

The Contest for Mayor

Article No. 3

By Mayor George E. Houck

THE UMPQUA HIGHWAY—It is not conceivable how the Mayor of Roseburg, in his official capacity, can aid this worthy project more than any citizen. There is a large committee of representative citizens, the chairman of which is Hon. A. C. Marsters, which has for more than a year been working on what is believed to be a practical solution of the financing problem of this project. Our ability to supply funds will secure additional funds from the State and Government to build this road. It is the intention of this committee to submit to the Highway Commission of the State their proposition and, if favorably received by it, the Highway Commission will submit to the voters of the approved district the proposition for their approval. When this is done, it is my sincere hope that the spirit of progress will manifest itself in a favorable response. We must be willing to pay some money in order to secure money from the State and Government. They have their money ready. Will we put up our share?

A policy of education for the head of city departments has been followed by the city, by paying a part of the expenses of the officials to attend conventions and schools of education in their line. The Chief of Police and the Fire Chief have availed themselves of instruction. The Fire Chief attended last week the convention of Pacific Coast fire chiefs assembled at Sacramento, who are putting on a week's program of educational work. We have a very efficient volunteer fire department and it is our intention to provide it with equipment and the means of acquiring knowledge in its line, so that our losses from fire will be kept at a minimum.

Looking Forward—We anticipate a favorable decision of the Supreme Court on the Legion air port bonds, so that we can begin work placing the field in condition. The legion deserves credit for this work of progress which will advertise Roseburg as no other single factor could. It requires progressive citizens to make progressive organizations, and progressive organizations are the life of a community.

The mayor of this city does not draw a salary nor is any desired. The appreciation of the citizens is pay enough to gladden the heart and incentive enough to stimulate extra effort to make Roseburg a city beautiful, sanitary, up-to-date, progressive, economical in expenditures, morally excellent and ideal for home and business. When you stand on a corner, look about and admire your city, and when you do, count the number of improvements that greet your eyes that have been made during the past four years of our administration.

Let me quote you the following editorial from the News-Review of October 6: "Old Roseburg never looked better than it does right now. Enterprising merchants have dressed up their store fronts, the yards in the residence sections are filled with fall flowers and the citizens are looking forward to a mighty enjoyable winter."

I look forward to an exceedingly enjoyable two years serving the citizens, if you will give me the vote of appreciation for past efforts and signify your desire by the same vote that you wish me to continue.

TRIO OF GAMES BRINGS RECORD CROWD OF FANS

J. McEwan and the University of Oregon football team invaded Salem today to witness a power attack against Willamette. University to coordinate play of backfield and line. Coordination is necessary, McEwan believes, if Oregon is to defeat the University of Washington a week from today. Today's game was looked upon as a critical test of the Webfoot progress—criticism in the respect that the strength of Oregon's line and stamina of Oregon's backfield would be tested.

Coch McEwan sought to determine whether, after a 25 to 12 defeat at the hands of Stanford last Saturday, the Webfoots had improved to the point where the prevailing betting odds of a seven-point margin over Washington are justified. It is the first time since 1926 that the University of Oregon football team has been favored over a Pacific coast conference opponent.

Clashes on Coast
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—The second week of Pacific coast conference football brought three major clashes today. The University of California was to clash with Washington State college in the Berkeley stadium, Stanford University with the University of California at Los Angeles in the Stanford bowl, while the University of Washington was to get its first taste of conference football by meeting the University of Montana at Seattle.

The University of California is credited with a slight edge for the tilt with the Cougars of Washington State. Ben Lom, flashy half of the Golden Bears, is depended upon for a major portion of the offense on the sending end of the scheduled aerial attack while Laine, sensational Cougar sophomore, was expected to provide the thrills of the Washington squad. Stanford expected little trouble with the conference cub from Los Angeles while the University of Washington was slated for a victory over Montana.

Among the non-conference games, the University of Southern California was to meet St. Mary's college at Los Angeles in the first game between the schools; the University of Oregon was to clash with Willamette University at Salem and Oregon State to appear at Portland in an exhibition doubleheader against two other Oregon schools, Pacific University and Columbia University.

The University of Idaho and Whitman colleges were to battle at Boise.

"He could not be thinking about anything else," the governor continued, "because it (government ownership and control) looks to me with the necessity of government going into business for a by-product, while electric energy at Muscle Shoals is the real product."

