

TWO FARM RELIEF PLANS FRAMED FOR COMING CONGRESS

(Associated Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, Mar. 21.—Representative Clark, republican, New York, submitted to President Hoover today a plan for farm relief which would call for tariff readjustment, the creation of a farm board, extension of the federal warehouse policy to provide loans upon stored farm products, and enlargement of the research work of the department of agriculture.

In addition, Clark proposed a survey of geographic areas with the commodities produced within them to determine whether cooperatives should be formed, and the creation of a clearing house for the dissemination of information gained from world-wide marketing and farm surveys.

Brookhart Has Plan The $125,000,000 farm relief program Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, is going to be one of the many proposals put before the senate agriculture committee when it starts work on a 1929 agricultural relief measure next week.

Brookhart failed to get any support on this proposal at the last session. He is not assured of any now, but he was one of President Hoover's heartiest campaigners and he is confident the new chief executive will give his plan favorable consideration, at least.

The Iowa, in his elaborate proposition, aims to guarantee to the farmer a return of five per cent on his capital investment. He would set up a farmers' national export cooperative, financed by the government, with power to buy and withhold surplus crops from the market. If any losses were sustained in this operation, and he doesn't believe there would be heavy ones, he would have the United States treasury meet these up to $600,000,000.

That figure, he estimates, is the amount of the "subsidy" paid the farmers by the government after they were returned to private ownership and the amount of profits made by the government in the grain corporation during the war. Under his plan, the department of agriculture would be called upon to ascertain the average cost of production to farmers of each agricultural commodity having an exportable surplus and also the financial investment of the farmers, for use by the farmers' cooperative in determining its prices.

RESCUE ENDS ATLANTIC TRIP IN 23-FOOT BOAT

(Associated Press Leased Wire) NEW YORK, Mar. 21.—The long odyssey of Captain Jacob P. Schuttevaer, 70-year-old sea captain who sought to cross the broad Atlantic in a 20-foot "unsinkable" life boat, has come to an end and the determined old salt is enroute to San Juan, Porto Rico aboard the steamship Marquesa de Comilla.

Well again at sixty-eight—and filled with new hope

Worried by the sufferings of an elderly father with diabetic symptoms, a son forwarded a package of Agmel from the distant town where he was living. Afterwards, the happy young man wrote: "Agmel relieved my father from the cramps which had been torturing him. He is now up and about again and is filled with new hope for complete recovery. At his age, over sixty-eight years, I consider this remarkable."

las which picked him up in mid-Atlantic Monday. Details of the rescue of the captain and his crew of two were received by the Associated Press from Captain Miranda of the Spanish steamer who picked them up. When the men were rescued they told Captain Miranda they would have starved or died of thirst soon if the ship had not happened along. The Schuttevaer, as the lifeboat was named, left Lisbon February 8 and had not since been heard of.

Celebrates in Plane MacKenzie, who is 45 years old, said he was in Milwaukee Christmas eve and that he chartered an airplane, with an electric-lighted cross built under it, and had it fly over the city as part of the Christmas celebration.

Police found MacKenzie living in a $5 a week room. He had a small grip, packed with a scant wardrobe, and the old-fashioned, well worn telescope crammed with valuable securities.

HENRY JOHNSON REMOVED FROM GOVERNORSHIP

(Continued from page 1) The court he previously had declined to discharge his secretary because rumors, circulated by political enemies, had interfered his relations with her were improper. The charges included in the purported articles of impeachment voted by the attempted session in 1927, was not renewed, and, for this reason, Johnson said he felt justified in accepting the woman's resignation.

TOURIST CARS COLLIDE

The machine occupied by two California men and the car belonging to Grant Unstet of Dayton, Iowa, were in a collision on the Pacific highway straight-of-way near Deady Station Wednesday afternoon, resulting in no injuries to the tourists in either machine. As the car, occupied by the Californians who were traveling north, started to pass the other machine it skidded on the wet pavement and the two cars collided, the California tourists going into the ditch and turning over.

FORMER CONVICT AND WIFE KILLED BY N. Y. GUNMEN

(Associated Press Leased Wire) NEW YORK, Mar. 20.—A squad of four or five gangsters drove up to the apartment of Frank Sacco, a former convict, in Astoria, Queens, this morning, battered down the door and shot him and his wife, Rose, to death. Half a dozen or more shots were fired and the slayers escaped in their automobile.

