"VOICE OF THE CITY" AT THE ANTLERS

The extreme simplicity and directness of Willard Mack's all-talking picture, "The Voice of the City," which is now playing at the Antlers theatre, has made it one of the most unusual and popular attractions to play recently in Roseburg.

"The Voice of the City" has been acclaimed by critics as a perfect example of talking picture technique. With its plot condensed in a time space of twenty-four hours, the story moves with extreme rapidity. From the moment it opens, with Doyle's sister and sweetheart awaiting word as to whether he has really survived in a sensational prison break, there wasn't a wasted moment through the exciting man hunt by Biff, the detective, until the striking climax and romantic finish.

AIRPORT BOARD HOLDS MEETING BUT RESULTS LACKING

The city airport board met yesterday afternoon in a brief session but failed to take any definite action. The commission is considering whether to buy the property at the price stipulated in the options or endeavor to secure the land by condemnation. There is also considerable debate regarding the improvements to be made. If money is spent in gravelling extensive runways, or putting in a drainage system, there will be nothing left for lights, while, on the other hand, the fact that night flying is being established makes lights almost a necessity, but if this equipment is purchased there will be only a small amount left for improvement to the field.
