ALL SHOULD HAVE PLENTY OF MILK

Bones and Teeth of Children and Adults Need Milk in the Diet

Two famous nutrition authorities emphasize the need of the human body for the calcium and phosphorus found in milk. Children and expectant or nursing mothers should have from three-quarters to one quart of milk a day, according to these authorities, and other adults should have from three-quarters of a pint to a pint of milk a day. These authorities point out that too little calcium in the diet retards bone growth, causes rickets, may result in bone deformities, produces poor quality of teeth and reduces vigor and vitality. Whole milk also is rich in phosphorus.

Unfortunately there are many people who do not like the taste of milk. For all such people, a delicious milk drink should be made. One mother makes her children sager for milk by giving it to them in milk shakes. "They call one drink a chocolate froth," she says. "I take a level teaspoon of cocoa and 1 1/2 teaspoons of sugar, mix in the bottom of a glass with a few drops of milk until it's smooth, add a drop or two of vanilla flavoring, fill the glass with milk and shake it with an ordinary tin shaker. The youngsters are crazy about it." She goes on to say, "They like it sometimes without the chocolate, just the vanilla and sugar."

Sugar is Nature's ideal flavor. "Help make children drink milk," says an eminent food scientist, "by adding chocolate and sugar." The Sugar Institute.

JUDGES CHANGE TO HEAR TRIAL OF NORTHCO

Walter Collins, and yesterday entered San Quentin prison to serve a life sentence, the youth said, "She's crazy. She is a fool. What did she want to plead guilty for?" Mrs. Sarah Louise Northcott made a verbal attempt in court Monday when she entered an unexpected plea and asked for immediate sentence, to show the justice blame for the slayings upon herself to protect her son.

Mrs. Christine, mother of Walter, for whose death Gordon Stewart will be tried, today said that she "did not want to believe that her boy was dead, but hoped that it was some other boy mistaken for Walter."

In the meantime, Mrs. E. W. Winslow, mother of Lewis and Nelson Winslow, who were slain in the "murder farm" according to Mrs. Northcott's story, was overcome with grief, and in a serious condition at her home in Famosa, Calif.

LA GRANDE THUGS CAUGHT 2 HOURS AFTER $535 HOLDUP

(Associated Press Local Wire) LA GRANDE, Ore., Jan. 2.—Less than two hours after a holdup at the Arcade theatre here this morning in which Francis Gould, one of the owners, was robbed of $535, John Richard Byng and Ben Robbins, about 22, were under arrest.

Byng was captured in a box car and Robbins was taken at his home. Each had a roll of stolen bills and cash concealed, officers said.

Byng surrendered when the officers threatened to throw gas bombs into the car. He said his companion was Ben Robbins. Byng only recently was released from the state hospital at Pendleton. He said Robbins planned to go to Tampa, Fla.

EDDY LEAVES BEFORE LOCAL KIWANIS CLUS

A most interesting address was presented before the Kiwanis club at the noon luncheon today by Senator R. L. Eddy, who spoke on some of the problems that will come before the legislature at the next session. He dealt principally upon the problem of taxation and reduction of automobile license fees. He gave Kiwanians a different insight into both of these problems, showing that many of the proposals that are suggested as solutions cannot be placed into effect because of constitutional limitations.

OLD SINNER THOUGHT

A GLENNER: If you will answer me one question, I will come to church. MINISTER: What is the question? OLD SINNER: Who was Cain's wife? MINISTER: My friend, you will never be able to embrace religion until you stop bethering yourself about other men's wives.—TIT-BITS.

NEWS-REVIEW STARTING NEW STORY MONDAY

"Orchid," New Serial by Famed Newspaper Woman, Contracted.

AUTHOR "WHIRLWIND"

Second Newspaper Story by Eleanor Early Said to Be Better Than Her First.

A new serial story, "Orchid," will begin Monday, January 7, in the News-Review. This new serial is another of the N. E. A. fiction stories that have proved so popular with News-Review readers and is written by Eleanor Early, the author of "Whirlwind," one of the most interesting and intriguing stories that have been presented to newspaper readers for many years.

Perhaps the fact that her first newspaper novel was entitled "Whirlwind" has had something to do with Eleanor Early's "whirlwind" career as a writer of newspaper serial story hits. "Whirlwind" appeared in the News-Review and scores of other leading papers throughout the country just a few months ago and was tremendously popular. Now Miss Early has written a story which promises to take its place beside her first serial as one of the outstanding of the year.

Miss Early has had a colorful career as a newspaper woman. In this country and abroad, she is a native of New England and lives in Newton Lower Falls, Mass.

