

By FRANK JENKINS.
DURING the year ending October 17, 31 dairy herds under test by the Yamhill County Dairy Herd Improvement association produced an average of 233 pounds of butterfat per cow.
The best previous association record on file in the offices of the United States department of agriculture at Washington, the McMinnville Telephone-Register says, is 305 pounds per cow.
Here is more glory for Oregon.

DAIRY experts tell us that under average conditions a cow must produce about 240 pounds of butterfat before she begins to show a profit to her owner. They tell us also that 150 pounds is an ordinary herd average.
So it is not hard to see why dairymen, so highly praised in the abstract, is so often found in concrete instances to be unprofitable. The trouble, in these unprofitable instances, is that the cows are not good enough.

THE man with poor equipment is sadly handicapped in these days. Plowing with an ox team yoked to a wooden plow, sowing by hand from a sack of grain slung around your neck, harvesting with a cradle and threshing with a flail, you could not compete with neighbors plowing and seeding at one operation with power machinery pulled by a tractor and harvesting and threshing at one operation with a power-driven combine.

Similarly, the dairyman who is equipped with poor cows cannot compete in profits with his neighbor who has good cows.

THE prize cow of the Yamhill county testing association is a grade Jersey owned by George H. Fullenwider, of Carlton, which in the past 12 months produced 641.5 pounds of butterfat. Compare this total with the 150-pound average throughout the country and you will see what a prize this grade Jersey really is.

Second place went to a grade Holstein owned by J. H. Teegarden, of Yamhill, which produced 596.5 pounds of butterfat during the year.

Note that both of these prize cows are grades. It isn't absolutely necessary to own pure breeds in order to get high production.

BUT note this fact also, if you are interested in dairymen: The prize Holstein owned by Mr. Teegarden is one of five daughters of a bull each of whose daughters is producing on test better than 440 pounds of butterfat per year, or two and a half times the average production per cow throughout the country.

Careful breeding is absolutely essential if high average dairy production is to be secured.

SO much for facts and figures. But here is what the average dairyman or farmer in Oregon, struggling to build up a herd that will yield him a fair profit, will want to know:

How did these Yamhill county dairymen get hold of these really exceptional cows?

THIS question is answered by Douglas Dickey, official tester for the Yamhill county association, who says in an interview printed in the Telephone-Register: "These herds are the result of years of patient building of improved stock."
That is to say, the Yamhill county dairymen whose unusual record has been here told raised their own cows. That is about the only way it can be done. You can't go out into the highways and buyways and buy cows with records like these.
You can't, that is, unless you have an imposing bank account.

WISCONSIN, you will probably not be surprised to learn, leads all other states in number of dairy herd improvement associations. It has 154 of these useful organizations out of a total of approximately 1190 in all the states. These figures are vouchered for by the bureau of dairy industry of the U. S. department of agriculture.

Wisconsin is outstandingly THE dairy state of the Union. Putting two and two together, it is not hard to see that dairy herd improvement associations, or cow testing associations, as they are often inadequately termed, are powerful factors in improving

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Baseball's "biggest show on earth" comes in town tomorrow, featuring the highly trained White Elephants of the Cornucopia McGillicuddy and the battling Bruins of Joseph McGarrity in the main event of the game's colorful carnival.
Stripped of the billboard phrases, it's the Philadelphia Athletics against the Chicago Cubs for the world's championship, the honors that go with it and perhaps the richest money reward for the participants in series history.

NO. UMPQUA BLAZE CALLS OUT 40 MEN

A forest fire, covering about 150 acres, was reported Saturday on the Umpqua national forest on Fairview creek about two miles off the North Umpqua road. The fire is believed to have been caused by careless hunters. About forty men were sent out to fight the blaze, which was reported under control this morning. A light rain fell for a short time yesterday, giving considerable assistance in checking the progress of the fire. The forest service is keeping its lookouts and protection crews in place until there is a general rain.

Roseburg Christian Church Will Get Pipe Organ As Chicagoan's Donation In Memory Of Parents

A memorial pipe organ, to be presented in honor of his parents, now deceased, is to be given to the First Christian church of this city, by W. C. Perkins, Chicago radio manufacturer, according to a telegram received by the congregation yesterday, the anniversary of the birth of Mr. Perkins' father.
The donor is a brother of Mrs. Dale Strange and Mrs. H. E. Johns, both active members of the local congregation. He was deeply interested in the new building recently constructed by the church, and made liberal donations to the building fund in the name of his mother. It is expected that his latest gift, the pipe organ, will be installed and ready for dedication by Christmas.
Mr. Perkins' parents, C. W. and Mary E. Perkins, residents of Roseburg for more than 12 years, were active members in the Roseburg church during their residence here, and the gift organ will be presented as a memorial to them.
The telegram, which came upon the anniversary of the father's birth, notified the congregation of the donation and was a very joyful surprise when read at the morning service.
The new building is designed to receive the instrument, as a space was prepared for an organ at the time the structure was erected, so that the task of installation will require practically no alterations, except of a very minor nature.

