WITH delegates to another state convention bidding farewell to Roseburg as a convention city local society has again settled back to its normal routine. Plans for several delightful affairs are being made for the coming week which gives promise of much activity after the quiet week passing. Hundreds of Spanish war veterans enjoyed a three-day convention here this week and with the aid of local society and organizations found Roseburg a hospitable and happy convention city.

Local Elks are enjoying the state B. P. O. E. convention this week in Klamath Falls with a large group leaving here during the week for the festivities.

Several delightful luncheons and evening affairs were arranged by members of the younger set this week honoring Miss Vera McClintock who is leaving for the east shortly.

Swimming, boating, golf and other out of door sports are holding interest during the warm days and the Country Club is the popular gathering place on the summer evenings.

With scores of local folk out of the city on vacations and outings and many strangers enjoying the sights of the North Umpqua and other points of interest here, the local season is enjoying a temporary quiet awaiting the renewed activities of cooler days.

Engagement Is Announced at Delightful Dinner

Mrs. William Carstens entertained at her home in North Roseburg this week, announcing the approaching nuptials of her daughter, Miss Gladys to Mr. Glen Colby, the wedding to be an event of the early fall.

Dinner was served at seven o'clock at an attractively laid table. The color motif was pink and white. A tiny bride and groom were used as a centerpiece with streamers of pink and green to each corner. Clever place cards were used in announcing the engagement. Mrs. Clyde Carstens assisted the hostess in serving the guests.

Mrs. Ralph Church Is Hostess Honoring Visitor

One of the pleasant evenings of the week was enjoyed on Thursday by a number of guests at the home of Mrs. Ralph Church. The occasion was planned in honor of Mrs. Elton Ogle, a visitor from Portland, and upon the departure of Miss Marjorie Snyder who will visit for several weeks in Portland and Spokane.

Cards were played during the evening and the home was delightful with pink and white roses used in carrying out the decorative idea. Luncheon was served at small tables.

Sharing the hospitality of Mrs. Church were Mrs. Ogle of Portland, Mrs. Glen Haddabaugh, Mrs. Myrtle Hochstetler, Mrs. Edna Watson, Mrs. Royd Bradburn, Mrs. Marjorie Snyder, Miss Marie Lane and Miss Elsie Hudson.

Catholic Ladies Hostess Group on Wednesday

With eleven tables of cards in play guests of the Catholic ladies enjoyed a pleasant evening at the parish hall on Wednesday. Bridge and 60 were played during the evening hours with Mrs. Harris Ellsworth and Mrs. Mary Harding and Harry Hildebrand and Father DeFaney holding honors at bridge. All Mrs. L. W. Metzger, Miss Lammert and Joe Hildebrand and J. J. Barnes held honors.

Flowers were used in decoration with large bowls of daisies making the rooms charming. Refreshments were served at small tables late in the evening.

Guests Entertained by Mrs. Foster Butner

The lovely home of Mrs. Foster Butner was the scene of a delightful affair on Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Butner entertained for a large group.

The afternoon hours were made enjoyable with tables laid for bridge. Needlework was also a diversion of the afternoon for those not playing cards. The home was attractive with open flowers, delphinium and gladiolus in profusion. Refreshments were served at small tables in the garden.

Mrs. Marsters Is Hostess to Northside Sunshine Club

Mrs. George Marsters was a charming hostess to the Northside Sunshine club on Wednesday afternoon. A two course luncheon was served at the tea hour, the tables being lovely with red roses. The regular business session was followed by an afternoon of social conversation.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Fred Bowen, Mrs. Ed Marsters, Mrs. F. D. Durland, Mrs. L. L. Marsters, Mrs. R. E. Harness, Mrs. B. F. Chilson, Mrs. L. W. Ingels, Mrs. E. T. Ballou, Mrs. N. H. Fisher, Mrs. Don Young, and Mrs. William Fisher.

Mrs. club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. Lee Goodman.

Mrs. M. E. Nolan and her granddaughter, Miss Eleanor Watson, of Tillamook, left yesterday for a visit in Portland and Tillamook. Miss Watson had been the guest of Mrs. Nolan here and will remain in Tillamook.

