WOMAN USES AXE ON SALOON; STIRS UP LAW'S FORCES

(Associated Press Local Wire) KANSAS CITY, Dec. 12.—From a sick bed today Mrs. Maud Wilson viewed with satisfaction the far-reaching results of her angry descent upon a hutchet upon the neighborhood saloon, where she asserted liquor had been dispensed to her husband and 18-year-old daughter, late.

The latter day Carrie Nation was suffering from nervous illness from the excitement and publicity following her "dry" raid Monday, but she believed she had surpassed her goal. The saloon in which she left a broad trail of broken glassware, had a great deal of business, and the building was for rent.

Furthermore she now believes she will get action from federal and city prohibition forces from which she said she was unable to get any response before she took matters into her own hands.

Mrs. Wilson, her husband and daughter have been ordered to appear before the county grand jury next week to testify regarding the saloon's activities, and her charge that she saw policemen enter and loiter about the place. Investigators from the prosecutor's office inquired into the reported sale or gift of liquor to minors at the saloon. Miss Wilson declared that "Jazz" Blundell, alleged operator, had given her a half pint of corn liquor.

Meanwhile the storm of charges and counter charges that broke between the federal and local authorities and the prosecutors of the city regarding responsibility for "side open" liquor selling here continued in full fury.

Fruit growers and farmers should hear Mr. Lehr's talk on "Modern Tillage" at 5:30 Friday morning at the K. P. hall. His experience in this research work will mean a saving of many dollars to you. Wharton Bros.

INFLUENZA AND DEATH RATE ARE ON THE INCREASE

(Associated Press Local Wire) WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—An increase in the influenza death rate and a rise in the general death rate in the United States were announced today by the public health service as 46,510 cases of the disease were reported in 29 states, New York City, and the District of Columbia.

A total of 189 deaths resulted from influenza in 77 cities during the week ending December 8, the bureau reported from information submitted by telegraph to the bureau yesterday. This compared with 43 deaths from the disease in the same cities during the week ending November 3. The general death rate for the U. S. for the week was 13.3 per 100, 0.90 population, compared with 11.9 for the corresponding period of last year.

The bureau said some authorities attribute the rise in the general rate to the increase in deaths from influenza but it declined to comment.

ONE FIRE CAUSES MORE LOSS THAN ALL XMAS TREES

The children of Moscow, in Soviet Russia, are this year forbidden to have Christmas trees. The Russian "Societies for the Defense of Nature" lament the destruction of young fir trees, so reads a recent news item.

"Not so in America, where foresters strongly endorse the continuance of the old custom which brings joy to youthful hearts," says John D. Guthrie, of the U. S. forest service, Portland, Oregon.

Forestry is the growing and handling of trees for human uses and needs, and a Christmas tree surely is a legitimate human use and need. Cutting Christmas trees may be done in such a manner as to improve the forests and may be good forest conservation. By cutting trees from thick patches of young growth and using the shape by tops, and not cutting more trees than actually are to be used, a real benefit will be done to the forest, federal foresters say.

Permission to cut trees from lands of Oregon is required by law in both Oregon and Washington. The use of living Christmas trees, brightly lit and decorated, by towns and cities is growing in popularity in Oregon and Washington and is also strongly endorsed by the U. S. forest service as a beautiful and beneficial form of expression of the Christmas spirit.

It is said that some five million Christmas trees are used each year in the United States. By cutting every suitable tree 5,000 to 10,000 acres would furnish this supply, whereas a single unseasoned tree might destroy several times this number of young Douglas firs, the forest service says.

seed amounting to two-thirds of the Oregon crop was imported in the United States during July, August and September.

Experiments have shown that animal protein is necessary in laying ration for poultry. Very few eggs will be laid if it is omitted or displaced by vegetable protein. From 10 to 20 per cent animal protein will fill the requirement. Milk or milk products, raw meat, or meat products, and commercial fishmeals are good sources of animal protein.

Plank floors are more comfortable for stock to lie on than are concrete floors. In case a barn has concrete floors, removable planks can be laid on top of them.

Winter months provide a time to overhaul thoroughly farm equipment, says the Oregon Experiment station. Though shares can be re-ground and sharpened, worn bearings and all farm machinery or checked, and all farm machinery be replaced to see that it will be ready for instant use. It is well to order and install implement parts now which have been broken. Now overhauling during the winter months the life of farm implements can be lengthened materially.

BANCITALY FILES IN DELAWARE TO EXTEND BUSINESS

DOVER, Del., Dec. 12.—A charter was filed at the state department today for the Bancitaly company of America, authorizing it to subscribe for, purchase, acquire and hold for investment, stock bonds and other evidences of indebtedness of any corporation, domestic or foreign, and to exercise all rights and privileges of individual owners.

The corporation is authorized to issue 1,675,000 shares of stock with a par value of $100 a share. The incorporators are William T. Schweigert, S. J. Tost and Eustace Cullinan, Jr., of San Francisco.

A NEW NUMBER Those: Do you know the gorilla song? Them: Gorilla is? Those: Gorilla my dreams, I love you.—Judge.

FARM REMINDERS Successful farmers with low and poorly drained cereal fields are providing surface drainage with profitable returns, according to the Oregon experiment station. Furrows following the contour of the land in the low areas remove much of the surface water and prevent much winter killing by drawing. The drainage ditches need to be opened from time to time as they usually become clogged readily.

Many farmers could increase their incomes by renting additional land for next year. It pays to keep machinery and help busy, points out the management department at the experiment station.

Trapping the first migration of rats and mice in the grain bins, rather than waiting till later infestations, saves time and money. Frequent oiling of machinery gives better results than applying the oil in large quantities and less often.

Caponizing can be practiced successfully in Oregon. Usually there is a good demand for well fattened capons at good prices. Breeds such as Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Cochins, Brahmas, Orpingtons or cross breeds of these can be successfully used. After some training caponizing can be performed rapidly and with little danger by any one. Cockered from 2 to 4 months old are best suited.

The equipment for growing young plants of various vegetables has become modernized almost as fast as the automobile. A few years ago the nature hotbed was used extensively, today almost propagating greenhouses are used. There is hardly any question concerning the greater efficiency of the greenhouses for plant growing not to mention the greater care and cost in doing of the work. A grow-
