HEAVY T-B TOLL WARRANTS CRUSADE VIA SALE OF SEALS

"While the death-rate from tuberculosis has declined in the last 20 years with great rapidity and while this decline has given encouragement to those who have been fighting the winning battle, there is still much room for painstaking thought when one considers such striking facts as these," states Mrs. H. E. Coleman, city chairman of the sale of the tuberculosis Christmas seals, which is being sponsored by the Douglas County Public Health association.

"Out of the 91,000 deaths from tuberculosis in the United States for 1926, 56,000 occurred between the ages of 15 and 45, 62 per cent of the total number of deaths. Of that 56,000 considerably more than half, 30,000, fall between the younger age groups of 15 to 30. Here is the prime of American manhood and womanhood. Here are the men and women who are doing the day's work in American industry. How long can American industry go on with a hump on its back of such gigantic proportions? Think for a moment of the enormous amount of time lost as a result of sickness from tuberculosis. Every one of those 56,000 men and women was sick on an average of at least 300 days before he died, a total of 16,800,000 days lost to American industry. If one considers the day's work from the point of view of production and if the average daily production of these 56,000 individuals was not worth more than $3.00, a ridiculously small sum, the total loss in production alone is over $50,000,000.

"And this is not all the story because these people died and in their deaths there occurred the tragic loss not merely of life, but of all the future possibilities of productivity. A statistician has determined that such a life is worth on an average of at least $5,000. Here is a total again of more than $250,000,000 wasted for American industry.

"It is possible to go still further in recounting this tale of loss because for every one of these 56,000 deaths, the records show that there must be at least five living cases. Here are more than 250,000 living persons who have tuberculosis of whom at least another 50,000 will die this year and next year unless somebody does something about it."

It is through the sale of penny Christmas seals that the battle against tuberculosis is financed. Roseburg citizens are being asked to do its share in this work by buying the seals which have been sent to them this week.

GIRLS' GETAWAY PLOT FRUSTRATED

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 6.—A plot by seven girls at the state industrial school to escape from the institution was nipped last night.

One of the girls planned to pick the lock of her room in the dormitory, enter the corridor and open the doors of the other six. Then they planned, the officers found out, to go to the basement, overpower the matron, take her keys and leave the building. They intended, it was said, to commandeer an institution automobile and place many miles between themselves and Salem before morning. Mrs. Clara Patterson, superintendent of the school, would not give out the names of the girls for publication.

Vare Keeps His Smile

Vare, still disabled from an illness which almost cost him his life, was in the seat which he had fought for when the vote on his right to occupy it was taken. His physician was nearby.

Looking on from the member's gallery were Mrs. Vare and two daughters.

Directly opposite them, in another part of the gallery, sat William B. Wilson who listened to the recording of the vote which marked his defeat in a long fight. There was a tense atmosphere in the large crowd which had gathered to witness the end of the bitterly contested case.

Vare, who had come to Washington to enter a personal defense of his campaign activities and expenditures, had a smile on his face as he entered the senate chamber. He walked with difficulty and used a cane.

His long fight lost, Vare walked haltingly from the chamber just as Mr. Curtis was announcing the result of the ballot against him.

It was just a few steps from the front row in which he sat on the republican side at the center of the chamber, to the door behind the presiding officer, and Mr. Vare was gone. His florid face still held the grim smile.

Vare Claims Injustice

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Retiring from the chamber into the office of Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, Mr. Vare after the senate had voted to deny him a seat, wrote out the following statement and left the capitol:

"I feel that a great injustice has been done my state and myself.

"It is to be regretted that the highest body in the land should trample on the constitution and treat so lightly the rights of a state."