Swimming Party Is Given in Farewell to Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Deets were honor guests at a swimming party at Alexander park on Wednesday evening, given by the Tri-Square class of the Baptist church, upon their approaching departure for Klamath Falls where they will make their home. A wicker roast was a feature of the evening.

Those enjoying the evening and bidding adieu to the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Whipple, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Caraway, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Gorthy, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Steffanson, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Snoddy, Mrs. C. H. Wickham, Mrs. Procter, and Mrs. Hohlman.

Education Group to Be Formed in Roseburg

An announcement of interest to the progressive women of Roseburg has been made by Miss Golda V. Holt, staff secretary of the University Guild, a national cultural organization, a chapter of which is to be formed in this city among high type business, professional and club women.

The University Guild through Pi Omicron, a national sorority, offers to this select group of women a three-year course in Liberal Arts and brings to them the advantages and pleasures of a college class room. Its course of study has been compiled by leading educators of the country, such as Dr. John Hutton Pinley, of the University of New York City, Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton and Dr. Blais Perry of Harvard.

Chapters, which are made up by recommendation only, have been installed in the leading cities and towns throughout Oregon, Washington and California.

Miss Holt and her field secretaries are in Roseburg managing the organization work, and she will announce at an early date the time and place of the chapter installation.

Mr. and Mrs. Story Des left yesterday on an extended trip to California. They will visit at Lake Tahoe and from there will go to Nevada, returning via San Francisco, where they will be the guests of their son, Perrol Des. They will return over the coast route.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Mitchell of American Falls, Idaho, are the guests of Mrs. Mitchell's sister, Mrs. A. F. Baker.

Miss Dorothy Marsters of this city has returned home after several weeks spent in Salem as the house guest of her sister, Mrs. Harry Peary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Pettit, formerly of this city, are enjoying a vacation in Roseburg from their home in Salem. They will enjoy a trip over the Redwood highway and visit in the south.

Mrs. Eldon Ogle of Portland and her small daughter, Shirley Joan, are the house guests of Mrs. Ogle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Harding of Roseburg.

Mrs. W. L. McGeorge and son, Billy, of Portland will arrive this afternoon to spend a few days with Mrs. W. T. Wright of the Kohlhagen apartments. Mrs. McGeorge is a niece of Mrs. Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kollhagen, who have been in attendance at the Elks' convention, are expected to return to this city today.

Judge J. W. Hamilton of this city is enjoying a week's vacation at the Newport beaches.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hewitt left this week for San Francisco where they will enjoy an extended vacation.

Store Personnel Enjoys Out of Door Party

One of the pleasant evening parties of the week was held last evening at Hutton's grove when members of the Montgomery Ward store force met in farewell to one of their clerks, Mrs. Joe Deets. A luncheon was served under the trees at the grove at seven o'clock and swimming and games enjoyed during the evening.

Mrs. Deets who with her husband are leaving for Klamath Falls where they will both be with the Montgomery Ward company, was presented with a lovely electric refrigerator in honor of her services with the company for the past several months.

Mrs. Ivan Anderson and daughter, Jane, of Eugene, are the house guests of Mrs. Woodley Stephenson of this city over the week end.

Miss Vera McClintock to Leave Today for New York

Miss Vera McClintock of this city is leaving this evening on the Shasta for Portland with Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Stewart. The party will leave Portland Monday night en route to New York City. Miss McClintock will take up her musical studies in the eastern metropolis under one of the masters of New York City. Miss McClintock is a charming maid of Roseburg and is talented in music.

Prior to her journey Miss McClintock has been the inspiration for many delightful parties with scores of friends and members of the younger set of the city gathering to bid her adieu.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Moon of Salem returned north the latter part of this week after being the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Perkins of this city for a few days.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The vogue for floral prints is now an established fact in correct wardrobes. The woman who does not own at least one dainty print has never realized the feminine beauty contained in them.

Add to the beauty of floral prints the crisp charm of taffeta and you have the ideal medium for party frocks for the young.

That is just what summer stylists are doing. The very latest evening gown for the debutante and her slightly older sisters is the flowered taffeta one.

