

FONTAINE-RISKO BATTLE IS DRAW; NEISHEM LOSES

(Associated Press Local Wire)
PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 22.—A fine display of sportsmanship and Del Fontaine, Winnipeg, light heavyweight, a victory over Charles Risko, Tacoma, here last night, when the Canadian fighter refused to claim a foul after Risko landed a sharp uppercut to his jaw while the latter was on his knees in the third round. Referee Lou Louttit put the decision up to Fontaine who said "no." The final decision was a draw.

One Neishem, Marshfield, after putting up a strong, game battle against Duke Heron, in the semi-final, fell a tenth-round technical knockout victim to the tough Puget Sound southpaw. It was a fight from start to finish, and Neishem was not without his share of punishment when the referee called a halt.

Pete Cerkan, Tacoma, knocked out Luke Graham, Vancouver, Wash., in the first round and Al Straub finished Fred Jenkins in the third of the preliminaries.

TWIN FALLS, Ida., Jan. 22.—Ed. Shepherd, Salt Lake City, won a ten-round decision over Nails Gorman, La Grande, here last night.

Rocky Moore, Spokane, won the six-round semi-final over Buster Branson, Butte, Mont.

the river at Mt. Carmel was reported afloat.

Thirty families were marooned at Decker, Ind., without supplies. The weather bureau at Chicago reported an unusual high pressure area extending across the entire country, with a barometric reading of below 30 inches at 7 a. m. today.

Wave Widespread
Chicago, Iowa, was the coldest spot on the map at 30 below. Sub-zero cold held sway from Indiana to Arkansas, Texas and the Rockies. Trains and motorists were marooned in the drifts heaped by the recent blizzard.

Around Temple, Texas, towns were threatened for a time with a gas shortage by the breaking of a huge main. It was later repaired. The mercury was falling in the midwest in Nebraska today, and Chicago and its suburbs reported temperatures around 10 below. Four persons were frozen to death in the Chicago area.

The weather bureau reported below normal temperatures throughout the country, except most of the Atlantic slope and portions of California. In Dixie the unwelcome cold was moving from Mississippi and Tennessee toward Alabama, Georgia, Virginia and the Carolinas. Meanwhile, up on the sea, the Alaskan coast, the mercury ranged from 36 to 40 above zero. In the Yukon, however, it was 25 below.

Alaska in Comfort
POINT BARROW, Jan. 22.—While murky sunlight bathed the most northern tip of Alaska here at noon yesterday for the first time in 60 days, Eskimos were groped around a government teacher's radio, mystified by reports that in the mid-western states were suffering from sub-zero weather.

The natives, with the true American spirit of home town boosterism, suggested that the sufferers come to Point Barrow, where the thermometer registered 30 degrees above zero.

Oregon Assured Relief
PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 22.—A break in the non-stop winter weather which enveloped Oregon the past three weeks was indicated today by reports from cities in the state.

Although temperature remained below the freezing point in practically all cities including Portland, a changing wind and increasing cloudiness bespoke slightly warmer weather.

The minimum at Baker today was 18 below, but the weather was clear and light breezes from the west were blowing. There was no more snow.

Warmer weather was felt at Grants Pass with the skies slightly overcast.

The minimum temperature at The Dalles during the past 24 hours was 23, two less than the night before, and the maximum 5 below. Barometers were falling and the wind had shifted to the west indicating moderation.

County road authorities there said all highways were clear, but a sudden Chinook wind, melting the 20-inch snow blanket, would cause much highway damage.

In Portland the mercury slipped to 15 above and was expected to reach 18 tomorrow. A new fall of snow was predicted by weather observers as a part of the change expected to break the cold snap.

In Sub-Zero Area
Pendleton reported "just another night of 26 below with no relief noted." The report indicated no relief was in sight.

Eastern Oregon continued in the grip of sub-zero weather today, according to reports from La Grande, although the temperature was not so intense.

La Grande weather moderated 14 degrees to a minimum of six below. It was clear early in the day. Meacham reported 30 below; Huntington, 10 below; North Powder, 37 below and Pleasant Valley, 15 below.

of industrial alcohol used. The secretary said if members of congress had any reason for obtaining the information it would be given to them.

Protection Denied.
Schaefer then asked if it were not a fact that when prohibition agents became involved in a case reports on the incident were sent to the bureau for "covering up."

"I know nothing of anything like that," Mellon said. "If such a condition exists it has never been brought to my attention."

Schaefer said he believed such a condition did exist among officers in the state of Washington and that he was going to move that the committee ask the prohibition commissioners for a report.

"I understand the situation in Washington is serious," Schaefer declared.

Doran then took the stand and recommended the transfer. He said he thought enforcement could be made more effective by the justice department as it would make detection and prosecution more efficient.

During the session Schaefer urged amendment of the Williamson bill to require a report to congress on any violation by prohibition agents of search and seizure laws.

Later, Doran in discussing Schaefer's remarks about agents getting into difficulties, said he treasury never had failed to "discipline officers guilty of derelictions."

Representative Swing, republican, California, asked why, if the personnel of the prohibition bureau is transferred, the regulations under the existing bureau should not be transferred.

Doran said the same regulations would not be applicable to another department.

Mellon had said earlier all permits for medicinal liquors and industrial alcohol would be issued under the joint regulations drawn up by the attorney general and the secretary of the treasury.

Referring to Representative Goodwin, republican, Minnesota, Doran said he was not aware of any lack of cooperation between the treasury and justice departments.

Schaefer then asked if there was not friction between the bureau and the justice department over liquor situation in the state of Washington.

"I want to make it plain," Doran said, "that I am not conscious of any difficulty between the bureau and the justice department."