FIVE FEEL HAND OF JUSTICE IN CIRCUIT COURT

all of Rice creek, were arraigned jointly. J. R. Ward and Duncan were arrested at the Ward place at Dillard, while the other two men escaped into California, but were later brought back to this state, after their arrest at Red Bluff. They waived examination by the grand jury and entered pleas of guilty upon information filed by the district attorney. All asked for leniency, J. R. Ward claiming to be the sole support of his two motherless children and of his aged parents. The year's sentence imposed on each of them is the maximum penalty under the statute.

Father Is Warned

Harry Rapp was indicted by the grand jury for non-support of his minor child. District Attorney Cordon recommended leniency, stating that the young man had been hard pressed financially and had met considerable misfortune. The firm for which he had been working as a mechanic failed, the court was informed, causing him a loss of back wages, and when he engaged in business as a jitney driver, his automobile was wrecked, so that he had earned but little money during the period for which non-support was charged. He has obtained employment recently, it was stated, and, although the wages are low, he provided money last month for the child.

Upon the recommendation of Attorney Cordon, Judge Brand stated that he would suspend sentence as long as the young man did the best he could in providing for the care of the child, but that any attempt to evade the duty would result in a penitentiary sentence.

Contractors Win Suit

Due to the fact that Judge Brand was required to leave for Portland last night, the case of S. S. Schell and Frank Rhodes against the Winchester Bay Lumber company was the last jury action until Monday. The case went to the jury shortly after 12:30 yesterday. The verdict, returned late in the afternoon, was in favor of the contractors in the sum of $2,907.79. It was declared that the work done in accordance with the contract amounted to $3,987.18, but that the lumber company was entitled to credits of $712.15 for rental of donkey engines, $250 camp rental, $26 for saw filing and $9.89 for logs sold, making total credits of $1,079.39.

Yesterday afternoon, following the arraignments, was given over to the hearing of motions and arguments connected with cases which are to come before the court during the present term. One of the most important of the motions was in the case of "Modoc Johnnie" Farleigh against the E. G. Young and Company bank of Oakland, a sequel to the Oakland rodeo financial mixup.

Strikes at Complaint

Attorney Dexter Rice, representing the bank, entered a motion to strike out certain paragraphs of the complaint filed by Attorney Ray B. Compton, representing Farleigh, the rodeo promoter, who is suing for damages in the sum of $50,000 because of the refusal of the bank to honor his checks.

Attorney Rice contends that according to the law punitive damages cannot be collected, but that only actual damages can be secured. Where a bank makes an error and refuses to honor checks where the depositor still has a balance, the attorney contends, the court recognizes that damage exists, but that the law provides only "moderate," "temperate" damages, and that "punitive" damages or "smart money" cannot be collected. He also asks elimination of all parts of the complaint referring to Farleigh's arrest and to the resultant publicity, claiming that these acts involving third parties and for which the bank is not responsible.

Attorney Compton contended that where malice is shown, as is contended in the complaint, that the Oregon law expressly provides an opportunity for collection of "punitive" damages. Where arrest for issuance of worthless checks was the natural result of the bank's failure to honor the checks, Mr. Compton also declared, such arrest and publicity become issues by which to measure the damage sustained by the plaintiff.

Both attorneys quoted freely from various authorities to support their respective claims. Judge Brand took the question under consideration.

PALEFACE JUSTICE BRINGS ELOQUENCE FROM AGED INDIAN

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

COEUR d'ALENE, Ida., Dec. 5.—An aged Indian stood erect in the court of the white man today just before he was sentenced for murder and with the eloquence of his fire forefathers defended his crime. Then he bowed with dignity and accepted the judgment of the court.

Charles Cherrepkin, 65, of the Coeur d'Alene tribe, that once owned the land on which the federal building stands, arose in U. S. court at Judge Cavanagh's invitation. He had been found guilty of shooting his wife to death—second degree murder.

The old man, who had testified that he slew her for unfaithfulness, looked unflinchingly at the judge and said:

"When you sentence me, you sentence my body—not my soul. After that my soul will be judged by the Almighty God Himself.

