Edwards' address on "Lincoln, the Emancipator of Our Country," was very interesting to the group. The program closed with a reading, "The Spirit of '76," by little Barton Brown.

A tea followed the entertainment and Mrs. W. E. Ott, Mrs. Annie Russell and Mrs. Thos. Ollivant were in charge of the tables.

Party for Pupils

Has Patriotic Theme

Mrs. R. V. Hatfield and Mrs. J. A. Pinkerton were joint hostesses to the members of the two upper grade classes of the South Deer Creek school when they entertained with a party on Wednesday evening at the home of the former on South Deer Creek. They were assisted by the teacher, Mabel C. Williams, and Mrs. W. G. Paul.

Washington's birthday was the inspiration for the affair and the patriotic motif was carried out in the decorations.

Rook and music were the diversions of the evening and refreshments were served at a prettily appointed table made colorful with a large centerpiece of cherry tree decorations.

Enjoying the affair were the Misses Margaret Banning, Lois Duncan, Roberta McLoughlin, Isabella Karcher and Nadine Pinkerton; Howard Hatfield, Alva Karcher, Donald Wright and Walden Hatfield.

The Wo-He-Lo Camp Fire Girls group is to hold a meeting this evening, Miss Jessie Judd entertaining the girls at the J. M. Judd home on South Jackson street.

Club Matrons Spend

Afternoon Sewing

On Thursday the matrons of the Northside Sunshine Club were invited for a pleasant afternoon party given by Mrs. A. McComas at her home. The rooms were made attractive with a setting in keeping with Washington's anniversary and following a brief business meeting the ladies sewed. At the close of the afternoon the hostess served refreshments.

P. T. A. Entertains

at Social Recently

The Rice Creek P. T. A. entertained at the Brockway hall with a basket social on the evening of February 15, the Willis and Rice Creek schools cooperating in putting on the evening's program.

A good amount of money was realized from the entertainment and the proceeds divided between the three groups. The program was patriotic in theme to honor both Lincoln's and Washington's anniversaries. About 200 attended.

The Misses Dorothy Ness and Mary Hayes of Medford attended the first night showing of the legion play here this week. They were guests overnight at the home of Miss Ness' parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Ness, in Laurelvood.

Umpqua Unit Striving for Membership Quota by First of March

Umpqua Unit, American Legion Auxiliary met for a short business session on Tuesday night, February 19th preceding the Legion show. The committee reported that plans are well under way for the annual Easter Monday ball. The fashion show scheduled for March 6th promises to be a gala event and the organization is receiving splendid cooperation from the local merchants.

Although Umpqua Unit has the distinction of being the largest unit in the state, special stress is being laid on membership and determined effort is being made to reach the quota of 250 by March 1st. The latest report places Umpqua Unit's paid-up membership at 211. It is the purpose of the unit to secure the balance of the quota and get the report in the mail to headquarters by Saturday, February 23rd in order to receive the proper credit. All mothers, wives and sisters of American Legion men are eligible for membership in the auxiliary and it is hoped that any eligible persons desiring membership will report at once to Mrs. Geo. Caskey, president; Mrs. R. Ritzman, secretary, or to any member of Umpqua Unit.

Junior High P. T. A. Hears Health Talk

The Junior High P. T. A. met on Monday evening at the high school building for the regular business session.

Several matters were discussed, among them the launching of a membership drive, which will be started immediately, the object being to secure 100 per cent membership in the association.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to a talk on health and prevention of diphtheria, by Dr. R. B. Shoemaker.

Past Matrons Entertain Husbands at Dinner Party Tuesday

A particularly pleasurable affair for Tuesday evening was the 6:30 o'clock dinner party at which the members of the Past Matrons club entertained their husbands at the dining room of the Masonic hall, which held a spruce like setting of flowers in graceful arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. McElhinny, who are leaving Roseburg this spring to make their home in the northern part of the state, were honor guests for the occasion.

Following the dinner hour the guests went to the reception room for cards. There were 22 present to enjoy the evening.

Music Selected for Southern Oregon Festival

Music has now been selected for use in the Musical festival to be held under the auspices of the Southern Oregon Normal School at Ashland on May 3 and 4 in which the Douglas county schools have been invited to participate with the southern Oregon counties, according to data received by the county school superintendent from Miss Leona G. Marsters, formerly of this city, who is directing the festival.

In order that even small schools may be represented, those in charge do not specify the number of students eligible for any event. The music used for the girls' chorus in the high school section is in three part arrangement, first and second soprano and alto.

It is expected that there will be a representation from the county schools in the festival, which will be quite the largest musical event of the spring in southern Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Jordan of Idaho Falls, Idaho, arrived Thursday and are being entertained over the week-end at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Clair K. Allen. Mrs. Allen is their niece.

Mrs. E. V. Hoover Is Chaplain Zuleima Temple, D. of N.

One of the most brilliant and interesting events of the organization of the winter was the reception at which Zuleima Temple No. 13, Daughters of the Nile entertained the supreme queen of the Daughters of the Nile, Mrs. Victoria Crouse, of Los Angeles at Grants Pass recently. Mrs. E. V. Hoover of Roseburg, chaplain of the temple attended from this city and was installed as a new officer for this year.

