The week has held much in the way of social interest, hardly a day passing that has not held some special club affair or charming party.

St. Valentine's day was honored with many events, centering the attention of business for inspiration to entertain at lovely affairs, both large and small, which served to bring groups of friends together to spend the sunny afternoons in bridge or sewing.

Monday evening the Catholic ladies entertained at the last of a series of large parties to precede the opening of the Lenten period on Ash Wednesday, the affair taking the form of a benefit card party at the parish hall to which many devotees of bridge and five hundred were drawn.

An afternoon reception on Tuesday was given by the Girls' Club of the Senior high school for the mid-term sophomore girls and was of interest to the younger set. There have been several luncheons and bridge afternoons to lead up to the week's entertaining, several of them being for out of town visitors.

Valentine Party Is Among Week's Large Affairs at Church

Valentine day on Thursday was inspiration for much of the week's entertaining and among the largest affairs quite enjoyable for some of the younger married couples and maids and young men was the party at which the members of the Eldon Club entertained the boys of the Kunojuans Class and the members of the orchestra of the Christian church that evening.

The social rooms of the church made a very attractive and appropriate setting for the games and stunts, all being carried out to suggest Valentine's day. A supper was served later in the evening by a group of the hostesses.

The list included Mrs. Harold Honeck, Mr. and Mrs. Royd Bratton, Mr. and Mrs. Glade Bratton, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Coffell, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Walton, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Church, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. V. Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. C. Radabaugh, Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Baird, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian T. Bloom, Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Beechell, the Misses Isabel Warren, Esther Miller, Elsie Hudson, Gladys Boudell, Helen Ferguson, Elizabeth Bourhill, Vera Bates, Fannie Miles, Velma Parkerson, Bertha Robt., Lucia Koonke, Thel Lawrence Dillaway, Gila Luce, Floyd Church, Dale Byrd, Linnel Heblie, Chas. Little, Bill Calhoun, Sheldon Daley and Ray James.

New York Visitors at "Fair Acres"

Mrs. Frances E. Klingberg and her son, Earl Klingberg, of New York City, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Fairbanks, "Fair Acres," near Clatsop.

Mrs. Klingberg is a sister of Mrs. M. B. Gasky and an aunt of Mrs. Fairbanks. While visiting here several affairs are being given to welcome Mrs. Klingberg.

The Woman's Day

BY ALLENE SUMNER

Women are more interested in trifles, and more are more interested in material things—houses, money in the bank, better and bigger jobs, investments, golf clubs. This, according to Dr. F. A. Moses, professor of psychology at Oregon Washington university, who has just completed a series of psychological tests on men and women, aimed to point out various sex differences.

The discoverer that women are generally a bit more developed than men; that women excel in matters of social tact and in an capacity of observation of human behavior.

People and Things
Men, on the other hand, have a greater variety of interests, some of specialisms on the personal, keen on the impersonal and material.

He points out that women cannot tell subtle things for love, and men over business matters.

No one, whether he knows anything about psychology or not, can argue with these findings. If he has observed men and women at all, this fact of woman's interest in the world of personal human emotions, and man's in the material and impersonal, makes one wonder that there isn't more human misery than is truly very sex misunderstanding.

Proof in News
In the day's news, for instance, in the tragic story of former District Attorney J. E. Kirkbride of Douglas, Cal., who killed his wife and himself "as an act of mercy," as he explained in a farewell note. He had lost his job, he explained, and life was "valueless" to him. It is very probable that if he had

Visitor Honor Guest at Lovely Luncheon at Heinline Home

For one of the lovely early spring parties which made the week so pleasurable Mrs. C. E. Heinline entertained at an exquisitely appointed luncheon Monday at her home in Laurewood complementing a popular visitor in the city, Mrs. C. E. Rusko, who is being widely feted during her visit from High River, Canada.

The table setting was of Valentine suggestions and a graceful centerpiece of red carnations added color to the affair. Tiny red hearts were used about the arrangement and little cupid place cards marked the covers.

Mrs. Rusko was formerly head of the art department of the Heinline conservatory here and the guest list included several of those who were of the faculty at that time and other close friends. The ladies sewed and chatted before the fireplace during the afternoon hours.

A gift book was given the honoree and each guest placed her name on its pages as a memento of the occasion.

The group included the Messdames C. E. Rusko, Washington Hughes, P. T. Babar, J. D. Osborn, A. J. Young, Wm. Bell, R. L. Gile, D. B. Hunter, M. F. Rice, T. H. Noss and the hostess.

