NATIONAL LEAGUE LEADERS OF 1928 HIT DOWN GRADE

Cardinals Win But Six of Last 29 Games; Pirates and Cubs Continue Neck and Neck.

By HERBERT W. BAKER (Associated Press Sports Writer.) Here and there on the pages of baseball history are recorded the dramatic collapse of powerful baseball machines, but the fall of the St. Louis Cardinals, National league champions in 1928, threatens to go down in the books as one of the strangest and most unexpected of all form reversals.

For two months the Cards were in the thick of the pennant chase. Then they fell apart. There have been a number of explanations for the collapse of the champions but most of the responsibility can be traced back to a veteran pitching staff that cracked wide open at a time when Billy Southworth had no up-and-coming youngsters capable of stepping into the breach.

On June 14 of the current campaign the Cards had compiled a record of 34 victories and 19 losses, a percentage of close to .650. Since that date the Cardinals have lost 25 games and won only six for a season's record of 40 victories and 42 defeats, a percentage of less than .500.

Thus in the short space of a month the Cards have dropped from a position as a leading contender for the championship into a dog-fight with Brooklyn to stay out of the second division.

Southworth's crew lost ground to the Dodgers yesterday, bowing to the New York Giants, 7 to 2, while the Robins were turning back the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 2. This left the Robins only a game and a half out of the first division.

The advance done favors Loughran to outpoint the challenger, current odds being around 2 to 1. Braddock, however, packs enough dynamite in his right arm to laugh at odds. If he can pierce Loughran's guard, and that is not easy, there will be a new light heavyweight champion.

Braddock, who hails from Jersey City, sprang into the line last year with a two-round knockout over Tuffy Griffith. After dropping a decision to Leo Lumski, the Jersey City puncher came back with a victory on a technical knockout over Jimmy Slattery, the Buffalo speedster.

There is no questioning that Braddock will hurt any one he hits. The question is whether he can hit Loughran who has waded through all challengers since he captured the title from Mike McTernan in October of 1927.

René De Vries, Belgian middleweight, and Dave Shade, California veteran, are to meet in the semifinal.

STATE SPORTSMEN HOLD SUCCESSFUL MEETING IN CITY

The state sportsmen's association completed a very successful session late yesterday afternoon. The program outlined by Charles Lockwood, state president, for the purpose of building up a strong state organization to centralize the activities of the sportsmen and to give a strenuous battle to secure desired legislation concerning fish and game laws, was adopted unanimously. The president was authorized to appoint a committee to revise the constitution and by-laws to meet the proposed organization changes. The sportsmen are very enthusiastic over the plan presented, and expect that they will be able to exercise considerable influence in the future in securing legislation that will suit their needs.

LOUGHRAN FAVORED TO BEAT BRADDOCK IN THURSDAY BOUT

(Associated Press Landed Wire) NEW YORK, July 15.—James J. Braddock's attempt to lift the light heavyweight crown off Tommy Loughran's brow this week furnishes metropolitan followers of the fistie industry with their first real championship bout since last September.

The battle of the left jab and straight right—Loughran and Braddock—is set for 15 rounds at the Yankee stadium next Thursday night.

The advance done favors Loughran to outpoint the challenger, current odds being around 2 to 1. Braddock, however, packs enough dynamite in his right arm to laugh at odds. If he can pierce Loughran's guard, and that is not easy, there will be a new light heavyweight champion.

MODERN EVILS, INCLUDING "DRY LAW," RAPPED

(Continued from page 1) Father Gregory also rapped the child labor laws which he calls "injurious and despotic." Birth control was termed a return to the pagan philosophy that makes of pleasure, not a servant, but a god, by Rev. Louis A. Sander of McMinnville, Ore. "It may be needless to remind you," said Father Sander, "that the Catholic church has always been the champion of true motherhood and the proclaimer of its innate dignity. She has fought the battle of mothers down through the ages. Her strong arm has protected mothers from the tyrants who would make of women nothing more than household slaves as well as from the lust of conscienceless men in power who would make of them nothing more than vessels of unchaste pleasure. The Catholic church insists that the home, which is the special sanctuary of the mother, must be kept free from the taint of the world; she insists that Christian mothers, the noble women whom her future sons are to spring must be pure."

