PRACTICALLY the entire week has been taken up with convention doings and the various social events at which the members of the various clubs and societies have been attending. Two days of the week were set aside for the annual Douglas County Teachers' Institute, a large number of instructors in the county assembling here Monday and Tuesday for the sessions. A variety of social pleasure was held in connection with the institute. The Saturday preceding, the annual O. S. T. A. dinner was at the Palace of Sweet's, many of the instructors making a special effort to be in the city for that day.

Tuesday noon there were four luncheons for various groups of those attending the institute. The Southern Oregon Normal School club and the O. S. T. A. club held separate luncheons at the Rose hotel. At the Unipqua alumni club of the University of Oregon, entertainment with a luncheon and the Oregon Normal School alumni club assembled at a delightful luncheon at the Palace of Sweet's.

The regional convention of the Oregon Congress of Parents and Teachers overlapped the institute, opening formally on Tuesday with registration and coming to a most successful close on Thursday evening.

The first evening was featured with an open session and program and reception at the Elks Temple, a wholly enjoyable event. Interest in not only to the vast number of visitors but to town folk alike. Wednesday there was the President's breakfast and conference at the Unipqua hotel. That noon the various high school P. T. A. presidents met at a charmingly appointed luncheon and in the evening the Friendship Dinner was an attractive event at the Methodist Episcopal Church South. A program at convention headquarters followed.

Thursday one of the social occasions most enjoyable to the visitors was the motor trip through the city followed by a complimentary tea and open house at the Junior high school at which the city school board, the high school faculty and the home economics department of the high school entertained the visitors and delegates. The city and country community members assembled at a luncheon at the Hotel Rose at noon. The convention came to an end Thursday evening with a final program and entertainment at convention headquarters.

Various interesting personalities met and exchanged valuable ideas during the convention and delightful have been the renewal of friendships. Throughout all this Unipqua Valley's autumn weather, a flood of sunshine and beauty has added to the gayety and veridicality of the meeting.

To many, who had not previously known the occasion of Mrs. W. A. Gabriel's visit was a most delightful one. The state president has brought about a closer contact of parents and teachers in thought for the work of child welfare during her stay and her very interesting and engaging personality proved a splendid influence at the meetings.

Roseburg folk also enjoyed the opportunity to renew friendships with Mrs. Wm. Edgar, formerly of Douglas county, and the corresponding secretary of the state organization.

Another whose visit brought interest to the convention was Miss Mabelle Hall of the University of Oregon. Miss Hall, besides being associated with the congress, is the state president of the Oregon Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and was the inspiration for a luncheon at the Hotel Rose on Wednesday, the Roseburg club entertaining in her honor.

Present among the visitors were Miss Beatrice Walton, secretary to the governor, and Mrs. G. H. Root, Mrs. G. L. Hildner, Mrs. D. H. Alger, Miss Lillian Moore and Miss Kate W. Jansson and Dr. J. E. Lander, were other distinguished guests at the meeting.

The fall of the year is always an inspiration for entertaining and the various social events are being arranged to center about the fall.

Many will be the more informal parties of dance and several of the afternoon affairs are being carried out in the Hallowe'en spirit.

The South Deer Creek Grange is entertaining tonight at the dance hall with the annual Hallowe'en Ball and masque party, which will be a delightful occasion. Following the dance a supper will be served. Invitations have been issued to a large number.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Koppinger of San Francisco have been here the week past as guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. Arthur Baum.

Mrs. A. A. Wilder Hostess at Lovely Luncheon on Friday

Mrs. A. A. Wilder was hostess for a lovely luncheon on Friday at her home, asking the members of her bridge club and two additional guests, Mrs. B. C. Coney and Mrs. Jack Koppinger of San Francisco.

A charming arrangement of colors was used in the appointments, carrying out the room decorations of chrysanthemums and red roses and autumn leaves. Covers were placed for 12.

Bridge was the diversion arranged for the afternoon hours.

L. F. T. s Entertain at Largest Dancing Party of Week

Quite the largest and most delightful of dancing parties of the week was the opening dance of the L. F. T. club, a Hallowe'en affair at the Knights of Pythias hall on October 25.

In attendance were forty couples. Music for the dancers was furnished during the evening by the Star Six orchestra.

At the close of the dance supper was served in the dining room of the hall and the harvest and Hallowe'en idea was carried out in the table appointments.

For next month the club is planning a formal Thanksgiving dancing party.

The new officers elected for the year last night were Ivan, Pickens as president and W. R. Brown, secretary-treasurer.