The governor then reaffirmed the government ownership and control stand he took in his Denver speech, declaring the agency, whether state or federal, should not only own the site but should own and build and operate the power house" of waterpower projects.

Work Answers Attacks

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Dr. Hubert Work, national manager for Herbert Hoover, came to Chicago today with a prediction that while Governor Smith is visiting with the people of the south, the republicans are clinching the state of New York for Mr. Hoover.

Dry Law Views

Frequently interrupted by cheers of "let 'em Al" "give it to 'em Al" the New York executive brought his greatest applause near the end of his speech when, in discussing prohibition, he repeated his acceptance speech pledge that if elected he would abide by the oath to "enact into law the constitution and laws enacted under it" to the "deadly limit."

Quoting Mr. Hoover as saying that the eighteenth amendment was "intended to protect the American home," the governor said:

"I hope he does not mean by that anybody not in sympathy with it is against the American home. That is a pretty hard thing for anybody to say. I have as much interest in the American home as any man in America today. I have maintained it in a mansion supplied to me by the people of the state of New York for eight solid years."

As he turned to three of his illegitimate children on the platform, the governor glowing applause when he added "incidentally, I am responsible for about four more starting up."

States Rights

Governor Smith said Mr. Hoover "admits abuse" in connection with prohibition enforcement, but offers no cure, the nominee drew loud applause soon afterward when he said:

"I for one believe that it can be cured and made infinitely better by applying to it the gold old Jeffersonian democratic theory of states rights. It makes no difference what the people of one section of the country may think about it. It is going to be impossible or well nigh impossible of enforcement in states where the great and overpowering majority of the sentiment of the people is in opposition to it."

He then outlined his previous stand declaring for restrictive sale of liquor by the states voting for it by referendum, while leaving the eighteenth amendment and Volstead act "as the protection of the states that want to be dry."

"There can be no mistake," he said, "in passing the powder back to the states. In a democracy, when it is sick, it is only one cure for it, and that is more democracy—hand it right back to the people themselves and say, 'here,

BOY CYCLISTS HELD

Two boys, Clarence Feaske and Bill Spurson, both transients, were arrested last night charged with the theft of a bicycle belonging to Bill Morlan of this city. The boys were seen north of town yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Webb, and he later saw them in town. In the evening while on an official grip south he noticed that one of them was riding a different bicycle. He stopped them and questioned them, and secured a confession that they had "traded" bicycles in Roseburg, taking Morlan's machine from in front of the Antlers theatre.

Robinson is Meist ENROUTE TO SEATTLE
ROSEBURG, Oct. 12.—Senator Robinson, speaking from the rear platform of his campaign train in northern California yesterday, declared he was heartily in accord with Governor Smith's view that the Volstead act gives no scientific definition of what constitutes an intoxicating beverage.

He declared that the change sought by Governor Smith in the prohibiting amendment and contributory laws would give such states as desire them very light wines and beer.

Salem to Hear Robinson
PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 12.—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, democratic vice presidential candidate, passed through Portland today enroute to Seattle, where he will speak tonight.

Sunday he will remain at Seattle and he will return to Portland Monday morning.

Senator Robinson promised Milton A. Miller, of Portland, today, that he would speak at the armory at Salem at 2:30 p. m. Monday.

Returning to Portland he will speak at the municipal auditorium here Monday night.

"Aggravated" indicts
NEW BERN, N. C., Oct. 12.—Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, democrat of North Carolina, has hurled at his party the accusation that its presidential campaign is one in which hypocrisy is the predominant factor.

Addressing a meeting of "anti-Smith democrats" here last night, he declared that the party is waging a "militant liquor campaign" in the north while below the Mason and Dixon line it is evading the prohibition question and raising a cry of intolerance against those who honestly oppose Governor Alfred E. Smith because of his attitude toward the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law.

Senator Simmons has long been a leader of his party both in North Carolina and nationally. In addition to being identified actively with the "dry" of the senate, he has led the minority party in legislation pertaining to government finance and taxation. He resigned as national democratic committeeman for North Carolina after the nomination of Gov. Smith and the naming of John J. Raskob as chairman of the committee. Later he endorsed the efforts of North Carolina democrats opposing Smith.
