DAYS CREEK P. T. A. MEMBERS WILL ATTEND CLASSES

(News-Review Douglas County Special)
DAYS CREEK, Jan. 18.—Two substantial prizes will be offered at the basket social to be given on January 21 by the Days Creek Parent Teacher association, according to Archie Ferguson, president. One prize will be for the most artistic basket and the other for the basket that sells for the highest price.

O. A. Kirby, leader of the orchestra and Victor N. Phelps, junior high instructor, who compose the program committee, guaranteed to get up an entertainment of a humorous nature with the help of the student body faculty. The entertainment will precede the basket social.

As a special feature of the meeting last Friday the commercial department put on an exhibition under the direction of Mr. Phelps. Some of the fastest fingers in Days creek demonstrated ability in typing contest. A display of perfect typing lessons showing various phases of the work covered in the first and second year was cleverly arranged on the blackboards.

Palmer method pins and certificates earned by local students filled one board while a set of well kept books showing ledger books and other materials used in modern bookkeeping was open for inspection for the parents at another table.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Clay Ullam, Mrs. Archie Ferguson, Mrs. Roy Matthews and Mrs. Walter Hutchinson.

The week preceding the P. T. A. basket social, January 24-30, will be designated as parents' week during which time parents, related friends and friends will visit the school at least one day at which time they will go through the classes in which their children are enrolled so they may know just what is taught and how the school operates. Parents may even take the examinations given their children, according to faculty members, although they hasten to explain that exemptions will be granted upon request. Much fun and a better knowledge of school conditions is hoped to be the result.

FORMER GLENDALE DRUGGIST DIES AT SACRAMENTO

(News-Review Douglas County Special)
GLENDALE, Jan. 18.—Frank Marshall, son of Mrs. Gilbert Olson of this city and well known here, died at Sacramento, Cal., Wednesday, January 15. The funeral services and burial will take place there today.

He is survived by a widow, a daughter, Frances June, his mother, Mrs. Gilbert Olson of Glendale, and three sisters, Mrs. Anna W. Simpson of Phoenix, Ariz., Mrs. Harry Cool of Train and Miss Beattie Marshall of Portland.

Mr. Marshall was 37 years, 7 months old at the time of his death as he was born June 14, 1892. His childhood and early manhood were spent in Glendale where he attended the local schools. One of his first jobs was a mere lad was that of helper and errand boy at the Glendale State bank shortly after its founding. Afterwards he was employed by H. L. Darby as a clerk, cottage and assistant in the Glendale pharmacy.

Through Mr. Darby's efforts and encouragement young Marshall became interested in drugs and later qualified as a registered druggist. After leaving Glendale he was employed as a druggist at Portland, Cottage Grove and for four years was at Klamath Falls. He returned to Glendale in 1925 where he opened the Marshall Drug company. Selling his interests in this concern in the early part of 1927 he moved to Sacramento, where he was employed by a large drug company.

He married Miss Frances Ferbrache in 1915.

Mr. Marshall was a member of Azalea lodge No. 119 A. F. & A. M., of Glendale, which lodge he joined shortly after he became 21.

1930 ALL AMERICAN NEW EIGHT

Oakland presents a new eight-cylinder powered All-American this year, the sport coupe model being shown here, together with the attractive instrument board. The new "Eight" is of new design, more than forty per cent more powerful than the 1929 Oakland, and with extremely quick pickup and hill-climbing ability. The rear window raises and lowers, providing means of communication between the auxiliary and front seat passengers.

Recent rumors of new developments in the Oakland-Pontiac line for 1930 find ample basis in the first display here of the latest products of the Oakland Motor Car company.

Retaining its established position in the six-cylinder field with the New Series Pontiac Big Six, which presents many mechanical refinements the company has now entered the eight-cylinder field with its moderate priced high powered type Oakland that offers new peaks of power, speed and acceleration. The new Oakland is the only motor car in its price field powered with a "V" engine.

Developed and proven during three years of intensive experiment and research the sturdy and compact new Oakland engine employs many new but thoroughly sound and proven principles of design which enable it to establish remarkable standards of performance.

Interesting features of the new car include:

A "V" type eight-cylinder engine developing 85 horsepower at 3000 revolutions per minute, entirely without torsional vibration.

Piston displacement is 251 cubic inches.

Complete downdraft carburetor; new type high-compression two-plane cylinder head; horizontal valve action with single rocker arm.

Power increases over 1929 Oakland from 68 to 85 brake horsepower, or approximately 40 per cent.

Length of engine only 25 9/16 inches, permitting the retention of the 117-inch wheelbase but with two inches added room in bodies.

Ratio of one horsepower to each 37 pounds of car weight—the speed of the car's high speed, quick acceleration and flexibility.

Bore is 3 7/16 and stroke 3 3/8 inches. The short stroke greatly reduces the development of inertia forces by reciprocating parts inside the engine. The "V" design also permits the use of ample cooling passages around the widely spaced cylinders and valves.

Both blocks of cylinders, together with the crankcase are formed in a single, solid, compact, heavily ribbed casting, affording a rigid foundation for the big crankcase bearings.

Full adjustable pressure lubrication is provided to all vital parts of the engine.

Engine mounting is of unique design, eliminating vibration, yet providing a solid foundation.

The cooling system is of new design providing "re-circulation" of the cooling water when the thermostat valve is closed, entirely eliminating steam "pockets" and giving highly efficient cooling at all air temperatures.

The cross-flow type of radiator, proven during the past two years in actual service, is continued both in the new Oakland Eight and the new Pontiac Big Six.

