SOCIETY
By MILDRED BYNON
The Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church is planning an enjoyable meeting August 15 at the home of Mrs. A. C. Marsters.
A family reunion of the Chapman and Ball families was an event of Sunday at Riddle. A picnic on the banks of Cow creek marked the first reunion which is to be an annual event. The families are pioneer families of Iowa.
FIRE RAZES IDAHO TOWN AND SPREADS TO NEARBY TIMBER (Associated Press Leased Wire) BOISE, Aug. 7.—The town of Quartzburg was smoking ruins today and flames were roaring up the steep sides of mountains on either side of Boise basin, while scores of men fought desperately to control them.
The report to the state land department indicated that the fire originated in the town's hotel, from a gasoline explosion. It destroyed the postoffice, the Smith building and the Frank Daly pool hall, as well as homes.
Leaping from these buildings to the nearby timber, the flames were fanned by a stout breeze and spread in both directions rapidly.
CHURCH, HOTEL IN SKYSCRAPER OF METHODISTS (Associated Press Leased Wire) SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—A golden harvest reaped from catering to the comforts of patrons of a modern skyscraper hotel meant will provide additional means for the soul-saving work of San Francisco Methodists.
While not entering the hotel business themselves, they will reap the profit from the operation of the hotel when the 27-story combination church and hotel they are erecting in the heart of the city is opened next fall.
The first four floors will be the home of the Temple Methodist church, and the rest of the $2,900,000 structure will be devoted to catering to transients of the city.
In undertaking the gigantic business project, the churchmen organized a corporation which will be the landlord for the building, leasing the 534-room hotel to an operating company from whom it will collect the rent.
The profits will be administered by the corporation. Financially unstable churches will be aided, contributions made to various Methodist benevolences, and some money will be used to strengthen interest in Christian work. Temple church will raise its own funds.
The Man Behind
Back of the project is the dynamic figure of Dr. Walter John Sherman, pastor of the church, who has carried the rough path of a statesman to become a builder of the Christian kingdom. Now a doctor of divinity, Dr. Sherman recognized the need for a mammoth structure and sold the idea to his congregation.
He planned the institution of service to souls and material comfort, resulting in a building large enough to attain its purposes in a district dominated by giant structures must have resources other than ecclesiastical.
Dr. Sherman temporarily returned to overalls to drive the first three rivets for the new building and expects to put the finishing touch on the structure, also.
The church will occupy the major portion of the four hours, connected with the hotel only by a passageway. There will be a sanctuary seating 1,500 persons, a chapel and Sunday school rooms. Other features include social center, units and a gymnasium.

Aly—"Let's think hard."
Phyllis—"No, let's do something you can do, too."

Twins Join Church Together
Marguerite Tobin, at left, and her "identical" twin, Mary, of Bristol, R. I. The girls were separated for the first time when Mary decided to dedicate her life to God. She joined the Mercy Sisters, Marguerite enrolling at Pembroke College, Brown University. Sister love, however, was too much for her, so she joined Mary in the religious order. Friends call them "Juno's Swans, Coupled, Inseparable." Mary's a shade the more serious of the two. Below, the Roth twins, who were ordained as priests on the same day.
For Third Time in History of Jesuity Twins Are Ordained Together.
Two remarkable simultaneous illustrations of the fact that "identical" twins cannot bear to be separated came to light recently. And in each instance, love of religion played a vitally dramatic part in keeping two brothers and two sisters united.
Mary and Marguerite Tobin, of Bristol, R. I., had been parted but once in their lives. That was when Mary made a momentous decision. "I shall dedicate my life to God," she told her twin solemnly. "I'm going to enter the Order of the Mercy Sisters. And Marguerite, I want you to, too."
But, though she was at the thought of losing the most beloved of sisters, Marguerite had plans of her own. "I want more education," she told Mary. "So I plan to enter Pembroke College, Brown University, in Providence."
This was two years ago when both girls had just been graduated from high school. The two parted forever, they thought, Mary becoming a postulant at St. Francis Xavier's Home, Providence. But final separation was not to be. Marguerite decided after a time that she couldn't stand it. She planned to rejoin Mary. At a beautiful, simple service, they were reunited, Marguerite joining the order to which Mary was devoting her life. "Now we're perfectly happy," they gladly admit.
Even more remarkable as an instance of devotion to God was ordination as priests of the Revs. A. C. and C. A. Roth, twin members of the Jesuit order. They recently celebrated their first masses in St. Andrew's Church, Bayonne, N. J.
It was declared by religious authorities that it was the third time in the history of Jesuity that twins had been ordained together, and the first instance of such a happening in more than four hundred years.
Ten o'clock mass was solemnized by the Rev. C. A. Roth, while his brother officiated at the eleven o'clock service. An added touch of the picturesque was the fact that each man acted as his brother's deacon. The Roths are thirty-two years old and have often amazed and confused strangers by their uncanny resemblance to each other.

All Talking, Singing Picture Coming to Antlers
"CLOSE HARMONY" IS JUST THAT
Bright, humorous, tuneful music are part of the entertainment and the plot of "Close Harmony", the Paramount all-talking film of state and back-stage life in a de luxe cinema palace which comes to the Antlers theatre for three days beginning tomorrow.
Buddy Rogers and Nancy Carroll have the leading roles in the play and they are ably supported by Jack Oakie and Richard "Skeets" Gallagher, vaudeville headliners, and Harry Green, another favorite of the variety stage.
Nancy Carroll sings one of the numbers, "Go Places and Do Things." Buddy also sings a song, "All A Twitter," and Oakie and Gallagher have a harmony comedy song, rendered in the Van and Schenk manner. "She's So, I Dunno." There is a band number, the old but still red hot jazz tune, "Twelfth Street Rag," in which Buddy plays several instruments of the variety stage.
