Society folk returning from vacation or arranging for outings out of the city make the season a quiet one.

Several out of town visitors have been the inspiration for delightful affairs this week and other notable events of local folk will be entertained with affairs in the coming week.

A Eugene, with its Sunset Trail pavilion, holds interest for Roseburg folk this week and many cars in the city bound for the university city. The Empqua Squaw and Chiefs will be represented at the pavilion and will be courted among the old fashioned stands and pavilions at the affair.

Tomorrow the members of the Business and Professional Women's Club in this city are invited to attend the picnic of the Coos Bay club at Haddon.

Members of the Country club here will spend the day and enjoy a golf tournament at the Marshfield Country club tomorrow.

Mrs. Charles S. Heinline Honors Mrs. King at Unusual Luncheon

One of the most unique affairs of the season was given Friday when Mrs. Charles S. Heinline entertained with a luncheon for Mrs. Lavinia King of Washington, D. C. Twenty guests were invited and the luncheon took the form of a trip around the world appropriate in view of the world travels of Mrs. King.

Guests were seated at three large tables which were lavishly decorated with flowers. Large bowls of ice cream, aspens, fruit and gâteaux were used in carrying out the color note about the rooms.

Passports were issued as place cards and the guests spent the afternoon aboard the S. S. Lehigh as they imagined the voyage. Mrs. King accompanied Mrs. Heinline on many delightful trips to Honolulu, Japan, China, India, Palestine, Egypt, Italy, France, Belgium, Holland, England and back to New York. Mrs. King related her travels and held the interest of her guests throughout the luncheon.

Marshfield Couples Are Guests at Evening Affair

Mr. and Mrs. William Hickling and Mrs. Dave Backlund of Marshfield were honor guests at a party given this week by Mr. and Mrs. Woodley Stephenson. Bridge was the diversion of the evening hours and a dining luncheon was served late in the evening.

Sharing the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson and meeting the visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Jay Carter, Mrs. Harry Stearns and Miss Maurine Ireland.

Ladies Aid Enjoys a Social Afternoon

Mrs. Loyal Bogard was a charming hostess on Wednesday afternoon to members of the Ladies Aid. The regular business meeting preceded a social afternoon. Late in the afternoon luncheon was served.

IT, AGAIN ESSENTIALLY FEMININE, RESUMES IMPORTANCE IN MODE

Patou Welcomes It As Practical and Dressy Style

By JEAN PATOU
NEA Service Writer.

PARIS, July 27.—The tailored suit is slowly regaining the place it used to occupy in a woman's wardrobe, where it represented the essentially practical outfit with the possibility of being more or less dressy.

When I say that the tailored suit is regaining its old role, I mean by that that without totally disappearing from fashion a scheme of things it had been called upon to play a somewhat incoherent part these latter years. The tremendous vogue of the three-piece ensemble or a jumper suit completed by a sport jacket had caused the strictly tailored suit to be classed in the category of "sports things."

Then with the boyish bob came that type of suit with the jacket cut on exactly the same lines as a man's dinner coat. Its popularity was highly short-lived, women of taste refusing to wear this ridiculous garment. The reaction that followed upon these mannish modes was much more gratifying to me, as it gave me the great pleasure of seeing women wearing excessively feminine "tailleuses" where the almost light and soft lines were due in a great measure to the nature of fabrics employed, such as alpaca or tulle. No better example of this reaction could be found than in one particular suit that is to be seen in my present collection. As this is one of my own creations I may say exactly what I think of it and there may perhaps be found a slight note of exaggeration in the importance of the bow tie that is used to close the coat. This form of trimming is usually reserved to dresses but I found that a dressy "tailleur" could carry it just as well and was supported in this assertion by some of my most elegant clients who have found this model original and have been wearing it.

For the chic woman with a large wardrobe, Patou makes a suit with a skirt of bright tartan taffeta and a belted jacket of plain color. One of Patou's new "robes tailleuses" is made of English wool in dull blue, faintly checked in grey, with white pique vest. A stunning "dressed" tailleuse has an original jacket of beige moire finished off with a large bow on one skirt.