P. T. A. Ladies Assemble for Informal Afternoon Affair Oct. 18

The Douglasville P. T. A. ladies met on the afternoon of October 18 for an informal affair following the regular business session. The guests assembled at the home of Mrs. E. Hatfield, where Mrs. G. C. Thon and Mrs. Bessie Thon entertained them at sewing, followed by refreshments.

Enjoying the hospitality of the hostesses were the Mesdames J. H. Brown, Effie Pockhiser, J. Goldensreich, W. D. Chadwick, John Brumback, O. L. Hinson, A. Bushnell, J. R. Her, C. A. Campbell, G. L. Hinson, E. L. Hinson, E. Hatfield, Miss Floy Strider.

Annual Harvest Party at Club Foremost of Social Events for Coming Week

An annual event provocative of much interest and enjoyment will be the master and dancing party in the form of a Hallowe'en affair for members of the Roseburg Country Club at the club house on the night of October 28.

This event always marks the latter part of the month of October for members of the club and those in charge this year plan a variety of amusement for the evening. With the harvest season at hand there is much in the way of inspiration for decoration and the motif used in the club rooms will be entirely in autumnal colors and appointments.

After the dance a supper will be served.

Instructors Assemble at O. S. T. A. Dinner

A wholly pleasurable event of last week was the annual O. S. T. A. dinner, a semi-formal event, attended by about thirty instructors.

The affair was at the Palace of Sweet's and the decorations were carried out to give a Hallowe'en and autumnal flowers, but a brilliant color note to the tables.

Professor C. A. Strange, instructor at the Southern Oregon Normal School at Ashland, gave a very fine address on "Individualism in the Student." Short talks on the work of the O. S. T. A. and a summary of the organization were given by the various guests present.

Nova's School of Dance Will Open Next Thursday

Nova's School of Dance will open the first classes in classical dancing at the Monroe Hall in this city on Thursday afternoon. November 1st, according to an announcement made today by Mrs. Bert G. Bates, who will be in charge of the instruction. Mrs. Bates has assembled three large classes and will also give private lessons to a number of girls in the city. All forms of ballet dancing, tap dancing, bar exercises, body building, etc., will be taught.

Mrs. Bates still has a few openings in her several classes and will be glad to hear from mothers who desire to give their children the benefit of this instruction. She is making a very nominal charge for the class lessons and all students will be given the exact fundamentals of classical dancing as taught in the larger schools of the country.

Mrs. Fredrick Porter and daughter, Mrs. Wm. G. Wade, Jr., returned from their afternoon to Eugene following a two-day stay in Roseburg, their former home, with relatives and friends.

State President Honored at Luncheon Given by Business Women

Miss Mabelle Hall, president of the Oregon Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, who was a visitor in the city in connection with the regional convention of the Oregon Congress of Parents and Teachers, was the guest of honor at a luncheon Wednesday noon at the Rose hotel given by the Roseburg Club.

Mrs. May V. Pyren, president of the local club, presided at the luncheon, which was held at the hotel. Covers were placed for about 35 club women.

Miss Hall spoke to the club women, giving a few highlights of her trip to the national convention in the south last summer and telling a few of the interesting events.

Mrs. Edith S. Ackerl made a brief talk, also.

October Wedding Is Out of Town Affair of Interest

An October wedding of interest in Roseburg is that of Allan Blood, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Blood of South Deer Creek, to Miss Myrtle Baker of Klamath Falls on October 18 in Klamath Falls, where the bridegroom has been making his home for the past few months.

The ceremony was at the study of the First Methodist Episcopal church with Rev. Frank S. Wenzel officiating. Miss Clara Fredrick attended the bride and Otto P. Elkins, a former Roseburg resident, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Blood will make their home in Klamath Falls.

Matron Provides Pleasure for Club

The home of Mrs. Edw. Walton was the scene of an attractive evening party on Thursday when she entertained the members of the Elders Club, asking them for sewing.

The hostess used various Hallowe'en ideas in decoration. At the close of the evening Miss Elsie Hudson assisted Mrs. Walton in serving.

Enjoying the hospitality of the hostess were the Mesdames Royd Burton, C. A. Coffey, the Mesdames Helen Ferguson, Rhea Gates, Elsie Hudson.

Business Women Planning for Annual Ball

Particularly interesting among the social events for November, which will be ushered in next week, is the annual Thanksgiving Ball of the Roseburg Business and Professional Women's Club.

The Oriental gardens have been reserved for the affair which will be on Thursday, November 29. Committees for the dance are being named and details will be planned very soon. Proceeds of the affair are to be used by the club in its activities arranged for the year.