Arthur Cloake Honored at Affair Sunday on 80th Anniversary

Sunday marked a beautiful affair for several when Mrs. Elvin Cloake and Mrs. Kenneth Cloake entertained at the home of the latter honoring Arthur Cloake on his 80th birthday anniversary.

The long table was centered with a large birthday cake and the other appointments were in yellow.

The sons and daughters present were the Messdames C. E. Marib, A. Cloake, E. A. Heimbolt, Max Myers, Harry Marks of Reedport and Warren Cloake, Elvin Cloake and Kenneth Cloake and other guests were the Messdames Alfred Cloake, Warren Cloake and C. E. Marib, E. A. Heimbolt and Max Myers. The following grandchildren took part also, Ruby, Evelyn and Harold Cloake, Betty and Richard Heimbolt, Margaret and Barbara Cloake, Alice and Robert Myers, Ella Mae, Wallace and Morris Cloake and Walter Hatfield.

Mrs. R. R. Harding Hostess to Group for Afternoon

Mrs. R. R. Harding entertained at her home on Garden Valley road Tuesday afternoon. Games were played for diversion.

A large Valentine box centered the luncheon table.

Guests were the Messdames John Putter, Curtis Calkins, McRay, Kenneth Cloake, Ralph Holt, C. B. Cathina, Powers, Allison, John Travis, E. G. Cloake, Richard Liles and Mrs. Jones. Mrs. Liles' daughter of Seattle.

Flat Witness

A couple of mid-west gentlemen have invented a flat hot dog. They say it is the best thing since sliced bread, being light on the bun, easy to dash with mustard and offering more of a tang-bomb to the teeth. Now that the flat hot dog is an actuality, we wonder why the old-time used wasn't long before. We happen to go on and on, taking for granted that women must be round, until one day the genius decides on the flat bread and the rest of us who see the picture being noted wonder why we never thought of that ourselves.

Modero Hope
Lettie Margaret Brown, 7, of Perry, Kansas, was kept alive for eleven days by Bremen of Topeka, Kansas, while a prosopagnosia machine. This is the sort of thing which makes one wonder if "the good old days" were so infinitely superior to those of the present.

As these members of the club have birthday anniversaries this month the occasion was specially arranged for their pleasure. The list included the Messdames J. F. Jones, F. A. Stewart, J. E. Clark, R. H. Williams, V. E. Buckingham, C. L. Mabey, F. D. Currier, E. P. Ballous, D. E. Hendrickson and the hostess.

Visitors From South Complimented at Affair Tuesday

Honorable for a number of the younger group was the Japanese party for which Mrs. J. G. Morris was hostess Tuesday evening at her home, inviting a number to meet her niece, Miss Henrietta Rodius of Los Angeles, and her son, Jerome Morris, who has been a visitor from San Diego. Japanese designs were colorful in the decorations and Valentine suggestions found a place also in the rooms. Miss Rodius received with Miss Elizabeth Morris and Miss Mildred Morris in costume. The girls attending wore Japanese costumes, also, and the boys wore Oriental caps in keeping with the occasion.

Dances were found enjoyable and afterward the guests were served a buffet supper. Mrs. Paige assisting the hostess.

Enjoying the affair were Miss Henrietta Rodius, Jerome Morris, honor guests and the Misses Hazel Keister, Helen Keister, Belle Keister, Mildred Morris, Elizabeth Morris, Opal Gordon, Margaret Jennings, Margaret Ferguson of Garden Valley, and Janeve Chamberlin, John Montgomery, Wm. Boone, Clark Chamberlin of Looking Glass, Vellemont Morris, Clyde Keister, Mr. Craig, Ellsworth Ott, Clifford Paige, Lloyd Hayes of Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woodruff and son, Mrs. Paige and Mrs. Morris.

Two Matrons Join as Hostesses to Club

Mrs. Lee Williams and Mrs. Albu Spang were joint hostesses to the members of the Tri-Square Club Wednesday afternoon of this week, when they entertained at the home of the former on South Stephens street.

After a short business session a program consisting of a song and encore by Mrs. A. B. Taylor, a reading by Mrs. Chas. Wickham and a talk by Mrs. Albu Spang was given.

The rest of the afternoon was spent in visiting and sewing after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Those enjoying the occasion were Mrs. Graun Osborn, Mrs. Mand Stauffer, Mrs. Nick Nelson, Mrs. Garry Rapp, Mrs. Chas. Wickham, Mrs. A. B. Taylor, Mrs. Clifford Gordy, Mrs. Harry Hatfield, Mrs. Lee Williams and Mrs. Albu Spang.