Her years of experience in newspaper work has given her an understanding of people that aids her to include a thrilling and appealing element in her stories, so that she has quickly built a following of millions of readers. "Orchid" is a story of many interesting characters, chief among them a girl with the unusual name of Ashtoreth Ashle. Ashtoreth was a stenographer whose cleverness, charm and ambition enabled her to marry the most eligible bachelor in America, and he was the man who named her "Orchid."

Ashtoreth thought that money would provide happiness, but she was never able to forget her first love, "Monty," and when they met again, "Monty" was a story that will hold your interest to the last chapter. Stories have been written by better stenographers who married millionaires, but you have never read a story like "Orchid."

It bears all of the human element that made "Whirlwind" so acclaimed as the greatest novel in years. "Orchid" is a most worthy successor.

The first chapter appears Monday, Jan. 7. Read the first chapter and you will not want to miss any of this wonderful story.

ORCHESTRA HAS COMEDY ACT AS PROGRAM FEATURE

"Norma," this funny fellow is the feature of the show presented by Warner Bros. and his famous orchestra, when it comes to the Auditorium theatre next Friday evening.

If there were nothing else on the bill but Norma, the show would be a knockout, however, Norma is a comedy act.

AUTO FATALITIES IN 1928 PROBABLY UNDER 1927 TOTAL

(Associated Press Local Wire) CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Unless the nation's December auto accident toll was greatly increased over that of the same month last year, 1928 will show a decrease in automobile fatalities over 1927, the National Safety council said today in reporting 2,400 auto fatalities for December.

The eleven months total for 1928 was nearly 23,000 lives. Among cities of more than 500,000 population Chicago had the highest automobile death rate.

The 2,400 total represented an increase of 6.5 per cent over October, but a small decrease from November, 1927.

November also brought 1,300 home accident fatalities, 60 per cent of which were caused by burns and falls and 15 per cent from poisoning. One-third of the victims of deaths from burns were children under five years of age.

A toll of 25,000 lives was taken by automobile accidents in 1927.

QUESTION MARK STILL FLIES ON ENDURANCE TRY

Blaine M. Tuxhorn hopped off in his open-cockpit monoplane at 3:54 a. m. today in an attempt to establish a new endurance flight record by refueling in the air by means of using a synchronized catapulting device.

The ground was now covered and the thermometers hovered about 5 degrees above zero when the Kansas City aviator and his co-pilot, Leonard Rhiner, took the air. No trouble was experienced in getting off the ground.

The plane carried 25 gallons of gasoline, enough fuel for seven to eight hours, and he planned to refuel for the first time about 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Tuxhorn planned to fly at an elevation of about 1,000 feet.

Although cold, the weather was bright and clear with prospects of the mercury climbing considerably.

When the plane had been in the air a half hour, Tuxhorn dropped a note saying they had forgotten their fuel tanks in a cable to protect them from the icy blasts. He asked that these be included when breakfast was sent up by a container by the refueling device.

To break the endurance record set by Belgian fliers, the little monoplane must stay aloft until 9:30 Friday night.

How Device Works

The refueling device constructed by Tuxhorn entails four-gallon containers into the plane when set off by a hook attached to a cable dropped from the tower. The containers are projected along the line of flight at approximately the speed of the plane and are hauled aboard by a winch operated by a small, wind-driven propeller. The container is dropped with a parachute.

The plane carries an official barograph installed yesterday by Harold Campbell, president of the St. Joseph chapter of the National Aeronautics Association.

More Speed Sought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Lieut. Afford J. Williams, navy speed pilot, now on duty at the bureau of aeronautics, is collaborating with the Mercury Flying corporation of New York in the construction of a new fast plane that is hoped will exceed Williams' own unofficial record of 315 miles an hour.

It was said at the navy department today that Lieut. Williams' interest in the plane is private and outside his official duties.

Navy department officials refused to comment regarding the possibility of Lieut. Williams' participation in this year's Schneider cup race, or as to whether the new plane is being built to compete in that race. It was stated, however, that the department itself is not planning to construct or fly a plane in the race this year because of the prohibitive expense involved.

On Errand of Mercy

EDMONTON, Alberta, Jan. 2.—Flying on an errand of mercy to the far north, an airplane piloted by Captain "Wop" May, was to leave here today with 500,000 units of diphtheria antitoxin for the Hudson Bay company trading posts at Fort Vermilion and Little Red River.

The aerial dash with the medicine follows receipt of a message last night that A. Logan, factor in charge of the post at Fort Vermilion, was dead of diphtheria and fears were felt that others of the 200 persons living at the two outposts of civilization would be stricken with the disease.