ACCIDENTS OVER WEEK-END SEND 4 TO LOCAL HOSPITAL

R. W. Gubrecht of Riddle was brought to Mercy hospital Saturday afternoon, suffering from cuts and bruises received in an auto accident.
Mrs. Rose Gusk of Eugene received painful cuts and bruises and a broken collar bone when the car in which she was riding skidded on the pavement and turned over in the ditch on Sunday afternoon. She was brought to Mercy hospital, where she received medical aid.
J. W. Coffey of Canas Valley accidentally shot himself in the foot while hunting last Saturday. He was rushed to Roseburg for medical care and one toe was amputated.
Arthur Priests, 8-year-old son of F. W. Priests, Roseburg, suffered injury to one of his eyes yesterday, when he exploded a 38 calibre cartridge. A physician removed a portion of shell from the eye, the sight of which will not be permanently impaired. His mother is at present visiting with her parents in Chicago. She intends to return the latter part of the month.

OREGON HUNTING MISHAPS KILL 2; THIRD WOUNDED

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
PORTLAND, Oct. 7.—Hunting accidents took two lives in Oregon yesterday and sent a Washington boy to a hospital with an ear torn loose and his face mangled.
Russell Seary, 16, of Corvallis, high school student and athlete, was shot to death accidentally by Clinton Lewis, his companion, while hunting in a Benton county slough. Just as Lewis fired at a flock of ducks, Seary is said to have leaped to his feet, receiving the full charge in the back of the head.
While on a pheasant hunt near Merrill, Ore., Arthur J. Miller, of Chico, Calif., was killed by C. S. Montellus of Klamath Falls when the latter's gun trigger caught on a barbed wire fence and discharged.

Ernest W. Hoager, Jr., 16, of Vancouver, Wash., shot himself in the face while hunting with his father on Vancouver lake. One ear was severed and his face badly lacerated. Neither the boy nor his father could explain the accident.
SALEM, Ore., Oct. 7.—Dorothy Simmons, 17, died here yesterday from a revolver wound received when the gun, in her own hands, was accidentally discharged Saturday night. The bullet entered her abdomen.

SINKING STEAMER CAUSES 17 DEATHS

BERGEN, Norway, Oct. 7.—Seventeen persons are believed to have been drowned in the sinking of the coastal steamer Haakon VII which foundered near Florø last night after colliding with another vessel. It was estimated that nine or ten of the seventeen lost were members of the crew and the rest passengers.

FOREST FIRE NEAR DOUGLAS LINE NOT YET UNDER CONTROL

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
MARSHFIELD, Ore., Oct. 7.—Despite rainfall here which started early today, breaking a spell of 110 days, the forest fire raging at Remote, near the Douglas county line and along the Coos Bay-Roseburg highway, was holding its own, curbing the efforts of two hundred fire fighters to check it. The fire has done more than $75,000 damage to logs and equipment and has spread over a wide area, endangering highway traffic as well as millions of feet of logs piled along the Coquille river banks.
Traffic was permitted through today but motorists were warned that they were taking the six mile drive through the fire zone at their own risk.
Fire companies with pumper equipment from Marshfield and Myrtle Point were called yesterday in an effort to save the piles of logs. A number of piles were destroyed.
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richard, son of Elton were business visitors in Roseburg Saturday.

PLAN OF WORLD PEACE UNFOLDS IN SYLVAN NOOK

Only Virginia Woods Hear MacDonald and Hoover, Left to Themselves by Camp Fire.

First Announced Result of Discussion Invitation to Three Powers to Join Parley.

By JAMES L. WEST
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
MADISON, Virginia, Oct. 7.—President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald turned back to Washington today in the belief that their intimate talks in the solitude of the Virginia mountains had cleared the way for better understanding between the United States and Great Britain.
The first tangible result of the conversations between these two men was the announcement of invitations to Japan, France and Italy to join the American and British governments in a conference to limit their sea power further as a step toward world peace. Issuance of the invitations was set to the London foreign office and conference is to start at London on Monday. Tuesday of the third week in January.
Only Forest Hears
Began as they rode through the rolling countryside and continued before a friendly open fire, the formal and unique talks between the two statesmen, who only recently became the spokesmen for the English speaking peoples of the world, ended in a Sunday setting even more unusual than the conferences themselves.
A fallen oak tree their resting place, the tall sentinels of the mountain forest their only witnesses, the president and the prime minister unfolded one to another their hopes and their aspirations, not alone for an abiding unity between their own peoples but for a world united for peace.
A chance mountaineer, passing this spot, would have observed nothing to indicate that the conference marked a momentous event in history. The picture to him would have been that of two companions resting awhile and discussing the more simple things of life.