Daughter Oakland Couple Bride Medford Man

Miss Gertrude Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Smith of Oakland on February 7 became the bride of V. R. Milline of Medford. The wedding is of particular interest here and Oakland as Mrs. Milline is one of Douglas county's teachers, and is at present teaching in southern Oregon.

They will reside in Medford, where Mr. Milline is engaged in business.

Mrs. J. D. Stewart of Portland Arrives Friday Afternoon to be the House Guest of Mrs. Jno. Throno at her home on East Cass street for several days.

Mrs. Pyron Hostess at Evening Party

On Wednesday evening Mrs. May V. Pyron entertained for one of the charming Valentine parties of the week, the list including members of the operators' staff at the telephone exchange and other guests.

Suggestions of the day were carried out in the decorative motif of the room and a Valentine box, other games and hearts added interest to the evening's diversion. Later at tables Mrs. R. N. Ballard assisted the hostess at luncheon.

The guests were Mrs. Charles Jewett, Mrs. Bernice Butler, Mrs. Wallace Rapp, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Parson, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kenney, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. McKellar, the Misses Clara Ahin, Nedra Clark, Lucille Walton, Hazel Strickland, Isabel Warren, Pearl Goetz and Wm. Siddmore, Allan Brown, Gordon Hibbs and Kenneth Hillwell.

Honoring Miss Marlin Schwarz, who announced her engagement to Thero Galt this week, Mrs. Guy Galt entertained at her home Friday evening with a miscellaneous shower. Bridge was played with a supper served later. Valentine boxes and decorations were used.

Following was the guest list for the evening: Miss Marlin Schwarz, Miss Margaret Palmer, Miss Betty Galt, Mrs. George Stratton, Jr., Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mrs. Lucille Jones, Mrs. F. A. Tripp, Mrs. J. E. Clark, Mrs. Walter Snyder, Mrs. Harriet Hoyer, Mrs. William Wade Jr., Mrs. E. V. Hill, Mrs. Helen Allen, Mrs. Florence Mickelson, and the hostess—Eugene Gault.

Mrs. Hughes Gives Luncheon for Group on Thursday

Mrs. Washington Hughes was hostess for a charming luncheon on Thursday at her home, receiving the matrons of the Book Club and two additional guests.

Carnations and valentines gave a pretty note of color to the luncheon table and pussywills were used about the room.

The afternoon was enjoyed with reading and discussing short stories.

TRAVEL TOGS TAKE TASTE

Correct Wardrobe Adds to the Joy of Globe-Trotting and Just Week-Ends

BY HENRY BENDEL

Written for NEA Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Gone are the days when only the inordinate-ly wealthy took winter vacations. Today the successful business woman is just as much of a globe-trotter as her society sister. And she starts off just as gaily for Hawaii, Bermuda, Florida, or the play spots of the west coast, as if there were no such thing in the world as an office desk.

Part of the fun of traveling is having the right wardrobe—having just what you need for any so-called emergency, but not a lot of superfluous luggage that you don't need. Being free from worry about clothes is no small advantage.

For vacations that include a boat trip, there is nothing more serviceable on shipboard or after your arrival than one of the new suits of faille silk. And if there is anything left of it when you can return, it will be just the thing to begin the spring on in the city.

These suits are appearing in all colors, from the pastel shades that are so alluring, to the practical

Here's Smart Model

Illustrated today is a smart model developed in mauve faille silk with a wool jersey striped in mauve, beige and brown. The loose box coat has a new neck treatment, the deep collar forming part of the lapel on the left side and ending in a loose scarf on the right. With it is a soft felt hat of wood brown.

For the separate coat, I know of nothing more appropriate, if you can afford it, than one of the new hat fur models. It protects from salt water dampness and is not too warm for ocean travel or for the cool nights of the semi-tropical climates.

The model illustrated has many novel features to recommend it and make it distinctive.

Sand-colored American broadtail is the fur chosen, and the collar is trimmed with triangles of the same fur dyed a light beige tone. The lighter fur is used also for the belt and to pipe the novel points on the sleeves and across the front. There is a decidedly modernistic note about the coat, but it is so discreetly worked out that the bizarre is not even faintly suggested.

The brown felt hat is trimmed with a band of the beige-dyed broadtail applied across the crown rather than in the conventional manner.

For the evening gown, I suggest satin. It is the most serviceable material for traveling use, wrinkling less than velvet or chiffon and standing the dampness of the sea air with less injurious effects.

The illustration shows a formal type of gown in shell-pink satin embroidered in gold, green, blue and silver. Its distinction lies in the skirt, which is trimmed with a single flounce, extending to the hip on the left side with a low sweep over the right.

Such a gown, with smart lines and lovely embroidery, can be made to serve for dinner, for dances, theatre and all formal evening functions.