Smart Blouses Or Gay Fabrics Give Jaunty Touch

No Longer Severe
A tailored suit need have no recourse to eccentric cut or accessories to make it look less severe, too like a "morning" suit. A classically cut suit can be rendered very dressy and very feminine by a smart blouse. In some cases a skirt made of a gay tartan fabric worn with a plain jacket will give the tailored suit a jaunty air.

The infinite variety now made use of in the composition of tailored suits has caused the classically severe suit to disappear. Since its admission that a woman can be seen at the golf club in one of these latest suits, she can also very well attend a tea party in one of the new dressy tailored dresses. These "robes tailleuses," by the way, are essentially chic and dressy when worn by a woman who knows how to dress. The same idea applies to any public function such as the races where a woman will be incomparably better dressed in a simple suit of moire or tulle than in a conspicuous dress.

News Briefs

DUBLIN.—The influx of American tourists promises to exceed past records by 15 per cent. Steamship companies report heavy bookings until September. Several lines are docking at Galway wharves to rival Loh as a port for American vessels.

HONOLULU.—All steam passenger trains have been discontinued on the island of Oahu, motor buses taking their places. Steam freight trains are used to haul pineapples to the packing plants in this city or to carry sugar cane from the plantations to the mills.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico.—Pheasants have been turned loose on the island both to increase the number of game birds and to aid in checking the havoc caused by insects. The United States agricultural experiment station here has asked hunters not to shoot any of the birds for three years.

MERSINE, Turkey.—Unfounded by archaeologists and viewed only by occasional travelers, are some 20,000 mounds scattered in a region north of this Anatolian town. They are relics of the time when this section constituted the Cilicia of the Romans.

KOENIGSBACH, Germany.—Despite Germany's northern climate there is a lemon tree in a park here which bears fruit each year, sometimes as much as 100 pounds. On an island in Lake Constance are a number of banana plants which in warm summers give ripe fruit.

TOKYO.—Emperor Hirohito broke precedent recently by an inspection trip to western industrial cities. He may make similar trips each year. Hirohito Japanese rulers have travelled only to Kyoto for enlightenment, to annual military maneuvers or to the imperial summer or winter villas.

SARENTINO, Italy.—Important deposits of antimony have been discovered in this Upper Adige valley. Government engineers are investigating this possible addition to the country's mineral wealth.

ANGORA.—A sign of the new day in Turkey is that furs are beginning to be worn outdoors instead of in. Until recent years the use of furs was reserved for old people and confined to fur lined lounge robes within which the men sought out cold days. Now furs form a part of every stylish Turkish woman's outfit.

LONDON.—Margaret Halstead, daughter of Albert Halstead, American consul general in London, has given her second public song recital here and has been kindly received by critics. One of the latter held that in her next concert Miss Halstead would sing some of the "non-jazz" songs (if any) that are being produced on the other side of the Atlantic.

BIDS ARE TOO HIGH
(Associated Press Local Wire)
MEDFORD, Ore., July 26.—At a special meeting of the city council today all bids for roofing material, carpenter work and material, wiring and painting for the Medford municipal airport administration building, were ordered rejected because all were in excess of the funds available for the work. The bids were opened yesterday.

OREGON GETTING BULK OF FOREIGN TOURISTS, REPORT

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fisher, who have just returned from a lengthy auto tour through southern California and into Mexico, state that one of the most striking facts that impressed them during their trip was the great lack of foreign cars in California. After being used to seeing so many out of state cars in Oregon, it was very noticeable to find so few foreign licenses in California. They were so interested in this matter that they made inquiry at several places, and found that while the bulk of the California tourist travel is in the winter months, that the service station and garage dealers report a heavy drop in tourist traffic during the past few years.

