

OREGON CROPS GET BENEFIT OF WEEK OF FINE WEATHER

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
PORTLAND, Ore., July 18.—Temperature conditions during the past week were nearly ideal for all crops, the United States department of agriculture reported in its summary of weather and crop conditions for the week ending July 15.

Day temperatures for the week, the department said, were somewhat above normal but not injurious, and night temperatures were about the seasonal average. Sunshine was adequate except along the coast where considerable cloudiness prevailed.

Excerpts from the report follow: "Cereals: Harvesting of fall wheat has commenced in all parts of the state except in the higher altitudes. Spring wheat in most sections is heading heavily and rapidly under favorable weather conditions although rains would improve the crop in some eastern sections where hot, dry winds prevailed at times during the week.

"Fruits: Practically all fruit trees are carrying a short crop as a result of cold, stormy weather during the pollination period but the fruit is now developing size and quality in a very satisfactory manner with temperature and sunshine conditions about right. Picking of raspberries and loganberries in the Willamette valley has commenced.

"Meadows, pastures and ranges: Lower ranges are dry but feed is plentiful on mountain ranges. Haying continues in all parts of the state under favorable weather conditions.

"Livestock: Range stock are now on mountain ranges and are in good condition. Marketing of lambs continues. Milk cows are showing effects of drying pastures.

"Truck crops are in fair condition but would be improved by rain. Early potatoes are being harvested; late variety is making good growth."

after his operation of Monday.

MILWAUKEE, July 18.—Noticeable improvement today in the condition of Victor L. Berger, former socialist congressman, whose skull was fractured Tuesday when he was struck by a street car.

His condition, however, was said to be critical still, and fear was expressed that pneumonia might develop.