Regarding the traveling outfit, I suggest a practical sports suit, a high-waisted coat, two or three smart daytime frocks and one or two colorful evening gowns.

C. E. Societies of County to Meet Here in March

Interest is being manifested in plans for the county convention of the Christian Endeavor societies of the Christian and Presbyterian churches, the dates of which are set for March 8, 9 and 10.

Delegates and visitors from all of the societies in the county will be entertained by the two Roseburg groups Friday night, Saturday and Sunday and arrangements are being made for several social events aside from the business sessions.

Rosa Guiley, state field secretary of Oakland, Mrs. Walter Germain (Lucille Sappington) of Marshfield and former president of the county group, are to be two visitors taking part in the meetings.

The program will include stunts, singing and devotionals, a short play and other matters. A banquet is being discussed for one night of the meetings.

Arrangements will also be made to select delegates to the state convention in Salem in April.

Mrs. T. E. Singleton of this city has been in Eugene a few days this week as the guest of her daughter, Mrs. H. F. Ogden.

Patriotic Motif at Missionary Society Meeting Thursday

Thursday marked quite an interesting and enjoyable occasion for the Presbyterian Missionary Society, the members being invited to the home of Mrs. C. D. Viles, with Mrs. Fies, Mrs. T. B. Virdy and Mrs. Fred Fisher joining as hostesses for the afternoon.

Mrs. Geo. Houck presided and devotionals were led by Mrs. M. J. Shoemaker.

A patriotic motif was noted in the program for the day, roll call being answered by short quotations about George Washington. Mrs. Homer Grove gave a very interesting educational talk on Korea.

Club Party Is at Germond Home This Week

Mrs. M. B. Germond and Mrs. I. T. Whitney were hostesses for one of the week's interesting affairs in club circles when they entertained Monday evening at the Germond home for the ladies of the Neighbors of Woodcraft Thinkle Club, there being 11 guests.

A hint of Valentine's day was found in the room decorations where the ladies discussed business of the club and later sewed and enjoyed music.

At the close Miss Lucille Germond and Miss Jean Whitney assisted in serving luncheon at tables appointed with Valentine favors. Present for the evening were the Messdames Max Ruff, Valde Owens, T. J. Brown, J. B. Hughes, Addie Aldrich, Alfred Neal, H. W. Taylor, Applegate, the Misses Jean Whitney, Lucille Germond, Dorothy Germond and the hostesses.

Minnesotans Arrive to Visit in City

Mrs. B. A. Butler and son, Harry Butler, of Brainerd, Minnesota, are visitors being welcomed in Roseburg circles. They came west to visit with their daughter and sister, Mrs. J. A. Harding, and were met in Portland Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. Harding, who motored from Roseburg and returned here with them. Mrs. Butler and Mr. Butler will be guests at the Harding apartments in the Umpqua hotel for a visit.

Large Party Early Week Is One of Series by Catholic Ladies

As one of an interesting series of public affairs which will be resumed following Easter, the Catholic Ladies entertained at a delightful card party at the parish hall Rose City.

RELAXATION OF MUSCLES BRINGS GRACE OF FORM

Editors Note: The attainment of beauty and physical grace through elasticity of the muscles is explained in a series of twelve articles on "Limbering Up to Beauty" which Louise Gifford, Columbia university instructor, and former "body director" for the Theatre Guild in New York, has written for the News-Review and NEA Service. This is the first article.

BY LOUISE GIFFORD
For NEA Service
Are we superior to animals? The astonishing civilization which differentiates us so sharply from the animals has improved primitive man mentally, but it is destroying him physically.

Why should an animal keep its youthful elasticity even through old age, while we grow stiff and weary when we should be in our prime?

The process of ruining our physical machines began in early childhood. Little girls were told to "keep still," "Stop wriggling," "Act like a little lady!" Nowadays girls can climb trees and jump fences, if they are blessed with the yard to play in. But childhood for the older generation that can no longer touch its toes when standing was one long lesson in suppressing natural bodily instincts.

Watch a cat wake up from a comfortable nap in the sun. He may be a Methuselah of cats, but he is not too old to yawn, stretch and wriggle himself awake. Watch a young child. He stretches and yawns like a cat. But in our yawns we stir a cat's instinct to energetic, tense and tight muscles constantly suppress the luxury of long, relaxing stretches and so we lose our chance to keep young and sleek with the tigers.

Modern woman envies the feline grace of the tiger. She, too, wants to be sleek, slim and youthful. If she can learn to stretch, squirm, loosen up her whole body she can keep or regain that youthful elasticity that keeps the body alert, young and full of verve.
