make their home. They are to reside in San Jose.

Squaws and Chiefs Entertained at Ness Home

On Wednesday evening the officers of the Umpqua Squaws, including Mrs. T. H. Ness, president; Mrs. Horace Berg, vice-president; Mrs. H. Clay Darby, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. H. S. French, sergeant-at-arms, entertained the organization at the Ness home in Laurelwood, the Umpqua Chiefs being invited for later in the evening following the business meeting.

The home was colorfully decorated with seasonal flowers in baskets and bowls for the evening.

Five tables of five hundred were placed for the guests and at the

FLOWER TALKS

BUY ONLY BEST OF LILY BULBS

Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of "Flower Talks," suggesting to News-Review readers what and how to plant gardens this fall in preparation for next year. The articles are written for NEA Service by Romaine B. Ware, magazine contributor on horticulture.

By ROMAINE B. WARE

American gardeners are just awakening to the fact that lilies are good garden subjects. Cultural methods are becoming better known and the lily is taking its rightful place in the hardy border. They are not difficult to grow if you understand them, but there have been few gardeners in the past that have known of their needs. Now we have many good books on the lily and anyone may grow them if he only will take the trouble to find out how.

I will just mention two varieties that should be in every garden. The "Regal Lily," one of E. H. Wilson's introductions from China, has taken the front rank in the greatest class. It likes an average, loamy soil, must have good drainage and should be planted about ten inches deep. It requires manure and in good soil will thrive without feeding at all. Good soil, dug deeply, and planting at the right depth are the most important things to keep in mind.

The other variety is the "Madonna Lily," or "Annunciation Lily" (Lilium Candidum). This is the lily of antiquity and is finding great popularity today. This lily has to be planted very differently from the "Regal." Plant it in ordinary garden soil and not over two inches deep. In cultivating near it, go very carefully, for the roots are close to the surface and they resent any disturbance.

In purchasing lilies, buy the best bulbs obtainable and plant them carefully. They are among the finest of all flowering plants. Study their needs and you will succeed with them. Fall is the best season to plant them, though spring planting is recommended in sections where the winters are very severe.