Initiation of new candidates was held, after which tea was served in the ante room of the Masonic Temple, where the sessions were held. This was followed by lodge, when the new officers were installed by the queen.

At the Del Rous at which a luncheon was given for Grants Pass and visiting members of the temple and their husbands and escorts.

Zuleima Temple's jurisdiction covers all of southwestern Oregon as far north as Salem and there were a number of visitors from all cities in this territory, including past queens of the temple.

Mrs. Weatherford Plans Party for Pupils

The home of Mrs. Harriet Groves Weatherford, a local piano instructor, was the scene of a party on Wednesday evening of this week at which time a group of older music students were entertained. Piano numbers were artistically rendered by the students. Self-confidence is gained by performing in the presence of other pupils. An appreciation of the playing of other students is also cultivated.

The playing of musical and other games added much interest to the evening.

The hostess was assisted with the serving by her mother, Mrs. C. W. Groves.

The invitation list included sixteen of Mrs. Weatherford's students. Earlier in the season the younger pupils were entertained at a Thanksgiving party.

Mrs. Weatherford expects to present a group of "Dancing" pupils in recital on Monday evening, March eleventh at the First M. E. church to which the public is cordially invited.

15,000 Extras Employed in Filming New Picture

"The Trail of '98" Comes to the Antlers Thursday Three Days.

RALPH FORBES and DOLORES DEL RIO in "THE TRAIL OF '98"

Millions of people who have read with interest and pleasure the famous story from the pen of Robert W. Service, in which the author tells the story of the Klondike gold rush, will be glad to learn that the mammoth Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film version of the celebrated novel will be seen Thursday at the Antlers theatre.

The story begins with the gathering of people from all parts of the globe at San Francisco, where they set sail for the Yukon, and ends with the great conflagration that reduced Dawson City to a heap of smouldering ashes. It shows in all its thrilling detail the maddest scramble for the gold that the world has ever seen.

The leading roles are played by Ralph Forbes, Dolores Del Rio, Harry Carey, Karl Dane, Tully Marshall and many other distinguished film artists.

"Interference" at Antlers Sunday

EVERETT BRENT and WILLIAM POWELL in the "INTERFERENCE" starring popular film players in "INTERFERENCE"

Four popular screen players have equally important parts in Paramount's screen version of "Interference," which comes to the Antlers theatre Sunday. They are "Clive Brook, Evelyn Brent, William Powell and Doris Kenyon.

"Interference," when presented on the stage was acclaimed as a sensational "hit" both in London, where it ran for two years, and in New York, where it held the boards for nine months. Roland Pertwee and Harold Dearden collaborated in writing the stage play, which was adapted to the screen by Hope Loring and Louise Loring.

YOUTH LIES IN LOOSE BODIES

Limber Joints Spell Energy

Editor's Note: This is the second article of a series on "Limbering Up to Beauty," which Louise Gifford, Columbia University Instructor, and former "body director" for the Theater Guild in New York, has written for the News-Review and NEA Service. Today she gives an exercise that will help you to attain added physical grace.

By LOUISE GIFFORD
(For NEA Service.)

Limber up, if you would stay young.

There is youth in loose joints. She who would preserve that fluid quality of grace that defies the years must limber up and stay that way.

If your joints are loose, your back and shoulders will find it hard to stiffen up. Loose joints make for poise and grace. They mean that there is room between the spaces in your joints for relaxation of nerves. There is no resistance from knotted nerves and, hence, every spot in your body is alive. With no nerve tension, circulation is more nearly perfect and the whole body tingles with life and energy.

Old joints are brittle. Their stiffened joints are awkward. There is no co-ordination in the body.

Perfect co-ordination that makes for feline grace comes only when joints are utterly limbered, when every nerve is perfectly relaxed and when there is no resistance from any out-of-tune muscle. Every woman can know the joy of perfect body co-ordination, if she will only learn how to limber up.

Relaxed Nerves Bring Grace

Exercises.

The aim of these exercises is to get the body as relaxed as a scarecrow flopping in the wind.

First, take hold of your left wrist with your right hand and shake the left hand energetically. It will flop around like a garment on a clothesline blown in the breeze. Next noting how loosely the hand can be shaken, try shaking the elbow, then the shoulder on the same side. Then begin on the right wrist, holding it with the left hand, and shake it until it tingles. Shake elbow and whole arm from the shoulders until they both feel loose.

Then, standing on one foot, shake the other foot, then the knee, and then the whole leg from the hip. Repeat on the other side. As you practice shaking the natural looseness of the joints will come back.

When all your joints are loosened, try shaking yourself all over, as a chicken does after it has taken a sun bath or animals do after a nap. Let your head drop forward, your arms hang lax, your knees sag and just throw your relaxed arms this way and that until your whole body is shaken up.

These exercises should be practiced without strain or hurry and never to the point of fatigue.

The average figure slouches, leaving "room" between ribs and hips. The exercise: Raise one arm upward, measuring with a hand the distance between ribs and hips, and holding that distance as the arm is lowered.

Women, like flower, eye when they fade.
