UNDERSCORING IN BOOK PROVES FIRE SUICIDE VERSION

(Associated Press Special Wire)

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—A page from a book on religion with the phrase "the rotter's fire," underscored, turned new light today on the death of Miss Etta Knack November 2 from burns inflicted, she said, in "purification rites" in the Lake Bluff, Ill., police station furnace room.

The book, found among Miss Knack's private papers, spoke of "the purifying process of pain." "It is grander to suffer," said the book, "because, rightly viewed, it is sure to perfect the soul. It is impossible to know true joy—the heights of joy—until you have known corresponding depths of pain." This is the process called "the rotter's fire." The last three words were underscored.

Miss Knack was found semi-conscious in the police station basement, her legs, arms and head badly burned. In the days before she died she persisted in her story that she alone had inflicted the burns, and a coroner's jury last week returned a verdict accepting the young woman's story.

Investigation by county authorities and by the girl's family has continued in the belief that a second person had a part in the affair.

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM DRAWS A HUGE CROWD

The local Episcopal church and chaplain of Umpqua post. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. W. R. Baird and the band closed the program with the rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner."

At noon several hundred veterans partook of a free feed furnished by Umpqua Post of the American Legion. A field kitchen was set up on the vacant lot at the corner of Main and Oak streets, where "stew" was cooked and a regular meal served in army style. This stunt proved decidedly interesting to the veterans and the onlookers.

The afternoon was given over to the football game at Finlay field between Roseburg and Medford junior high schools.

At night the armory was crowded for the annual Armistice Day ball. The dance was a very enjoyable affair and the music was exceptionally good.

Ox Gall Treatment Ends Constipation

Simple Extract From Ox's Liver Puts Drugs to Shame!
Restores Regular, Every-Day Movement in Perfectly Natural Way

DULL AND HEADACHY DAYS GONE FOREVER!

If you are a sufferer from constipation, sick headaches and miserable loopy days, and have tried everything in the world to get rid of the trouble, this is your salvation! You can throw away your drugs and with a simple product of nature correct your constipation for good, enjoy a healthy, complete evacuation every day and be 100 per cent alive, active and energetic!

Nothing less than ox gall, a secretion from beef livers, has been found to be a remarkable corrective of constipation because of its action on the bowels through the liver. Constipation is a condition that shows your liver is not acting right. Your liver is not pouring enough bile into the bowels. Bile is a natural purgative and the bowels require a quart a day at least. But often, due to sluggish liver, the supply is less than half a pint. Then the bowels "tie up," become sort of paralyzed and you have constipation.

Ox gall stimulates the liver in a perfectly natural way—strengthens and builds up the liver so that it produces the necessary amount of bile for the bowels. When the bowels get sufficient bile they move automatically every day, freely, easily and fully, and you enjoy your full measure of vigorous health.

Try the ox gall treatment for just a few days and see the difference it makes! The treatment consists simply of taking two Dioxol tablets a day at bedtime for a short time. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall, guaranteed in dainty tasteless form, each tablet containing 10 drops of the pure ox gall. The treatment is inexpensive, as Dioxol tablets cost less than 25¢ apiece at any good drug store. It is essential that you get the genuine, pure ox gall and for this reason it is important to ask for Dioxol tablets. Make a 3-day test of this treatment and see the results change.
