Knaft's Performing Elephant Proves a "Flop."

"This was? This way?" Knaft was calling at the top of his voice. "This way for the circus!"

MJ, Flor, Hamid and Yam—the other little hand-children with the old turned-about names—stopped to listen to him.

"Stop! Listen and see the ferocious lion and the savage tiger! See the leaping kangaroo and the kindie with the antelope neck! See the monkeys, the antelope, the bears, the elephants, the—"

"How much does it cost to see the circus?" interrupted Yam.

"Two specks of dust," said Knaft. "I usually charge two and a half."

"Little by little he got it up but I'll make an exception because you're here so early."

"Have you got clowns, too?" MJ inquired.

"Certainly," replied Hamid.

"How many?" asked MJ.

TILDEN SHOULDERS BURDEN IN TENNIS MEET WITH FRANCE

(Associated Press Latest Wire)

PARIS, July 24.—Upon Big Bill Tilden's shoulders appears to rest most of the burden in the United States' second attempt to lift the Davis cup from France.

A glance over the probable line-ups in the challenge round which opens in Roland Garros stadium on Friday indicates that unless Tilden can win both his single matches the United States' hopes of retrieving the cup lost to the French in 1927 will not be realized.

The surprising move that put George Lott on the team for the challenge round in place of Frank Hunter has weakened the American position in the opinion of some experts.

Undoubtedly the French will play Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra in the singles and Hunter has been a rather consistent jinx to Borotra.

With Hunter on the team there would have been a strong possibility that he would turn in one singles victory. Thus if Tilden should do no better than break even the issue would have been decided, in reality in the doubles where John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, Wimbledon champions, appear to have a better than even chance of beating the best French pair—Cochet and Borotra.

Allison and Van Ryn have impressed the critics with their form in practice sessions.

It seems as though the best doubles team France can put in the field will be none too good to beat these college boys," said Pierre Gillet, captain of the French squad.

ANTI-WAR PACT IS MADE FINAL BY MR. HOOVER

us on the fulfillment of every opportunity that is calculated to implement this treaty and to extend the policy which it so nobly sets forth."

Mr. Hoover declared he was glad of any opportunity to pay "merited tribute to the two statesmen whose names the world has properly adopted in its designation of this treaty."

To Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, the president said, was due the inception of the pact and much of the success of the negotiations which followed, while to former Secretary Kellogg was due the credit for expanding the treaty into a pact of world-wide significance.

The chief executive also took occasion to felicitate former President Coolidge for his part in the successful negotiation of the treaty and to thank Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee and Senator Swanson of Virginia, the ranking democratic member, for their efforts in behalf of the pact at the time it was pending in the senate.

In the course of his address, Mr. Hoover announced that Secretary of State Baker had forwarded to the French government a message of felicitation upon the coming into force of the treaty.

The president's remarks were prefaced by a recital of the three articles of the treaty and an enumeration of the nations that have become parties to it either as original signatories or as adherents.

In conclusion, he read his proclamation of the treaty to the American people "to the end that every article and clause thereof may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States and the citizens thereof."

By RICHARD L. TURNER Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Already hailed as a proof of effective leadership by virtue of its influence on the Russo-Chinese controversy, the Kellogg treaty renouncing war today reached the last stage of its stormy course from an idealistic suggestion to a binding international agreement.

For the final step—its formal promulgation by President Hoover.

The historic east room of the White House was chosen as the scene of impressively simple ceremonies in which the diplomatic representatives of the nations that have joined the United States in renouncing warfare as an instrument of their national policy had been invited to participate.

Coolidge Takes Part

In addition, there were two specially invited and honored guests. At President Hoover's right a place was set aside for Calvin Coolidge, who brought all the influence of his presidential office to bear in obtaining the approval of the senate for the treaty and regards it as one of the most important accomplishments of his administration.

On the chief executive's left a place was reserved for the man whose efforts on behalf of the treaty were of such import that the pact was given his name, Frank B. Kellogg, the Coolidge secretary of state.

Under the terms of the treaty itself, the ceremony of promulgation could not take place until all of the original signatory nations had deposited their instruments of ratification with the Washington government. All but one, that of Japan, have been in the archives of the state department for some time, and Secretary Stimson made special arrangements to complete this momentous file by receiving the Japanese ratification early in the day from the hands of Ambassador Debiel.

Five Others Join

Only a few hours before the formal ceremonies the state department announced that five additional nations had completed their adherence to the pact and forwarded their instruments of ratification to Washington.

The nations were Chile, Costa

Rica, Haiti, Venezuela, and Switzerland.

President Hoover had prepared a brief address to proclaim the treaty in force and binding, in common with other high officials of the administration, he believes the pact has already proved its value by the way in which it served as a restraining influence when Russia and China, less than a week ago, broke off diplomatic relations and appeared to be on the verge of warfare in Manchuria. Furthermore, in outlining his general program for reducing military expenditures, he declared only yesterday that the international situation had been "greatly modified by the treaty and that the present held less threat of war than any period within the last fifty years."

Russia Not On List

The heads of the diplomatic missions in Washington of all signatory and adherent nations were invited to attend the ceremonies and afterward a White House luncheon. Only two nations which have become parties to the treaty, Russia and Afghanistan, were unable to be represented through lack of diplomatic relations with the United States. Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, who had long advocated Russian recognition, and was one of the invited guests, had said, however, that through him, Russia would be represented "in spirit at least."

Oregon Pioneer, At Age 77, Feels Like "Hitting Old Trail"

"We 'old timers' who came to Oregon in the 70's had to be strong and husky because it was a pretty wild country in the early days. I came out in '79 and went into the lumber business. I could hold my own in those days with any lumber jack and it hit me mighty hard when I had to go on the sick list about five years ago.

"I had stomach trouble so bad I made me sick to even look at food. I had practically no appetite and was in such a nervous run down condition I couldn't sleep. I also had rheumatism in my hips and legs. At times I would have bilious attacks and was constipated practically all the time.

"To look at me now you would never know I had a sick day. I feel right now like I could hit the Oregon trail again and hike with the best of 'em."

"The Sargon Soft Mass Pills are fine too. They put my liver in perfect order and rid me of constipation and biliousness."

Nichols Wisner, retired lumberman, 204 Madison Ave., Portland, Oregon.

Sargon may be obtained in Roseburg at Nathan Fullerton's, the Retail Drug Store.