Medford Folk Visit Mrs. Watson Boise

Mrs. Watson Boise entertained as her guests at dinner on Sunday her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Boise. The couples were enroute from Medford to Coquille and spent a few days with their son, Elmer, a student at O. S. T. A., later going on to Portland for a stay.

Couple Celebrates Golden Wedding Date

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cox of South Deer Creek, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in a very pleasant manner on last Sunday, October 21.

As dinner guests they entertained their three sons and families. Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Cox of Roseburg and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Cox of South Deer Creek. Mr. E. M. Taylor of Portland and Mrs. W. A. Blakely of Myrtle Creek. Mrs. Cox's brother and sister, in the afternoon, the following friends and neighbors called to express their congratulations and best wishes: Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Bates, Mrs. Bill Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Karpner, Mr. Duncan and daughter, Mrs. R. B. Banning, Frank and Edna, John.

DANCER'S GOWN DEMANDS ATTENTION

Jean Patou Makes a Fine Distinction Between Theatrical and Non-Professional Effects in Costumes; Says Ball-Room Danceuse Should Wear Fluffy, Undulating Chiffon or Tulle

BY JEAN PATOU

For NEA Service.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—It has never entered my mind to undertake to create theatrical costumes. I feel no inclination whatever to do so. There is, however, a type of dress destined to be worn and exhibited to the public which, while not coming under the heading of costume, is discernible by being a shade more extravagant and conveying a hint of eccentricity non-existent in an ordinary gown.

I am now speaking of the type of dress usually worn by the professional "ballroom dancer." An essential condition of such a dress is that it must not by any means look theatrical. Yet it should have a distinctive dressiness about it that would be out of place for a non-professional. For the ballroom dancer's gown is an entirely different one from the ordinary evening gown. In color, cut, decorative ornamentation and even in such things as décolletage and length, it makes its own rules. It is considered an asset for such a gown to attract attention, which of course is never the rule followed in choosing evening gowns for non-professional wear.

Must Be Supple

But the correct gown for the ballroom dancer should entirely avoid a stager look. What I dislike in any stage costume, how ever beautiful its coloring may be, is its lack of suppleness. Thus, of course, does not apply to character dancers.

The qualities I seek most to achieve when creating such a dress and which are absent in all other stage costumes are those of grace, movement and undulation. Anything likely to hinder movement and the rhythm of the dance—essential factors of such dances—is not only to be avoided but accentuated. Every movement the dancer is liable to make should be emphasized by a fluttering of material.

Dancing dresses I have so far created have been conceived on these general lines and therefore are always made of chiffon or tulle. Satins or any such other materials, through their very opaque qualities, cannot be expected to give that impression of airy grace which dancers always endeavor to convey. They are compelled to resort to a movement of the hands in order to make their dresses undulate around the body—a movement that may well be called effective, but never should be a necessity.

Feathers or Tulle

Always with this idea of conveying a sense of fluffiness, I am very much in favor of ostrich feathers as a trimming medium for these dancing dresses, on one condition though, and that is the very carefully thought-out way in which it is used. This idea of fluffiness is also the reason why tulle dancing dresses are shaded from light to dark and why more thicknesses of tulle are used at the waistline than at the hem. All these technicalities in the actual creation of the dress, aided also by stage lighting, contribute to the generally attractive appearance of the danceuse.

All effects or trimmings of a dancing dress, called upon to move with the wearer, must necessarily be used in moderation as it is of the utmost importance they should convey the impression of the performer's lithic body. Another feature I like to accentuate in this type of dress is a distinct waistline, enhanced by a glittering, waistbelt. It has no other object but that of outlining the slim grace of the artiste. But this, after all, is one of her absolutely essential requisites.

Mrs. Harrie W. Booth Entertains for Sister Friday

An interesting social affair for a few of the younger set occurred on Friday evening when Mrs. Harrie W. Booth entertained at her charming home in Laurelvood with a dinner party complimenting her sister, Miss Dorothy Geddes.

The occasion was the anniversary of the hostess's birthday, and ten were included in the list.

The hostess used Hallowe'en decorations at the large table, which was centered with a novel arrangement of black cats, goblins and orange candles. Chrysanthemums in graceful arrangements and Chinese lanterns transformed the room. Covers were placed for the Mesdames Dorothy Geddes, Shirley Knight, Margaret Hewitt, Helen Bergh, Vera McClintock, Hazel Strickland, Lucille Germond, Maxine Stearns, Rena Willis, Jenn Whitney.