LETTER TO COPCO SHAREHOLDERS IS PROGRESS REPORT

The regular quarterly letter to shareholders of the California Oregon Power company just received by many local citizens shows a consistent record of progress for the past quarter. Earnings of the company reflect a satisfactory increase over the previous year, indicating the steady growth and development of the territory served by the company throughout Southern Oregon and northern California. Other items of interest contained in the letter which is signed by C. M. Brewer, newly elected vice-president and general manager of the power company are quoted from the Copco letter as follows: "The work of construction on the new transmission line No. 20 extending from Dixonville to connect with the Mountain States Power company system at Marshfield, Oregon is progressing in a satisfactory manner. In order to effect economy of operation and to increase its capacity, Line 12, extending from Prospect to Springfield, Oregon is being re-insulated to operate at 110,000 volts instead of 66,000 volts. Shares of the company's new issue of 6 per cent preferred stock

THREE COUNTRIES ADD TO PROTESTS OF TARIFF BILL

(Associated Press Landed Wire) WASHINGTON, July 16.—Spain, Italy and Sweden, have sent additional representations to the department regarding American tariff proposals on behalf of the respective governments and trade associations. The communications, made public today by the senate finance committee, noted exceptions particularly to proposed duty increases in the house bill on steel products and cork and general imports from Italy. A note from the Italian ambassador declared if congress adopted the bill as passed by the house the "direct effect can but only diminish Italy's purchases of agricultural products and other raw materials in this (American) market and consequently impair Italy's international economic position." The Spanish ambassador, who recently submitted a note from his government threatening "denouncement" of the commercial modus vivendi between the United States and Spain should certain house rates be adopted, declared in a supplementary memorandum that the proposed increase in duty on cork was "great enough to reduce the consumption of this article, Spain's principal export to the United States, since the industry will try to find a cheaper substitute and the Spanish exporting business will thereby be markedly injured."

are in demand and these shares are being distributed widely throughout the territory served by the company. In a recent newspaper article concerning an application filed by the company with the railroad commission of California the impression was given that the company was endeavoring to substitute 6 per cent preferred stock for shares of 7 per cent preferred stock outstanding. This, of course, was an error as the company does not intend to ask any holder of its 7 per cent preferred stock to substitute 6 per cent preferred stock, will continue to receive dividends on that basis.

NEW TAX BLANKS TO SHOW INCOME FROM 6 SOURCES

(Associated Press Landed Wire) SALEM, Ore., July 14.—The state tax commission has completed the printing of the intangible tax return forms to be used in collecting next year the tax intangibles for 1929. Taxpayers will show their revenue income from six sources. These are dividends on stock corporations, interest on bank deposits, interest on state, county and municipal bonds, interest on corporation bonds, interest on notes and mortgages, and other interest or dividends. The total of these minus the $200 exemption will produce the taxable income, the tax being 5 per cent. One half the tax must accompany the return to the commission. The remaining half may be paid in six months.

Intangibles are defined for taxation purposes under the Oregon law as "money at interest, bonds, notes, claims and demands, secured or unsecured (not including open accounts), all shares of stock in corporations and any and all other evidences of indebtedness, except federal securities." Return must be filed with the state tax commissioner on or before 60 days after the end of the tax year.

For failure to pay the tax without intent to evade or defraud the penalty is 5 per cent of the amount of the tax and 1 per cent per month during the time the tax remains unpaid. For willfully making a false or fraudulent return the penalty is a fine of not more than $1000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, and in addition 100 per cent of the tax.
