

BARACKMAN PINS HERMAN TWICE IN THREE-FALL BOUT

Rough Tactics of Visitor Booned by Crowd—Bear Is Victorious Over 3 Opponents.

Cal Herman, Roseburg wrestler, was beaten by Merwin Barackman of Olympia, Washington, in a rough three-fall match at the Roseburg Armory Friday night. Herman took the first fall in 36 minutes, and the next two falls were annexed by Barackman, the first in 15 minutes and 19 seconds and the next in 8 minutes.

Barackman was exceedingly rough and drew frequent boos from the crowd for kicking, slapping, cart-wheeling and other such tactics.

The match started off furiously with both wrestlers showing a great deal of speed. Herman had Barackman in difficulties several times during the first few minutes, but Barackman saved himself by crawling off the mat. He also used open-handed blows to Herman's face whenever he was pinned in a tight place, punishing the local wrestler until Herman was forced to release his holds. After about 20 minutes of hard wrestling Herman tortured Barackman with a leg split, which the Olympia man broke by getting hold of the ropes and dragging himself out of the ring. He was wobbling when he came back and Herman tossed him for a truck driver's special which knocked Barackman out, the first fall coming in 36 minutes and 36 seconds.

Barackman uncorked a lot of rough stuff upon his return to the ring, kicking Herman in the face, twisting his ears, pulling his nose and slapping to the face and body. He finally clamped on a Frank Gotch hold, which made Herman pound the mat after 15 minutes and 10 seconds of wrestling.

The final period was a regular cage-man battle. Herman used no rough stuff until the last few minutes when he began retaliating and clouted Barackman viciously. At the end of eight minutes of wrestling Barackman picked Herman up and tossed him for a reverse body slam which ended the match.

Billy Barackman's wrestling bear furnished the most sport for the evening. The bear, well trained, easily disposed of the three opponents who faced him in succession. The bear kept his opponents on the mat and kept his hind legs out of danger. If an opponent started to crawl off the mat he was promptly rolled back into the middle of the ring.

Glen Meyers beat Cyclone Franco in a slow preliminary. Meyers took the first fall in 18 minutes and 10 seconds with a hammerlock. They wrestled the rest of the half-hour period without a fall. Attendance was light.

Dr. Hess' poultry panama. High way Pharmacy.—Adv.

EVERGREEN GRANGE PLANS ERECTION OF NEW HALL, WINSTON

Very Pleasant Meeting Friday Night with H. M. Wolcott, the new master, presiding. Plans were discussed for the construction of the new grange hall which is to be built soon near the Winston bridge. The executive committee was installed by Dr. C. H. Bailey, of South Deer Creek, who was accompanied by Mrs. Bailey.

An interesting program was presented by Mrs. H. M. Wolcott, the lecturer of the grange. He discussed wheat production and sales cooperation.

Committees for the year were appointed as follows: Executive: Henry Lander, Ira Boyer and Howard Carnes; Relief: George Winston, Mrs. Jennie McKay and Mrs. Clyde Heater; Agricultural: J. Robert McKay, Henry Lander, Howard Carnes, Ira Boyer, George Thomas and R. B. Spackman; Home economics: Mrs. Henry Lander, Mrs. George Telford, Mrs. Ira Boyer, Mrs. Henry Christian and Mrs. George Winston; Lectures: Mrs. George Winston, C. A. Heater and Boy Bradley; Finance: Mrs. Robert McCullough, Mrs. Neal McCullough and French Nichols; Building: Henry Christian, Henry Lander, Robert McCullough, Ira Boyer and French Nichols. The building committee and the home economics committee will cooperate in arranging plans for the building construction.

Arrangements are being made for a potluck supper to be served on the evening of January 25. A special meeting is to be held January 10.

ROSEBURG'S FIRE LOSS DURING 1929 LOWEST IN YEARS

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

ROSEBURG'S FIRE LOSS DURING 1929 LOWEST IN YEARS

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

ROSEBURG'S FIRE LOSS DURING 1929 LOWEST IN YEARS

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

The fire department responded to 52 calls during the year, the seven being shown for only 19. Light rains were scarce outside the city limits. The average loss for each alarm was $42.49 and the per capita loss was only 68 cents. The largest loss for the year was $1,605, incurred when a building owned by Mrs. Al Croason, located on Winchester street, was destroyed.

Our Poultry Remedy Sales ARE SMALL

Why? CROWN FED CHICKENS DON'T NEED THEM

Farm Bureau Cooperative Exchange

Roseburg

Oakland

AGENTS FOR: John Deere Plow Co., Hoosier and Milwaukee Pumps, Sutherland Spray Co., Hood River Spray Co.

MELODY WAY CLASSES

ADULT BEGINNERS come Wednesday, Jan. 8th at 2 p. m. or Thursday, Jan. 9, at 5:30 p. m.

Grade School Classes, Wednesday, Jan. 8, at 4 p. m. and Saturday, Jan. 11, at 10 a. m.

KINDERGARTEN

MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, FRIDAY at 9:30 a. m. It is important that you begin with your class, not a week later.