"I am sorry for my wrongdoing. It is partly my fault that my beloved wife and children must suffer, partly my fault that my liberty that I love so well must be taken from me, but I stand ready to serve my sentence. I will do my best to be a good prisoner."

Then he waited while his children wept. The judge sentenced him to serve ten years in McNeil island federal prison.

The Indian, a dead shot, had defied possemen for three days—until "Two Gun" Hart—special Indian officer—took his trail.

cavalry of the Indian Territorial volunteer militia." From 1914 to 1917 he was a captain in the Oklahoma national guard.

Veteran in War

During the World war his legal ability in negotiating the army agreements with the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg won him the distinguished service cross, and a silver star citation was conferred upon him for a volunteer reconnaissance under heavy enemy fire.

Colonel Hurley married Miss Ruth Wilson, daughter of Adm. Henry B. Wilson, United States navy, in 1919. There are three Hurley children—Patricia, Ruth and Wilson.

If he has any hobby it is flying and riding in airplanes. He is not a pilot, but he has mastered the knack of tooling a plane under certain conditions.

Besides being an attorney, Colonel Hurley is president of the First Trust and Savings bank of Tulsa and a director of the First National bank there.

PARTY AND LOCAL TALENT COMEDY AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

An interesting and unique social evening was presented by the women's classes of the Christian church Wednesday evening. The entertainment was in the form of a "measuring party," in which those who attended were charged in accordance with their height.

The women presented a home-talent play "The Melting Pot," the first act being a comedy dealing with Americanization of foreigners, a great deal of humor being injected into the presentation, which also had its serious aspects. The second act was musical in nature, consisting of both religious and patriotic selections and an anthem. The act was concluded with a patriotic tableau around the flag which the foreigners had learned to revere.

The plot for the play was written by one of the members of the class, the entire production being original.

The ladies have been requested to repeat the entertainment at the soldiers' home this evening, and will also go to some of the churches in neighboring cities where invitations have already been extended.

Following the play, the ladies served refreshments in the church parlors. Proceeds are being placed in a fund for furnishing the pulpit.

HOTEL INTRUDER BEATS AND ROBS OCCUPANT

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 6.—A rough and tumble fight in the corridors of a prominent downtown hotel ended early today when an unidentified intruder, after entering a room occupied by V. M. Older, fled leaving his revolver but taking $11 and a severe beating.

The well dressed intruder, police said, entered Older's room. Footsteps awoke Older and he tussled with the thief. Seizing the man's weapon, Older fired on him after he had given him a severe flogging.

spectively former manager and assistant manager of the railway, in other capacities. In the conversations the Chinese delegates had refused to grant this condition and referred the matter to the Mukden council upon their return here.

The Chinese council conceded this point in view of the soviet delegates' promise that the Sino-Russian agreement of 1924, under which the railway was being operated prior to its being taken over by the Chinese last summer, would be fulfilled. This agreement binds Russia not to carry on propaganda work in the railway area.

It was reported that the president of the Chinese Eastern has resigned, thus making possible the accomplishment of the arrangement for the appointment of a new president.

Chinese Officials Quit

TOKYO, Dec. 6.—Advices received here today stated that the administration of the Chinese Eastern railway had informally announced that Ju Jung-Huan, chairman of the board of directors of the railway, and Chang Ching-Hui, governor of Harbin, have been relieved of their posts in accordance with the protocol signed by representatives of Russia and China on Tuesday.

Most of the demonstrators were boys between fourteen and eighteen years of age. Police arrested five.

PUPIL REINSTATED BY LETTER FROM PRINCE

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Prince of Wales had made peace and the boy who was suspended from Leyton high school by the headmaster for having asked his highness for his autograph, will go back to school.

The prince wrote a letter to Lawrence Gill, the schoolboy's father, which Gill said contained some good advice upon which he acted.

Gill said the letter was marked private and he therefore declined to allow its publication.

"Now what did the prince say?" was being asked widely in England today.