OLD GLORY GRACES CONFEDERATE VET

(Associated Press Local Wire)

REDDING, Calif., Jan. 22.—With the stars and stripes draped in his casket and a veteran of the union army marching by his side, Shasta county's last veteran of the confederate army was carried to his grave here.

"Thomas" Monroe Pemberton was one of my closest friends and we buried the hatchet long ago," E. B. Hall, one of the county's seven remaining Grand Army of the Republic veterans, said in requesting that the United States flag cover the casket and that he be allowed to act as honorary pallbearer. Pemberton's relatives readily agreed.

NEW FEATURES IN OAKLAND-PONTIAC

The 1930 Models Are Now Being Displayed by Local Distributors.

Recent rumors of new developments in the Oakland-Pontiac line for 1930 find ample basis in the first display in Roseburg of the latest products of the Oakland Motor Car Company.

Retaining its established position in the six-cylinder field with the New Sedan Pontiac Big Six, which presents many mechanical refinements, the company has now entered the eight-cylinder field with its moderate-priced high-powered type Oakland that offers new peaks of power, speed and acceleration.

The new Oakland is the only motor car in its price field powered with a "V" engine.

Developed and proven during three years of intensive experiment and research the sturdy and compact new Oakland engine employs many new but thoroughly sound and proven principles of design which enable it to establish remarkable standards of performance.

Interesting features of the new car include:

A "V" type eight cylinder engine developing 85 horsepower at 3600 revolutions per minute, entirely without torsional vibration.

Piston displacement is 251 cubic inches.

Complete downdraft carburetor; new type high-compression two-plane cylinder head; horizontal valve action with single rocker arm.

Power increase over 1929 Oakland from 68 to 85 brake horsepower, or approximately 40 percent.

Length of engine only 25 9/16 inches, permitting the retention of the 117-inch wheelbase but with two inches added room in hood.

Ratio of one-horsepower to each 37 pounds of car weight—the secret of the car's high speed, quick acceleration and flexibility.

Bore is 3 7/16 and stroke 3 3/4 inches. The short stroke greatly reduces the development of inertia forces by reciprocating parts inside the engine. The design also permits the use of angle cooling passages around the wide-spaced cylinders and valves.

Both blocks of cylinders, together with the crankcase are formed in a single, solid, compact, heavily ribbed casting, affording a rigid foundation for the big crankcase bearings.

Full adjustable pressure lubrication is provided to all vital parts of the engine.

Engine mounting is of unique design, eliminating vibration, yet providing a solid foundation.

The cooling system is of new design providing "re-circulation" of the cooling water when the thermostat valve is closed, thereby eliminating steam "pockets" and giving highly efficient cooling at all air temperatures.

The cross-flow type of radiator, proven during the past two years in actual service, is continued both in the new Oakland Eight and the new Pontiac Big Six.

Improved oil circulation system, crankcase ventilation, compensating plus in piston pin to take up expansion and contraction at varying temperatures and valve spring dampers are interesting features of the two lines.

Greater flexibility of front springs, combined with Loveloy solid link shocks improve riding and driving ease, while the brakes of both cars are easier to operate and more effective.

Cars equipped with semi-automatic Delco-Remy starter. When forcing down on starter pedal the starter gear engages with the fly wheel before switch contact is made.

Roller bearings combined with a worm and full sector type steering gear is used on both cars, making steering much easier than formerly, a feature especially desirable for women drivers.

The amusing play was well presented and greatly enjoyed.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 22.—A warrant for the arrest of Robert Grant, 45, address unknown, was issued today by the district attorney's office after 12 men reported to police they had been defrauded of wages, commissions and bonds by Grant who hired them through a newspaper advertisement to sell business for the "Thrifty Cleaners."

Police were told Grant interviewed more than 30 men at a downtown hotel and employed them after he received bonds from them ranging from $10 to $25. T. A. TROXEL BEING TRIED ON CHARGE OF DRUNK DRIVING

The trial of T. A. Troxel, accused of driving a car while under the influence of liquor, was held in the justice court today before a jury composed of Madge Dixon, Christina Miceli, Bessie Lawson, Ethel Catching, L. R. Mynatt and Harris Ellsworth.

The state's chief witness was Solomon Maus, junk dealer, who testified that he was traveling north near Wilbur about two months ago when his truck was hit by a car driven by Troxel. The truck, which Maus said was being driven on the extreme right side of the road, was turned over in the ditch. He testified that a bottle of liquor was found in Troxel's car and that the defendant was evidently intoxicated.

Chester Wood, student at Oregon State college, testified that he was following behind Troxel's car at the time of the accident, and that the machine was being driven in an erratic manner and was on the left side of the road at the time the collision happened. He testified that there was a noticeable odor of liquor.

The state was represented in the trial by District Attorney Guy Gordon, while Attorney Elbert Hermann appeared for Troxel.

The examination of the jury and the state's witnesses took the entire morning. The defense in expected to claim that Troxel was not intoxicated, and that his condition following the accident was due to injury and shock.

responsible for the excellent system worked out in Douglas county, was appointed by the extension service as chairman of a committee of five members to work out a program suitable for state-wide use.

This committee worked out a program covering a large number of activities, all of a general nature, and then recommended that there be an agricultural committee appointed in each subordinate grange, that a county agricultural council be formed, and that a meeting be held in each county to adopt such special projects as might be particularly important in that county.

The meeting held yesterday was the first of these county meetings to be held in Oregon.

Fred Goff, as chairman of the state committee, presided, and one of the first actions of the meeting was to approve the state program as outlined by the extension service.

The program was then carefully considered and the five major projects for the county as a whole were adopted. Each committee will work in its own locality for the success of these projects, and will endeavor to accomplish some important achievement in each.

Special activities will also be undertaken for each community of a nature particularly important for the locality.

It is believed that this plan will result in very important benefits for the agricultural industry during the year.
