All Contributions to this Page—Society, Women's Clubs, and Personals—Should Be Telephoned to the Society Editor by Friday of Each Week.

Informal touch in social affairs was noted through the week and has served to add a gay note to luncheons and dinners among club groups. The smaller gatherings and larger events alike have given interest and pleasure to the week. Among the entertaining affairs of Tuesday was the Women's club program for that afternoon. The arrival and departure of visitors, too, has given impetus to social affairs and several have been inspiration for delightful small affairs. Mrs. W. L. McGeorge and Mrs. Booth-Clibborn, visitors here from Portland, shared honors at a charmingly appointed spring luncheon for which Mrs. A. C. Marsters was hostess on Friday.

With the arrival of Holy Week society will be noticeably quieter.

Dinner and Bridge Party Smart Events Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Coen

One of the most attractive formal affairs of the past fortnight was the 7 o'clock dinner at which a group of their friends entertained Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coen, whose marriage was an event of March.

Invitations to the smart affair were issued 16 intimate friends of the couple for Tuesday evening at the Umpqua hotel. The table was set in one of the upstairs reception rooms of the hotel and a bowl of yellow daffodils and tall tapers in the same shade gave color to the perfect appointments.

Following the dinner hour the guests went to the apartments of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lockwood where Mrs. Lockwood and Miss Fern Reymers entertained them with bridge.

A background of yellow, carried out with the use of early spring blooms, was effective.

A family prize for the evening was given, this being received by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Nowland. The honor guests, too, received a prize, which was the gift from the assembled guests.

The list included Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coen, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Nowland, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. G. Kohlhaugen, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hellwell, Miss Eva Rice, Miss Fern Reymers, Harry Butler of Brainers, Minnie J. Pickens, Geo. M. Hubbard, Arthur Smith.

Miss Reynolds Is Bride of Roseburg Man

A wedding early in the week which came as a surprise to many friends of the couple was solemnized Monday afternoon, March 18, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Reynolds, at Cleveland, when Miss Mabel Reynolds became the bride of Luther Iron of Roseburg.

The date was a significant one as it also was the birthday anniversary of the bride's mother.

The service was solemnized at the hour of 1:30 o'clock by Rev. G. H. Crawford, First Methodist minister of Cottage Grove, before a group of relatives.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served. That evening the couple was given an old fashioned charivari and a luncheon was served to 52 guests.

The bridegroom is employed at the Hanson Chevrolet company in this city. He and his bride will reside at Cleveland for the present.

Youth Livens Day-Time Frock

Simplicity Marks Garb For Early Spring Wear

NEW YORK, Mar. 22.—Daytime frocks for the early spring retain their former staidness and youthfulness and add a piquancy and charm that sets them apart from the late winter styles.

Materials are very important this spring, and are varied. Too glossy surfaces and those with a high sheen are not so smart as those that are less obviously silky. The satin, for instance, of this year, has toned down its highlights and has depth rather than brilliance.

Silk crepes that are really smart have a dull mat surface, rather than a shiny one, with a decided creasiness to the weave.

The prints of this season achieve perfection of design and beautiful color schemes rather than daring effects. All of these manifestations in material are prompted by the present sophisticated attitude of woman toward her clothes.

She seeks all the time to perfect what is good and tried, and to grow into elegance rather than novelty.

Illustrating the Trend

Vinnet illustrates the modern trend in clothes perfectly in the morning frock which is made of flat crepe in two shades of tan and where the triangle is the motivating design. It is formed almost entirely of angles, so deftly arranged that they are not monotonous in the least. The sleeve is cut raglan style—Vinnet specialties in this line, and the collar folds so softly that there is no suggestion of severity.

Fullness is introduced in the skirt by the addition of a triangular insert in the front, and the only concession to ornamentation is suggested in the brown rings which fasten the narrow, tailored belt.

One of these frocks exploits angles, and the other a jabot and frills, and each in its own way achieves chic and youthfulness.

Another daytime frock which is easy to wear, carried out in the mode of the moment, is the model developed in bold rose shell crepe. The distinctive blouse has a side jabot, which effect is repeated in the wide middle which wraps twice around the hips and ties in a large bow with long ends at the right hip.

severely plain sides wrap over the pleated section of the skirt and form an overskirt on the left side.

Lona straight, perfectly fitting sleeves keep the silhouette straight and narrow, in spite of its jabot and its bows.

This model is wearing the type of hat which is so popular now at the winter resorts and will be bound to be popular here all summer—white ballbun, with a band of grosgrain ribbon and an impudent bow at the side front.

Naturally, with these simple frocks, pumps, hose and millinery are very important, since they contribute definitely to the chic of the costume, and one harmonious

The Woman's Day

BY ALLENE SUMNER

The Federal council of Churches, alarmed by the rebellion of the younger generation against conventional sex standards, appointed a committee which recently issued its final report on "Ideals of Love and Marriage." One Bishop presided over 21 preachers and professional church workers, three laymen and one representative of the American Social Hygiene Association as the only social worker. The committee decided that:

"The Christian ideal of marriage can make no compromise with lax sex relations."

"The chief danger of companionate marriage is that it puts sex desire first."

"The free woman on the basis of equality and self-respect can be the life-mate of one man only."

"Divorce when allowed by the church, must be looked upon as a tragic and humiliating failure."

wives, and the Hindu law books do not prohibit polyamy.

"The Churchmen's generalization on divorce also arouses questions. Must all divorce be looked upon as tragic and humiliating? What of the many reasonable and innocent men and women who go into marriage to find themselves misunderstood, agree to part in friendly fashion, and try again? Must they feel tragic and humiliated because they have made a common mistake of youth?"

Freedom?

"And why must the free woman be 'the life mate of one man only' if she is to maintain equality and self-respect? Why not leave the choice as to the number of gentlemen to the lady herself if she is really free?"

"We are living in that particular part of the Western Hemisphere which in the early twentieth century is dominated by a set of religious and social traditions called 'monogamy.' We think it the best form of marriage, but like all other moral institutions this one of monogamy should be tested on its merits to see if the traditional method of sexual life is sound. This test the federal council committee has not made—and perhaps cannot make because it is bound in advance by a preconceived notion of sexual right and wrong. It has delivered a series of opinions based upon the assumption that the pattern of the monogamous family is good in itself."

"Because of this preconceived moral pattern the churchmen put the cart before the horse and suggest that he family as an institution is more important than human happiness."

"However you may agree or disagree, there's meat on this bone! Put your teeth into it!"

Decision Questioned.

"The magazine, 'The Nation,' makes the following pertinent comment:

"Such sweeping generalizations naturally evoke questions. What, precisely, are 'lax sex relations?' Is the church to be the judge of laxity or is the younger generation to be the judge?"

"If the churchmen set up strictly institutional and legal standards for judging marriage, what justification and body of facts can they bring to the support of their standards? Certainly unless they can supply something more than declarations of principle, the younger generation will say that they are begging the whole question of sexual conduct."

"Solomon had 700 wives and 300 concubines, but by the church standard of his own time he was not guilty of lax sex relations." The Koran allowed a man to take four