The rescue mission was requested by Dr. H. A. Hamman, who is stationed at Fort Vermilion, 600 miles north of Edmonton. The message was dated December 18, and had to be brought by dog team from Little Red River to Peace River, a distance of 167 miles. From Peace River the request for aid was wired to Dr. M. R. Bow, deputy minister of health at Edmonton.

Logan's death was the only one which had been reported up to December 18, but Dr. Bow feels it is possible others may have occurred since that time as Dr. Hamman indicated the disease was spreading.

Captain May is a pilot instructor at the Edmonton aero club. His journey is fraught with danger as his plane is equipped only with wheels, and it may be difficult to find a safe landing place in the frozen north. Hopefully word was flashed by radio last night and today telling those at the two forts to prepare for May's arrival by clearing a landing place and starting a smoke fire to inform the aviator of the field's location. If all goes well, May expects to reach Fort Vermilion Thursday afternoon.

EXHIBITION CANCELLED

LONDON.—One Mr. Fitzgerald of Barmen was growing a giant pumpkin for exhibition at a fair. He provided every care that could be given a pumpkin and it grew ponderous. Then one day, Fitzgerald went out to inspect the pumpkin and found that his Persian cat had scooped out a cavity in it and had taken possession with a litter of four kittens.

AMERICAN WOMAN DESCRIBES REVOLT IN AFGHANISTAN

(Associated Press Local Wire)

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 2.—Describing her adventures before her rescue from Kabul, Afghanistan, to the Lahore correspondent of The Times of India, Mrs. Allen Isaacson, an American who was Miss Leah MacDonald, said today that the abdication of King Amanullah seemed imminent at one time.

Mrs. Isaacson said that Bacha Saka, a bandit leader, pretended to be a friend of the king but was really operating treacherously in order to obtain arms and ammunition for his own ends from the state arsenal.

Clad in a dazzling uniform, Bacha styled himself the new king of Kabul. He did not realize how nearly he had succeeded, for his attack was the decisive factor which broke the morale of the government and forced King Amanullah to accept the proposals of the Mullahs who instigated the Shinwari rebellion.

Bacha, she said, did not loot the villages since he wished to retain the people's good will for the day when he became king. He even posted his own sentries at the British legation to prevent his men from entering.

Mrs. Isaacson described the anxiety of the foreigners who sought refuge at the legation when the situation was so critical that King Amanullah was given 24 hours to abdicate.

There was great relief when it was learned that the king would stick to his post.

After six days of fighting Bacha withdrew with his entire force to the mountains.

Drug Is Means By Which Gangs Recruit Ranks

(Associated Press Local Wire)

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Mayor James J. Walker, in a copyrighted article in the New York American today, gives the cause of narcotics as one of the chief causes of crime in the metropolis.

He also asserts that New York is relatively the least crime-ridden city in the country when its millions of inhabitants are compared with the size of other communities.

While wrongdoing in other communities is minimized by their local newspapers and not published in metropolitan papers, the mayor says, similar occurrences in New York are given nationwide publicity giving the city a reputation of being wicked.

Young men, who under proper conditions would be useful, law-abiding citizens, Mr. Walker writes, are turned into gunmen and gangsters by a handful of gang leaders who feed them drugs to undermine their moral fibre and to gain an ascendancy over them.

The mayor said that World War, which lowered the respect for human life, also had contributed to present day lawlessness.

PORTLAND THUGS MURDER AND ROB AGED CHINAMAN

(Associated Press Local Wire)

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 2.—Ling Sing, 75, Chinese, foreman at the Riverview cemetery, was beaten to death sometime last night by persons who apparently had robbed him of $150.

Ling Sing started to town last night to buy supplies, having $150 on his person. When he failed to appear today fellow gardeners set out to search for him, finding his body this morning along a trail near the cemetery. His watch and 22 cents were found on his body.

Holdup Yields $1600

Two robbers wearing false mustaches held up Mrs. A. H. Berg at Berg's chalet, near Tigard, late last night, and forced her to turn over to them $1600, the receipts of New Year's eve at the chalet.

Responding to a doorbell ring was met by two men with drawn revolvers who said to her: "Lead us to your money and be quick about it." She was backed up the stairs to her room, where the robbers found the money. They drove away in an automobile.

Mrs. Berg said today that she immediately notified Washington county officers but they had failed up to 9:30 o'clock today to come to investigate the holdup.

COLLEGE EXPERTS COMING TO STUDY POULTRY COSTS

A. S. Burrier of the farm management department of the O. S. C. extension service and Frank L. Knowlton, of the poultry department, are expected to arrive in