Returning to Oregon, they state, they found that California cars on the road were nearly twice as many as Oregon cars, while auto from other states made up about 29 per cent of the machines which they counted.

Mr. Fisher, who is an enthusiastic member of the city beautiful commission, states that a trip into California impresses a person with the need for a very complete clean up and painting campaign in Roseburg as the city looks actually "sooty" after seeing some of the beautiful, well-kept towns of California.

Miss Florence Wharton Entertains at Tea

Miss Florence Wharton entertained at afternoon tea at her home Thursday afternoon. Enjoying the hospitality of Miss Wharton were Mrs. G. V. Wimberly, Mrs. Ness Knollins of San Jose, Calif.; Mrs. Grever Holt of Coosby, Minnesota; Misses Alice and Emma Veland and Mrs. Josie Carr of Los Angeles.

Miss Evelyn Haven left this morning for Eugene to attend the Sunset Trail picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Farrington of this city will leave today accompanied by their family for Sunset Beach. Mr. Farrington will return here the first of the week and the family will enjoy a vacation at one of the delightful cottages at Sunset.

Mrs. W. F. Fret, Mrs. E. Froelich and son, John, Mrs. Marguerite Fret, Miss Madel Griffin, Louis Fret and Louis Collins motored to Eugene Friday to attend the Sunset Trail picnic.

Mrs. Carl B. Neal and daughter, Shirley, have returned from Portland where they spent two weeks visiting with friends and relatives.

Miss Sylvia Hohlbeck of Kenosha, Wis. is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Olson of this city. She returned with the local couple who have been visiting in Colusa and Nebraska.

Heads Women's Clubs

Miss Marion McClench of Ann Arbor, Mich., is the new president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, having been elected at the convention on Mackinac Island, Mich. She was one of 200 women who organized the Federation in 1919.

DR. LOVEJOY IN CITY TO INSPECT INTERESTS HERE

Dr. Esther Pohl Lovejoy, of New York City, director general of American Women's Hospitals in Greece, Egypt, Palestine and other countries, is a business visitor in Roseburg on her way from the medical association meeting at Portland to Los Angeles. Dr. Lovejoy has extensive property interests at Winchester and is here for the purpose of looking after her holdings there. She is to spend a short time at Los Angeles and will then return to her home in New York. Early next spring she will leave for Greece to make an inspection of the hospitals operated by the organization with which she is connected.

GRANGE PICNIC IS ATTENDED BY OVER 500 FARMERS

The annual grange picnic, sponsored by the Roseburg Kiwanis club yesterday at Lamqua Park, was attended by approximately 500 farmers from all parts of the county. Funds had been made to entertain 1,000 or more, but due to the great amount of farm work occupying the attention of the producers of the county it was impossible for many to be present, so that the attendance was not as large as expected.

The grangers were seated at long tables at noon, and a bounteous meal was served by the Kiwanis club. Despite the fact that provision had been made for many more guests than had been expected, the crowd present managed to dispose of most of the food. The music and cakes left over were sent to the scout camp at Vaux Creek. The Golden West coffee served was donated by the atlatlar stores of the city.

Following the dinner an excellent program was given, having been arranged by Dr. C. H. Bailey, lecturer for Douglas County Extension Service.

DAWES PULLS DOWN "NO SMOKING" SIGN

(Associated Press Local Wire)
LONDON.—Charles G. Dawes, the man who wanted the senate to reform its rules, already has put through one reform in the American embassy since he became ambassador. The "No Smoking" sign in the embassy reception room has been removed.

Ambassador Dawes was chatting with a group of newspapermen in his office, smoking, as usual, his famous underling pipe, when one of the group suddenly asked: "Do you mind if we smoke, Mr. Ambassador?"

"Certainly not," replied Dawes with a puzzled smile, adding, "Surely you gentlemen don't feel under any restraint here?"

The sign in the reception room was described to him.

"What?" he exclaimed, "I hadn't seen it. We'll institute a reform right now and have that sign removed."