But time passed and only sounds mingling with the quiet tones of their speech were the murmurs of the cascades in the Rapidan river and the rustle of the leaves falling before a gentle autumn wind.

Progress Thought Made
After an hour of earnest talk, the president and the prime minister slowly retraced the pathway they had followed from the president's lodge. There they rejoined the high officers of their governments who had been their companions at the start but had gradually fallen back to permit an interrupted conference.

Mr. MacDonald will be the guest of the president until tomorrow, when their talks over the week-end are believed to have gone far toward the attainment of the purpose for which the British leader crossed the Atlantic.
The arrival at the White House marks the beginning of a three days' program for the prime minister crowded with official and social engagements which will leave him no time for further lengthy personal exchanges with Mr. Hoover. (Continued on page 7)

FOUR MEN DIE WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
LEONA, Texas, Oct. 7.—A crippled wing at an altitude of 1500 feet yesterday plunged to their deaths Lieut. Jack Brooks, 28, a Dallas contractor, and three passengers in his plane.
Leon Lynch and Allen Powell of Centerville, and Marvin Botter of Teague were killed with Brooks.
Lieut. Brooks was considered one of the best pilots at Love Field, Dallas, having spent more than 5000 hours aloft. Apparently the bracing of the left wing of the plane gave way, the wing folding back over the cockpit.

MRS. KENNEDY'S SUITOR FAILS IN GRAB FOR $50,000

REV. H. H. CLARK
(Associated Press Leased Wire)
SEATTLE, Oct. 7.—The $50,000 breach of promise suit filed by the Rev. H. H. Clark against Mrs. Minnie E. Kennedy, Los Angeles, evangelist and mother of Almee Seagle McPherson, was thrown out of court here today.
Superior Judge J. T. Roland dismissed the suit for "lack of evidence." Counsel for Mrs. Kennedy had asked dismissal of the suit on the grounds, that Clark, a former Seattle minister, had failed to prove that he had been greatly damaged because of his relations with Mrs. Kennedy and that his plans for religious work were ruined.
Clark had alleged that Mrs. Kennedy had obtained his consent to marry her and then refused to go through with the ceremony, leaving him "morally unfit" to carry on his work.
Judge Roland indicated that he had dismissed the suit because of two letters which Clark had written to Mrs. Kennedy asking for money. The letters were written after the Los Angeles woman had refused to marry Clark.

TWO-DAY SESSION OF DOUGLAS COUNTY TEACHERS OPENED

The annual Douglas County Teachers' institute opened here today with an excellent attendance. Teachers from all parts of the county were present for the morning session, which opened with an invocation by Rev. R. W. Achor, pastor of the local Presbyterian church. Mrs. C. S. Heintzel and Miss Marie Langenberg then presented a piano duet, after which reports were received concerning the Oregon State Teachers' association and the National Educational society. Douglas county is 100 per cent enrolled in both of these organizations. This was followed by a report of the work of the county health unit.

MEDFORD HUNTER SHOT BY MISTAKE FOR DEER; DIES

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
MEDFORD, Ore., Oct. 7.—Edward Chamberlain, 39, automobile mechanic of Medford, was mortally wounded yesterday by C. M. Cooper, his hunting companion, and died in an Ashland hospital last night from loss of blood. His companion, C. M. Cooper, mistook Chamberlain for a deer.
Chamberlain was shot through the leg near the knee as he was crawling on his hands and knees through the brush, the coroner said. The bullet from a high power rifle pierced an artery.
Cooper said the party of four had separated. While heading through the timber, he told the coroner, his attention was attracted by a noise in the brush. He fired at a distance of 150 feet. A shriek of pain and a cry for help answered the rifle's crack.
An inquest will be held.

HUGE LIQUOR PLANT FOUND NEAR SALEM; SIX UNDER ARREST

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
PORTLAND, Oct. 7.—The federal prohibition office here today told of the discovery and confiscation of a giant liquor plant near Salem Saturday night. The liquor plant, officers said, sent 150 gallons of high grade moonshine to Portland daily. It was found by state and federal officers who raided the Fulmer ranch eight miles west of Salem.
A 1000-gallon still of latest design, 500 gallons of mash, 1654 gallons of moonshine, a three-ton truck, a pumpjack plant and an electric light plant were seized along with a quantity of supplies.
Roy Reed, Margaret Taylor, George Moffit and Clyde Uhlman, all of Salem, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Anderson of Rickreall were arrested.
The federal office here said the slant had been running since July. The product was sold in Portland in wholesale quantities only. The still was similar in design to the large plant uncovered several months ago on the Roones ferry road.