Improved oil circulation system, crankcase ventilation, compensating plug in piston pin to take up expansion and contraction at varying temperatures and valve spring dampener are interesting features of the two lines.

Greater flexibility of front springs, combined with Lovejoy solid link shocks improve riding and driving ease, while the brakes of both cars are easier to operate and more effective.

Cars equipped with semi-automatic Delco-Remy starter. When forcing down on starter pedal the starter gear engages with the flywheel before switch contact is made.

Roller bearings combined with a worm and full roller type steering gear is used on both cars, making steering easier than formerly, a feature especially desirable for women drivers.

Spring covers, Lovejoy shocks and bumpers are factory equip-

An improvement, new to Pontiac, but adopted in the 1929 Oakland, is the ribbed construction of crankcase, reducing vibration and eliminating rattle.

Body types for Pontiac are as follows: Phaeton, roadster, coupe, sport coupe, two-door sedan, four-door sedan and sport custom sedan.

Oakland body types are: Phaeton, roadster, coupe, sport coupe with rumble seat, two-door sedan, brougham, four-door sedan and custom sedan.

Shipments from the big factories at Pontiac, Michigan, were started shortly after December 15th and dealers throughout the country are expected to have all models on hand within the next few days, while at least one or more body types of each line already have been received by the dealers.

Wider choice in color schemes is offered in both Oakland and Pontiac than ever before, and frequent changes are to be made in the custom and sport models to provide for the most exacting choice of purchasers.

Fifty per cent more varieties will thrive here than at the Arnold Arboretum. A great many of the aesthetic plants will be at home here where the north and south meet. Such an Arboretum would not only be a library of trees and plants, but a botanical garden as this would not only be one of the show places of the entire coast but would be of inestimable scientific value. It would make the Umpqua valley famous and it would immortalize the name of the man who built it.

I do not altogether expect this heavenly millennium to appear tomorrow morning but if he does there are some intriguing facts for his consideration. The greatest collection of living trees and plants in this country today is the Arnold Arboretum at Boston, famous as the world over. Congress is now establishing another at Washington, D. C., where fifty per cent more varieties will thrive because of the milder climate. Both of these are in the east. Consider that here in the Umpqua valley the trees of the north and the trees of the south both grow to a large extent. The zones overlap.

On a certain memorable occasion Daniel Webster, in an especially mellow and magnanimous state—this was before the days of prohibition—announced to his astonished hearers that he would pay the national debt himself. Without the stimulant that inspired the mighty Daniel Webster I cannot volunteer to establish this Oregon Arboretum, but some day someone will. Wanted: A millionaire with vision.

ROSEBURG TRAFFIC EASIER; HIGHWAY NORTH STILL BAD

Traffic conditions in Roseburg improved somewhat today. The streets became more passable about noon when, under the influence of higher temperature and sunshine, the ice began melting. The sidewalks were also easier for pedestrians to negotiate.

The lowest temperature last night was 25 degrees, the thermometer rising above the freezing point this morning.

North of Roseburg conditions were not so favorable. From Oakland north a silver thaw was in progress yesterday and today. The pavements were ice covered, wires were broken by their sheetings of ice, and even telephone poles and trees were broken down under the weight.

Traffic over Rice Hill was almost impossible as the grade was covered with ice which prevented traction. Several buses were stalled this morning, and it was necessary to send a car out from Roseburg and transfer the passengers. One bus was off the road near Yoncalla.

Probably snow and continued cold is forecast for tonight and Sunday.

GARDENS--and Other Things

By CHARLES A. BRAND
Has anyone heard the loud shout "It's the ultimate" from Grants Pass during the last few days? The well known slogan has turned up missing.

But cheer up! The seed catalogs are beginning to come and many of them are mines of information. Newspaper jokes at the expense of the seed companies for their exaggeration of size and color of flowers in their catalogs have had their effect and most of the catalogs are conservative and accurate in their statements and in their pictures too.

One of the most complete and beautiful of the water lily catalogs is that of the Johnson Water Garden at Hydes, California. It is a treatise on pool construction, planting and management. There are between twenty and thirty growers of water lilies in Roseburg who would enjoy this catalog.

It pays to have several seed and nursery catalogs and compare them. There is too wide a range of prices for the same item. For instance, one finds the Beauty Bush (Kolkwitzia Amabilis) 5 inches high, pot grown, priced at $2.50 by an eastern concern. The same thing 12 to 15 inches high, is priced by another reliable nursery at 75 cents.

Most of the large eastern cities are having their spring flower shows in March and April. Of course that means that they will be greenhouse-grown flowers entered by professional florists and not to any extent Garden Club enterprises which come later.

There are, though, some privately owned greenhouses. J. Pierpont Morgan has just won a blue ribbon on his violets entered at the show of the Nassau County (New York) Horticultural Society. This item is typical of some seeds in all the papers about the interest men of affairs are taking in gardening. I hope Mr. Morgan wasn't disappointed that he got a blue ribbon instead of a cash prize.

Speaking of millionaires. Did you ever think what a glorious thing it would be to be a millionaire with nothing to prevent you from having whatever kind of a hobby you pleased—with a mind that was young enough still to believe its ideals possible of realization, and old enough to know what was really worth while in life, and original enough to see that some of the most unpractical things, from the point of view of the unimaginative, wooden-headed money-makers, are the most worthwhile?

Here is a suggestion for such a refreshing and unpractical youth. If one should descend like an angel from heaven in our midst: Let the hobby be the establishment in the Umpqua valley of a great Oregon Arboretum, a tract of valley and hill land having all of our 37 varieties of soil, in which should grow specimens of every native tree and shrub and flower of Ore-