Sacco, the police said, was released from Sing Sing prison about a month ago, where he had served a term for perjury. They said that search of police records indicated that the slayers were in revenge for testimony that Sacco gave in a trial which followed a gang shooting in April, 1925, in which one man was killed and Sacco seriously wounded.

The slain couple had evidently expected trouble, for the police found that the inside of the door leading to their apartment was heavily sheathed with iron.

Sacco was found on the bedroom floor with a pistol in his hand. His wife was on the bed. Both bodies had numerous bullet holes in them.

Police believed the shooting was a case of the underworld taking the law into its own hands against one who had done the same thing himself years ago.

In 1917 Sacco's brother Joseph was killed. A man named De Luca was arrested and questioned but released. But Sacco would not accept the decision that De Luca was innocent. De Luca was killed and Sacco was given 20 years for second degree murder.

He completed his time last summer. Although at first police were convinced the double slaying was the result of his killing of De Luca, investigation of his prison record suggested another possibility. Last summer, it was learned, Sacco tipped off the authorities at Sing Sing that other convicts were planning a break for liberty and the prison break was frustrated.

PENNSYLVANIA COAL MINE IS HORROR SCENE

(Continued from page 1) The explosion, those who escaped came from an entry about five miles from that known as the Kinloch entry, the center of the operations. Fire Follows Explosion The explosion occurred shortly after 7 a. m. The day shift of workmen had entered the mine not long before. Some said there were two blasts, one immediately following the other.

A sheet of flame shot three hundred feet in the air, witnesses said, from the main tippie at Kinloch. Six men at work near the tippie were injured. As the hours passed, more miners arrived at the Kinloch entry after coming to the surface at the distant mouth known as the Valley Camp entry. At 11 a. m. company officials said that between 130 and 150 men were known to have escaped.

S. P. FREIGHT RATE QUIZ RE-OPENS IN MEDFORD FRIDAY

(Associated Press Leased Wire) PORTLAND, Ore., Mar. 20.—The Interstate commerce commission hearing on rail freight rates on the Pacific coast was expected to adjourn here today and to convene in Medford Friday for further testimony. Today's session consisted simply of a "cleaning" of testimony, reviewing that of previous days.

The Western Oregon Traffic Association will present its case at the Medford hearing, with testimony advanced to show how the rates as proposed would affect towns in the Willamette valley and in southern Oregon.

W. A. Curtis, secretary of the Portland Traffic and Transport Association, declared the proposed rates are discriminatory and unfair in that rates on rail shipments from Seattle to southern Oregon points would be less than would be the rates from Portland on the same commodity.

In many other instances, Curtis declared, Portland and Seattle rates to southern Oregon would be equalized and Portland would lose the rightful advantage it now enjoys in being closer to point of delivery.

The hearing is being conducted by Examiner Flynn of the interstate commerce commission on petition of the Southern Pacific, which seeks to put into effect a new rate schedule from San Francisco to Portland and Puget Sound ports, in competition with water traffic.

MINING WELL EQUIPPED

The Kinloch mine was rated as one of the most modern and best equipped in the bituminous region. It is a slope operation using electrical apparatus. Its daily capacity is 4,000 tons of coal and normally it employs 292 men. It was visited last year by a United States senatorial committee investigating conditions in the western Pennsylvania coal belt.

Twelve men were killed in the same mine on February 21, 1928. Survivor Recites Horror PARNASSUS, Pa., Mar. 21.—Raymond Tomblin, one of the miners who escaped from the explosion that swept the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp coal company today, expressed the belief that many of his fellows had died within the pit. Tomblin said he found the body of his "buddy" as he was making his way to safety from the Valley Camp entry, five miles from the town of Kinloch.

Tomblin was one of a party of 21 men who came out of the Valley Camp entry. He said that with the explosion there came a rush of air in that section of the mine. A haze filled the chambers soon after, and he detected gas, he said. Confusion among the miners followed the blast. Some ran back into the mine, away from the Valley Camp opening. These, Tomblin feared, did not escape. There were approximately 50 men working near Tomblin.

The miner said that as he wandered about he came upon the body of his "buddy" but saw no others. While he was getting out, Tomblin said, ice cold water rushed through the mine and rose almost to his chin.