Most of them are positively delectable in their coloring. Take soft lavender wisteria against a delicate lemon cream background, a flamingo background with sprays of green and brown, a green background with very delicate but lovely orange flowers.

Taffeta's individual touches Since taffeta is essentially a crisp fabric, the manner in which the new party frocks are made takes this into consideration. Puff sleeves, tiered skirts, little cap sleeves, jabots full skirts and ruffles are the style touches they feature.

Many of these pretty dresses are following the longer in the back skirt. Some of them simulate the fitted princess lines that fashion is making much of now. But the fitted lines for youth are never the form-fitting ones of the mature figure.

Natural waistlines, since they are so very attractive on slender, young figures, are emphasized. In some of these new printed taffeta frocks, and of course a bow here or a bow there is inevitable, especially so when one considers just how fine an art bow-tying has become among couturiers.

One little conceit that is especially charming taffeta frock

Fresh and youthful is a peach blossom print against a white background in a taffeta frock that uses enormously full circular panels on one side, topped by a pert bow.

Vera McClintock Honor Guest at Farewell Dinner

Miss Margaret Baum entertained at a lovely dinner last evening honoring Miss Vera McClintock. A group of maids of the younger set were bid to enjoy the evening and bid farewell to Miss McClintock.

Dinner was served at 5:30 at a beautifully appointed table. After the dinner hour the guests spent the evening playing bridge. The rooms of the apartment were delightfully decorated with gladiolus used in carrying out the decorative note.

Mrs. H. G. Philpott, who has been the house guest of Mrs. Herbert Beyers for the past week, is leaving this afternoon for Portland to visit with friends. Her son, Gordon, and little daughter, Carol Lou, accompanied her to the city.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wimberly and son Elton and Fred Hargis are leaving next week for an extended vacation and motor trip to Portland, Seattle and Vancouver and other northern cities. They will be away indefinitely.

"THE SQUALL" IS ALL TALKING AND SINGING PICTURE AT ANTLERS SUNDAY

Dialog That Made It Famous on Stage Supplemented by Gypsy Music

"The Squall" which was famous on Broadway as a stage play some seasons ago will begin a two-day engagement at the Antlers Theatre. Much of the dialog of the stage play which was written by Jean Hart has been retained and to it has been added melodies of the gypsies as well as a more up-to-date theme song called "Gypsy Charming."

Myrna Loy plays the role of Nahi, gypsy girl of passion whose tempestuous love creates havoc in the home of a peace-loving family. She sings the gypsy songs.

"The Squall" is an all-talking First National Vitaphone picture in whose cast are such sterling players as Alice Joyce, Loreta Young, Zasu Pitts, Richard Tucker and Nicholas Soussanis.

FLOWERS and Gardens

CHARLES A. BRAND
The Garden club is looking forward to another great flower show in the fall.

In the Garden club there are some unregenerate persons, mostly males, who prefer the old-fashioned names of the flowers. Maybe a particular problem you are wrestling with in your garden is to ask some old gardener. Fortunately Roseburg has many expert gardeners. They are all enthusiasts and will gladly help.

The Roseburg public library has a really fine shelf of garden books. The following list is furnished by Mrs. G. V. Wimberly, one of the library board and herself a gardener, as being of special interest at this time of year.

Book of Landscape Gardening, by F. A. Waugh.

Practical Landscape Gardening, and Shrubs, by F. F. Rockwell.

Foundation Planting, by L. H. Johnson. (For the owner of small grounds where most of the shrubs must be in the base planting.)

Book of Bulbs, by Rockwell. (Help in planning the early spring garden, which has to be made in the fall.)

Bulbs That Bloom in the Spring, by Weston.

Plant Propagation, by Hottes.

One might possibly make an exception in the case of one splendid plant, the castor bean, if that name seems to bring up unpleasant memories of the past—of one's mother standing with a large spoon in her hand, in fact I prefer the name Ricinus myself.

There are no finer gardens in the world than the English gardens. American florists send to England for many of the flower seeds for their own use. These English gardens have more of the old-fashioned, quaintly named flowers than we do here. There is love-in-a-mist, meet-me-at-the-garden-gate, and that other rare flower which I have never seen, welcome-home-husband-be-you-ever-so-drunk. This latter name shows an admirable spirit of wifely devotion in the English housewife that is commended to the matrons of Roseburg.