Mrs. Booth was assisted by her mother, Mrs. A. J. Grimes.

Following the dinner party the group attended the concert of the Jubilee Singers.

Miss Hawn Entertains Few Informally Monday

Miss Evelyn Hawn was hostess to a few friends on Monday evening at her home, arranging sewing for their diversion. At the close luncheon was served by Mrs. A. D. Hawn.

Enjoying the evening with Miss Hawn were Mrs. Charles Pickett, Miss Claudia Householder, Miss Rena Willis and Miss Edna Hodges.

Autumn Visitors to Leave on Trip This Week

The Misses Vernie and Mollie Paul, who have been spending the summer at the Paul home on South Deer Creek, will leave this week for their home in Hollywood. After a week there, they will go on to New Orleans to spend the holiday season and from there return July 1st with their various cities of the south. They will be in Washington, D. C., for the inauguration and will visit later Philadelphia, New York, Boston and the New England states.

Mrs. E. W. Stacey of Klamath Falls, who was a visitor of the week, was among distinguished guests at the P. T. A. meeting. Mrs. Stanley is the second vice-president of the state. Mrs. Charles Thomas, another Klamath Falls visitor here during the convention, will be remembered as Miss "Gone With the Wind" Mrs. J. R. Rogers, a third member of the Klamath delegation, also met a number of friends while here. She is a cousin of Mrs. Olive R. Carnes.

Mr. and Mrs. LaBrie Being Welcomed Home

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. LaBrie of Garden Valley road are being welcomed home from the east and middle west, where for the past two months they have been staying with relatives.

They were to northern Michigan and visited Ann Arbor and also in Toledo and other Ohio points, returning here Friday.

Mrs. Chas. V. Stanton Invites Younger Group for Charming Affair

An attractive evening event for Thursday and wholly delightful among affairs for the younger set was the masque Hallowe'en party at which Mrs. Charles V. Stanton entertained the U. and I. class, composed of the junior high school girls, in the social rooms of the new Christian church building.

Each guest attended in costume and enjoyed games in keeping with the occasion.

Later in the evening the refreshment committee, headed by the Mesdames Opal Horner and Helen McDonald, served to the group. Arrangements for the serving were in one of the side rooms, two tables being set and appointed in black and orange crepe paper. Jack-o'-lanterns, lighted candles and other Hallowe'en ideas were carried out in the room.

Enjoying the hospitality of the hostess were the Mesdames Eva Gibson, Opal Horner, Helen McDonald, Mildred Carter, Mary Grubbe, Nova Rush, Virginia Ayers, Catherine Kent, Irene Inascho, Marie Head, Marie Waldo.

Matrons Join in Entertaining at Afternoon Party

Mrs. F. M. Allison and Mrs. Geo. Powers joined as hostesses on Wednesday, inviting to the home of the former the ladies of the M. O. A. Club for the afternoon.

Entertainment was furnished by Mrs. M. E. Davis, Miss John Travis and Miss Pearl Jones, who gave readings, and Mrs. E. G. Cloak who gave a group of piano selections.

Mrs. J. P. McKay assisted at the luncheon tables.

The list included the Mesdames John Marks, J. Jones, M. E. Davis, J. P. McKay, E. G. Cloak, John Travis, Hurlin, Mrs. Geo. Rickel, C. W. Cook, Ralph Bell, Miss Pearl Jones, Maudeline Moore, Edna May Choate.

For the next meeting on October 29, Mrs. John Marks has invited the ladies to her home.

Mrs. W. G. Paul Gives Luncheon for House Guests

On Thursday of this week Mrs. W. G. Paul of South Deer Creek entertained at a luncheon honoring her guests, the Misses Vernie and Mollie Paul, of Hollywood, Calif.

As a special feature of the afternoon, Miss Mollie Paul exhibited a large set of toys, dolls, miniature chess, furniture and lanterns. Illustrating the celebrated doll festival which has been held annually in Japan for a thousand years. Last year a most interesting letter from Miss Lily Ho of Shanghai was read. Miss Ho is the charming young Chinese woman who was a guest at the Paul home two summers ago.

Flowers and colored foliage suggestive of the season decorated the two long tables, where were seated the guests: Mrs. Achon, Miss Baldwin, Mrs. Clemens, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Housh, Mrs. Hinkley, Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Hovell, Mrs. Kollins, Mrs. S. J. Shoop, Madame Shoemaker, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Churchill, Mrs. Jean Mathis, Mrs. Starnes, Miss Page and Mrs. Willis.