MRS. CHARLES HEINLINE

Roseburg Undertaking Co

Established 1901

M. E. RITTER, Manager

Founded and Maintained on Efficient Service and Courtesy

Ambulance Service

Phone 284 Oak and Kane Sts. Licensed Lady Embalmer

A Kiss for Corinna

By MAY CHRISTIE

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Denise Van Wyck, bored with the life of a debutante, meets Malvey Craig, a clerk in her wealthy uncle's employ, in an unconventional manner. She acknowledges a growing interest in the young man, and confides her story, adding that she is to meet him for lunch, to Corinna Dugan, operator in the beauty shop she patronizes. It so happens that Corinna also knows Malvey, and is, in fact, in love with him. Corinna is torn by jealousy and worry, and when she meets him that evening artfully questions him about his day. Malvey tells her about his meeting with Denise, but admits that she does not even know her name.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER 7.

In the cosy little Italian Restaurant on the West Forties, Corinna Dugan was having dinner with her young man.

All was light and sparkle and gaiety about them. The waiters, full of Latin "verve," clattered halberd and yon Corinna's glass contained a bright red liquid that was supposed to be genuine champagne, although it was nothing but a species of grape juice mingled with something a trifle stronger from Senor Paganini's cellar. But tonight this potent beverage seemed to have lost some of its stimulus.

For—listening to Malvey's story of the Van Wyck incident—that fluttering disquiet which had haunted Corinna all day long was not diminished, but rather increased.

"She was a deucedly pretty girl," recounted Malvey, dexterously winding spaghetti around his fork and dipping it in the inevitable chicken, liver and cheese. "As cool as they make 'em, hauling that great dog to heel and apologizing for my torn coat like a little princess. Then she showed me a short cut through the woods to Mr. Crisswell's."

"Was it far?" Corinna heard herself inquiring. Wretched foreboding had her in its grip. But she made an effort to sound careless. "Said Malvey lightly. "Oh, maybe a mile. We didn't hurry. The girl talked mighty interestingly, and that made the distance seem shorter."

"We chatted on all sorts of subjects," went on Malvey, an amused and reminiscent gleam in his fine eyes. "By jove, she'd read quite a bit. Dipped into the classics. They'd given her a sort of mental digestion, too. It was quite funny."

Corinna saw nothing absurd in the encounter. There were many other adjectives more applicable.

He would laugh it off like this, of course. Like a man, make out his own superiority.

But wasn't it ironical—and a sharp comment on man's intuition—about woman—that Denise Van Wyck, who had the brains of a jack-rabbit, could—just because she was pretty and had lots of nerve—pose and play up to a perfect stranger on the roads so that he thought her a budding Minerva?

"I imagine she was fairly well-off too," continued Malvey, taking another sip or two of his champagne. "Maybe a spoiled debutante. It was odd how quickly she started confiding in me. She's dissatisfied with her life. It seems. Wants to do some real work in the world, and amount to something!"

This sounded like the volatile young lady who—to Corinna's sometimes painful knowledge—had as many moods as a chameleon. To be all things to a good-looking man, that—and nothing else—was Denise's long suit.

Corinna told herself: "She's done her best to get him from the start—posing and pretending! And Malvey's so simple about women he believes she's real. He's fallen for her!"

She said now, forcing herself to smile, although her heart felt smothered to little pieces:

"What happened next? I'll bet she was quite ready to make a date with you!"

The young man reddened. He gave a short brusque laugh.

"What a witch you are, Corinna!"

INDICTMENTS FILED AGAINST 6 PERSONS BY PORTLAND JURY

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 4.—Howard Polley, former engineer of the American bank building here, was indicted today for stealing a $500 bond of the Interstate Utilities company, Spokane, Wash., June 24, from the building furnace where the recalled bonds had been placed for burning.

About $25,000 worth of the bonds have been traced and recovered. Polley was arrested three months ago at Eugene, Ore., and is alleged to have had one of the bonds in his possession. He was released on $5,000 bonds.

John R. Nesbitt, veteran real estate dealer of Portland, also was indicted in connection with the alleged bond fraud on a charge of receiving stolen property. He is held in default of $2,000 bail.

The alleged fraud was discovered when one of the cancelled bonds appeared in Des Moines, Ia., and one in San Francisco.

S. G. Herlinger, 40, former employee of the city water bureau, was indicted on a charge of larceny of public money. While the formal indictment is for the theft of $100 of water bureau funds, an audit of the books conducted by a Portland firm revealed Herlinger's shortage as $19,000 during a period of nine years.

Alice Boyd, 26, and Gordon Turner, 24, were indicted on charges of attempted extortion. Dr. E. A. Harnal, Portland physician, signed the complaint against the pair after Turner is alleged to have accused the physician of intent to perform an illegal operation on the person of Miss Boyd. Turner is alleged to have demanded money to "hush" it up.

Another indictment was returned against Edward Smith, negro auto driver, who is alleged to have borrowed an automobile and crashed into another driven by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Scott of Vancouver, Wash. Scott was killed.

INCOME TAX FORMS TO BE READY NEXT SATURDAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Forms for filing federal income tax returns will be available at offices of collectors of internal revenue and branch offices next Saturday.

In making the announcement the bureau of internal revenue said the forms were printed prior to the passage of the joint resolution of congress providing for tax reduction and the forms for individuals will be accompanied by "riders" showing the reduced rates of taxation and the forms for individuals per cent on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the personal exemption and credits, two per cent on the next $4,000 and 4 per

C