CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DRIVE IS UNDER WAY

The annual Chamber of Commerce drive got under way this morning with an excellent start. Committees reported at noon stated that they had met far better success than anticipated. Nearly all old members have either maintained their old pledge or have increased their payments, while several new members have been secured.

The officers are greatly encouraged by the fine showing so far.

The Hoot Owls, who broadcast each Friday night from station KGW at Portland, have presented the veterans at the Oregon Soldiers' Home with a fine 7-tube water Kent all-electric radio set which is being installed today by Raymond Parlow, local dealer.

The Hoot Owls several years ago presented a radio set to the home, and recently inquired whether or not the set had been enjoyed. When informed that it was nightly surrounded by a group of interested listeners, they made arrangements with the local dealer to put in a more modern and up-to-date outfit.

Commandant Starmer is having the new set installed in a special room in the old Commissary building. A partition is to be removed to provide a recreation room where the veterans may gather in the evenings and listen to the radio programs and play cards and other games at the same time.

At the Hoot Owl program on Friday night the officers of the home and the veterans are going to send the gift, which will be greatly appreciated and will give the residents at the institutions a great deal of fine entertainment.

FIND EXPLODED TRAP GUN IN TRAIL

breath might have been killed by one of these guns, and that his body was then removed and his identity hidden, while at the same time, according to reports received from Riddle, did not result in any indication that a body had been hidden there, but the debris will be completely cleared away before the search is ended. In the meantime other searchers are busily engaged in checking over every foot of ground on the various claims in that vicinity looking for any trace of a grave or a spot where a body could be hidden, while at the same time they are seeking indications of moonshine operations or other illegal activities.

Larceny Charge Filed

Schroeder and Sullivan are already in jail and Bradford is to be arrested for larceny and will be held on these charges while the investigation and examination regarding Gilbreath's disappearance continue. It is claimed that a razor, furniture, provisions and various personal effects that have been missing from Roseburg's camp, near the Bradford claim, were found in possession of the three men, which led to their arrest and later to the discovery of the set gun.

The officers have as yet, of course, made no definite statements linking up any of the three men with Gilbreath's disappearance, as the whole case up to the present time is only a matter of theory, but the fact that set guns have been operated, which in itself constitutes a violation of law, opens up a wide range of possibilities demanding immediate investigation.

Searchers Baffled

The men searching for Gilbreath have been baffled by the lack of clues concerning his movements, and have generally been of the opinion that his disappearance dated from a few hours after he left home.

At the time of his departure he was carrying provisions for three days. His bread was wrapped in oiled paper and he carried several items of food in his, so that if he had stopped for a meal there would undoubtedly have been some signs in the way of paper, cans, and doubtless the ashes of a fire. The search in the Wilson creek territory was so thorough that all manner of small articles were found, and the searchers were particularly instructed to watch for scraps of paper, but despite the fact that hundreds of such things were found there was nothing that could be identified as having been associated with Gilbreath. Every cabin in the whole country was visited, and each camp inspected, but there was no trace of his having eaten a meal or stayed over night in any of these shelters. This has, from the first, given the searchers the idea that whatever mishap he suffered came within a few hours after his departure, which would fit in perfectly with the set gun theory.

There was nothing, searchers stated, at the site of the set gun to indicate that anyone had been shot or wounded there, but such traces, if any were left by those who would have removed the body, it was pointed out, would have been largely obliterated by the stormy weather that followed Gilbreath's disappearance.

District Attorney Gordon, while refusing to comment upon the details of the case, stated that he had ordered a most thorough investigation, and that the men now held on the larceny charges will be subjected to a thorough examination if any evidence is secured by the officers who are being led in their search today by Sheriff Jackson.

SUGAR IS BOON IN DAILY DIET

The Truth About Sugar and Tooth Structure

There has been so much talk in this country about teeth that we recently asked an outstanding dental authority to discuss dental care from the standpoint of sweets.

"Sugar in the diet," he says, "has no effect on the tooth structure of either child or adult. Wherever people have poor teeth, it is not a case of sugar but due to some other cause which sufficient study would reveal."

It may be heredity or faulty diet during childhood or later. Children, in order to develop good teeth and bones, must have the vitamins and minerals of milk, cereals, fruits and vegetables. Adults must continue to include these in their diet if the teeth and bones are to remain healthy.

Note how sugar may actually be a help to good teeth. It encourages children and adults to eat the needed foods. Sugar makes milk, in milk-shakes, and also cereals, fruits and vegetables delicious. People will eat foods that bring pleasure, and sweetness develops the fine flavor of healthful foods.

No sweet or starchy food, or other food, must be permitted to stick to or lodge in the teeth. Keep the teeth clean, see a dentist regularly, and balance the diet with milk, cereals, fruits and vegetables. Sugar makes dieting for good teeth a pleasure. The best cooks are generous with sugar.