Those who have been most successful in raising perennials from seed planted at this time of the year advise planting them in a cold frame, if there is one, or in flats, being especially careful to give them protection and shade till they are fairly on their way. Some cover the seed bed with burlap, laying it directly on the ground, and some with a lath screen with cracks three quarters of an inch wide between the lath. When burlap is used the seeds are watered through the burlap. The seed bed must never be allowed to dry out. When two or three inches high the plants are transplanted to another place giving them more room. Plants that have been transplanted once before being put in their permanent place have the best root systems.

Oriental poppies can be dug up and separated at this time of year, and replanted.

Dahlias are beginning to blossom. Those who want large specimen flowers instead of many flowers are picking off all but the terminal bud from each flower stalk. Some disbudbing in any case improves the display. The finest dahlias I have ever seen were those of Mrs. McNulty of Crescent City. She gives a dahlia show at Crescent City every year. Her dahlias seem to be planted about four feet apart, a thin layer of sand covering the ground between them. Fertilizing does not begin till blossoming time when she uses in a cup full of sheep guano to each plant.

The second crop of Canterbury bells is in sight now where the flowers of the first were picked off as soon as they withered. Many perennials and annuals will have a second period of bloom if they are prevented from going to seed. It is making seed that takes the strength of the plant, and when it has done that, for some reason it seems to think it has fulfilled its mission and rests.

The best way to get help on the indulged in was having its back buttoning from half-way to waist-line to the rounding line of the decolletage. Only four buttons were needed. But they were infinitesimal and of beautiful crystal. Just one of those extremely happy "little touches."

In one printed taffeta dinner frock, I have used the circular ruffle panel to give an unusual one-sided effect. The print itself is charming, tiny arabesque blossoms figures in their soft pink on a darker, almost flaming background, with traceries of green and brown here and there. The natural waistline is stressed, belted, as a matter of fact, by a self-material girle with buckles of rhinestones.

A Continuous Spiral Ruffle The side panel is one continuous ruffle, posed in spiral effect and falling in its circular fullness, like a half-dozen or so circular bouffes. The edges of the ruffles, the neck and belt are all bound with brown, the shade of the touches in the print.

Paquin does a distinctive thing in a hydrangea print on a pale gray background. It is a basque gown, quite charmingly quaint and smartly new at the same time. The basque fits to the waistline where a tightly swathed band is posed. Below this a chou of the taffeta flares out from a low hip-line, with a long panel from under one side touching the floor.

Very fresh and youthful is the frock that uses peach blossoms against a pure white background for its taffeta's pattern. This frock has a semi-princess line, with two enormously full, circular panels on one side, topped by a big, pert bow. Of course this frock in line, fabric and feeling is extremely youthful. The very freshness of youth is typified in it.

A distinctive one-sided effect is achieved in a rich printed taffeta by use of spiral ruffles.

(Tells various ways in which you can propagate your own shrubs. Best time, late summer and fall.)

1001. Questions Answered, by Hottes. (A gold mine for the beginner.)

Read the garden magazines. There is help on almost every page for the home owner who is trying to improve his place. It is said that real estate companies which build houses to sell have found that $300 spent in proper planting of a new place increases the amount they can get for it by $500. Beautification of your home and your home town are both just plain good business.

One garden authority, writing from California, pleads, almost with tears in her eyes, that women gardeners having a net weight of two hundred pounds or over do not wear outgrowing trousers. The suggestion is passed along for what it is worth.

A Chic Frock That Hints of Summer

Infinitely feminine, charming and new in at least three ways is this Paris creation, from Norman Hartnell. First, it is made of sheer, pure white organdie and tulle, than which nothing could be more summery or dainty for a moonlight party. Second, its strauette is one of the future, the true princess line with a long skirt that trails gracefully behind. Third, it takes the vogue for ruching trim seriously and uses, two, three and four rows of tulle ruching to ruffle its flaring, feminine skirt. A dable ruching outlines the neck and falls like a veil. This frock would make a stunning bridesmaid style, done in just shades and topped by a floppy hat.