Alumni Club of O. N. S. Assemble at Luncheon This Week

A group of enthusiastic Oregon Normal School alumni and ex-students of Monmouth held a luncheon at the Palace of Sweet's Tuesday noon.

Mrs. Thora Powell acted as toastmistress for the occasion. Gay autumn leaves and Hallowe'en decorations made the luncheon table attractive.

Normal school songs were enjoyed, led by Miss Mildred Scott of Monmouth, now teaching at Glendale.

Those attending were Miss Ona Dorch of Roseburg, Misses Ione Calloway and Alice Larsen of Yoncalla, Miss Marjorie Ladd of Sutherlin, Miss Welcome Martindale of Canby, Miss Alberta Wilcox of Drain, Miss Marie Wilson of Myrtle Creek, Mrs. Mary W. Gervais of Days Creek, Mrs. Grace Sawyers of Canyonville, Mrs. Laura Strop of Drain, Miss Echo Walker of Smith River, Clifford Morningstar of Drain, Miss Ida Frank, Miss Helen Gaffney and Miss Mildred Scott of Glendale, Mrs. Ruth Conkey of Roseburg, Mrs. Thora Powell of Yreka and Miss Myra Adcock of Unipqua.

Mrs. R. H. C. Wood Entertains at Country Home With Party

Mrs. R. H. C. Wood was a charming hostess at her country home in Garden Valley on Thursday afternoon, when she entertained the members of the Women's Club with a Hallowe'en party.

The home was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves, pumpkins and jack-o'-lanterns and the guests were directed into the house and through the rooms with sign signals of black cats and witches bearing warping and directions in keeping with the day.

Each guest wore an old style costume for the occasion, representing some period in history's styles, and Mrs. J. L. Poynter received a prize for wearing the oldest garment, a shawl of rare beauty, which came from Norway and has been in the family for seventy-five years.

At a late hour luncheon was served to the guests by the hostess.

Those spending the afternoon were the Mesdames G. C. Bailey, R. A. Callison, B. Evans, Donna Ferguson, B. S. Hutton, G. McKinnon, A. Niday, J. Ervin, Hugh Fred Parrott, J. L. Poynter, Ruth Ritchie, Sr., Jacob Ritchie, Jr., Peter Siefert, Jacob Sharps, Earl Barker, Miss Edna Niday and Miss Miller.

AMONG OUR SOUVENIRS

Some folks think its flat and foolish. When we speak of bygone days. And memories that linger round us.

We should forget, and be our age. But in them there's something lacking.

For youth is much like pleasant dreams. For our past is not our future. Else life would not be what it seems.

Remember when you were a boy. Back down your path of life. 'Twas there you reaped the hours of joy.

In later years the strife. Be there a man whose soul's so dead. Who never to himself hath said.

"O I would that I could turn back to my childhood. And be that bare-foot boy just once more. I would sacrifice all if happen it would.

And place me back by our old farm house door." The robin's sweet song as it echoes along.

In time with the brook running by the old gate. And the peal of the school bell as it chimes in the dell.

"Telling me if I am early or late." So, as I journey along on this path of life.

Past Noble Grands Assemble at Pleasureable Evening Party This Week

The Past Noble Grands Club of the Rebekah lodge sponsored their annual Hallowe'en party at the Odd Fellows temple Thursday evening, with Mrs. Belle Austin and Mrs. Tillie Johnson joining as hostesses.

Both the parlors and the banquet room were beautifully decorated in autumn leaves with touches of orange and black crepe paper lining a colorful backdrop. The members had been asked to wear something in keeping with the season and many black and orange paper dresses were among the costumes. As favored, each guest was given a quiet little way to wear.

The first part of the evening was devoted to the usual routine of business, at which time a communication was read from the matron of the Odd Fellows home in Portland, stating some of the things needed in the different rooms. It was decided each member of the club would make one of the articles desired and a box be sent at Christmastide.

The members were also urged to contribute to a needy family and many articles were promised. In the final drawing for the prize of the evening, Mrs. Minnie Clark secured the lucky number.

Be it stormy, cloudy or clear. My boyhood to me surely always will be.

Next to my heart and most dear. To the little girl who wrote the poem.

"That Old School House of Mine." Your friends are true, we think of you. Your poem was sure Divine.

A little consolation may I forward on to you. No matter where you are, or live. You'll find friends both good and true.

So let your heart be gladdened. And on through coming years. Put Looking Glass down in your memory.

As among your Souvenirs. —R. D. JORDAN. Looking Glass, Oregon.