Cult's Activities Exposed When Oil Man Charges He Was Defrauded Out of $40,000.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—Belief that Willa Rhoads, 16-year-old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rhoads, from under whose beach residence the girl's body was removed from its three-year-old grave yesterday, was sacrificed as a part of the weird ritual of a religious cult, was expressed today by Captain B. W. Thomson of the police bureau squad. Thomson advanced this theory after perusal of a number of documents relating to cult activities which were said to have been found in the Rhoads residence.

The finding of Willa's body, and subsequent confessions of several members of the Divine Order of the Royal Arm of the Great Seal, has resulted in the holding by police of four persons involved in operations of the cult. Chief among these are Mrs. Martha Rhoads and her husband, William, foster parents of the dead girl. The other is Mrs. Orla Blackburn, a so-called high priestess of the cult, and her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Agelina Welland Rizio.

Body Kept on Ice
In addition police investigators have uncovered an amazing story of religious cultism in which the belief of resurrection caused the body of the girl to be preserved in ice for more than a year before it was finally buried in a shallow grave, alongside a casket containing the bodies of seven dogs, beneath the bedroom of the Rhoads home. The dogs had been pets of the dead girl and, according to the story told by Mrs. Rhoads, represented the seven tones of Gabriel's trumpet, which should proclaim resurrection soon.

ALBERT B. FALL GOES TO TRIAL FOR FAMOUS 'BLACK SATCHEL' INCIDENT

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—A jury of eight men and four women were selected today to try Albert B. Fall, former interior secretary, on bribery charges growing out of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve lease to Edward L. Doheny.
Apparently hearing in mind the jury shadowing which led to a material in the Sinclair teapot dome case, Justice Hitz announced the fall jury would be looked up.
He said counsel had advised him the trial would take three weeks.
Fall is accused of accepting $100,000, brought to him "in a little black satchel" by the son of Edward L. Doheny, as a bribe to lease the Elk Hills, Calif., oil reserves to his "old friend and fellow prospector."
If Fall is found guilty it will be the first conviction in five long years of prosecution in the oil scandal cases. Harry F. Sinclair went to jail, but his concurrent six months' sentences were for

BILL MAKES BUYER GUILTY AS SELLER UNDER PROHIBITION LAW

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Amendment of the Volstead act to make the purchase of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes prohibited under law was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Shepard, democrat, Texas, the sponsor of the eighteenth amendment.
Senator Shepard's proposal would make the purchaser equally punishable with the manufacturer or seller of intoxicants. He said the amendment was necessary because of a recent court decision which held that the purchaser was not liable in connection with an act of transportation.
The Texas said he had been under the impression that the purchaser of liquor for beverage purposes was punishable in connection with an act of transportation but the decision made it advisable to definitely prohibit purchase by the terms of the Volstead act.

DEPUTY AND DRY OFFICER DIE IN REVOLVER DUEL

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
NACOGDOCHES, Tex., Oct. 7.—A Texas deputy sheriff and a federal prohibition officer were dead today, victims of a gun fight staged in the way of the old west—Curt Woods of Warring and then lie dependent upon a lightning draw and a hair trigger.
The participants—and dead men—were Claude King, deputy sheriff, and L. Chance.
King, according to his friends, heard that Chance had secured him of "standing in with the bootleggers." The two met in Sheriff Eugene Turner's office yesterday. "I fear you have been saying some pretty hard things about me," said King.
Sheriff Turner warned the men not to argue or fight in his office and might have averted the duel, but a telephone rang in a nearby room and he stepped out to answer it. Shots sounded before he returned he found Chance dead. King, with three bullet wounds, had staggered to his automobile. He was taken to a hospital and an operation was performed in an effort to save his life, but he died several hours after the shooting.

Tragedy Occurs on Desert Road in Arizona; Once Wife of Douglas Sawmill Man.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
FLORENCE, Ariz., Oct. 7.—Dead apparently by her own hand, the body of Mrs. Evelyn Johnson was found in a small automobile on a desert road near here yesterday. A hose had been attached to the exhaust of the car and the other end had been placed in the closed automobile. The certificate of title to the automobile was made out to Evelyn Johnson, 361 Lehigh avenue, Eugene, Oregon.
An unsigned note on the seat of the car said: "If anyone finds me, I ask them not to report it. Take my car and contents and leave me here. No one whom I know knows where I am or will try to find me."
An insurance policy made out to the woman gave her address as Volney Hotel, Spokane, Wash.
