MARATHON VICTOR OF 22 YEARS PAST TALKS OF RUNNERS

Johnny Hayes Credits His Ability to Father, Who Was Sprinter and Step-Dancer.

By TED VOSBURGH
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—A cheerful little man with lean features and bright gray eyes hunched over a desk in his office on 42nd street and scrawled down an order for canned fruit.

About him there was nothing to indicate that he was the hero of the most dramatic event in all Olympic history but hanging above the desk was a faded photograph of a great stadium in London where, 22 years ago this summer, a pint-sized New York department store clerk by the name of Johnny Hayes won the classic Marathon as the Italian, Dorando, fainted, fell and was helped across the line.

The years have dealt kindly with Johnny Hayes and filled him with a fine philosophy. Out of the obscurity of a department store counter he came to gain athletic immortality on that burning hot day in 1908 and to comparative obscurity he has returned with no regrets. Pounding the pavements of London on the way to fame has not spoiled Johnny for the routine business of pounding the pavements of New York in quest of orders for canned goods.

Disproves Theory

"I like it," he announced. "I went into business instead of taking up coaching because I wanted to prove it isn't so that a good athlete does not make a good business man, as some people think."

"I don't have time to do very much running any more but I have kept in good condition in the 22 years I have put on just 22 pounds. I still can step and occasionally I run to and from the ferry boat on which I commute to my home in Woodcliff, N. J.

"The other day a doctor was looking me over—not that I needed it but I guess because he wanted to see what made me go.

"He told me I had a six-footer's heart and it only has to work half the time because in a little fellow like me it does not have so far to pump the blood.

"That, he told me, is the reason I was able to run so far and so fast. When I won the London Olympic race at 22, I weighed 118 pounds and my height, of course, was the same as now, 5 feet, 3½ inches.

Father Handy With Feet

"I am a great believer in heredity, too. I think I owe much of my athletic ability to my father, who came over to this country from Ireland when he was a young fellow. As a boy in the old country, he and his mates made a sport of coursing hares with greyhounds, following them on foot. He also was a clever step-dancer, like many of the Irish, and dancing builds up the muscles that help most in running.

"But from all this some people get the idea that marathon racing is all physical. It isn't. It's a great mental test too, this job of spreading your strength and speed evenly over a distance of more than 26 miles.

"As it is, I think most marathon runners are 'out on their feet' from about the 14th to the 21st mile. Then, with the cool of evening, your powers return and you can go jogging along with new energy if you have gauged your pace right.

"Far from hurting me, I think the effort of marathon races built up a reserve of stamina for me to draw upon in these quieter days when my athletic activity consists of stepping around to sell canned foods. Life is largely business now but I like to keep that picture there."

CERTIFICATE OF NECESSITY ASKED FOR RAIL PROJECT

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

ALBANY, Ore., Jan. 22.—A request that a certificate of public necessity be issued immediately by the interstate commerce commission to permit construction of the Oregon Electric railway extension to Cascadia from Lebanon was made today by Frank J. Miller, chairman of the public service commission to Clyde B. Aitchison of the interstate commerce commerce commission.

Since the Southern Pacific and the Oregon Electric have signed a common-user agreement involving the Lebanon-Albany railway, owned by the Southern Pacific, the certificate is the only step now necessary before construction work can start.

W. F. Turner, president of the Oregon Electric, according to Miller, stands ready to make the final survey as soon as the interstate commerce commission acts.

DRY LAW BREAKERS HAVE SLIM CHANCE TO DODGE PENALTY

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 22.—Scofflaws in Oregon have one chance out of twenty to escape punishment if arrested by federal prohibition officers, it was indicated in the annual report submitted by W. K. Newell, deputy prohibition administrator in charge of the Oregon district.

Federal agents participated in 765 arrests during 1929. Of these 607 cases have been closed. A total of 573 convictions were obtained while 19 were dismissed and 17 acquitted. Some of the cases were tried in state courts and others in federal court, since federal officers often work in conjunction with state officers.

Total fines imposed for liquor violations were $109,715. Jail sentences imposed amounted to 36,478 days, or about 100 years. Terms ranged from six days in the county jail to two years at McNeil Island.

Newell said that in a large number of cases defendants admitted previous criminal records. Books show these charges ranged widely.

UNION-WALLOWA COUNTY VARMINT SLAYING HEAVY

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

LA GRANDE, Ore., Jan. 23.—Predatory animals in the amount of 368 were killed in Union and Wallowa counties during 1929 by three government hunters, Albert Kinnison of Union county and R. Sarrett and W. A. Sutherland of Wallowa county. Eleven were bears and 24 bob-cats. Sarrett, a veteran hunter, killed his 1,379th predatory animal last year.

Persistency of two bear dogs belonging to A. Leahman of Hilgard led to the death of two large cougars, bold enough to cross the Old Oregon Trail in full view of a passerby.

The startled man reported the occurrence when he reached Hilgard and two dogs were put on the cougars' trail. After two days and three nights the dogs failed to return and their owner feared they had died from poison set out for coyotes. A search, however, revealed the two dogs barking beneath trees where the cougars had been forced to take refuge. One of the big cats measured nine feet from tip to tip.

TAMPICO STORM CLAIMS 22 LIVES

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

TAMPICO, Jan. 23.—Twenty-two fishermen are believed to have perished in sinking of two fishing vessels off Tampico harbor during a storm.

Rescue boats did not find any sign of survivors after the schooner Jose Luis went down. There were thirteen aboard. The Conde Sigfredo also foundered, and only one of its crew of ten was saved.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 23.—More than eleven hundred tourists from Buenos Aires were safe today aboard the Argentine war transport Vincente Fidel Lopez off the bleak shores of Tierra Del Fuego (land of fire) after the grounding of their ship, the Monte Cervantes, earlier on a rock in the straits of Magellan.

The Monte Cervantes, which has a German tramp designation and is owned by the Hamburg-South America line, went ashore on the island side of the channel through which Magellan sailed on the first circumnavigation of the globe.

There were no casualties.

POOR FOOD BLAMED FOR PRISON RIOTS

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Poor food was given as the immediate cause of the Leavenworth federal prisonriot to the house subcommittee on appropriations which drafted the department of justice supply bill by Sanford Bates, superintendent of prisons.

"They serve 9,000 meals a day from one kitchen," Bates told the committee. "They have a minimum of 1,000 at a time coming into the dining room and you are bound to find that there is poor preparation and poor food."

As a remedial step, he continued, the department sent out a representative of the bureau of economics to study the situation, and a supervising steward has been set up.

The steward, Bates said, "can be in touch with the diet list and keep the standards up where they ought to be." His duties, he added, are to suggest the proper dietaries, a proper health measure, as part of the prison discipline."

DR. STIVERS TO HAVE OFFICES IN PORTLAND

EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 22.—Dr. E. V. Stivers, regional director of the pension bureau at the Christian church of the Pacific northwest, will soon move his headquarters to Portland to an announced yesterday. He has just returned from Indianapolis, Ind., headquarters of the pension system. He resigned some months ago his 12-year pastorate here to take the job.

An assistant to Dr. Stivers in his work in the northwest district will soon be appointed, although it is not known yet who will have this position, he said.

SPEIGHT ARRAIGNMENT SET FOR NEXT SATURDAY

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 22.—Edward "Scotty" Speight, Salem butcher, will be arraigned in the circuit court here Saturday on a charge of manslaughter. Speight was indicted in connection with the death of Lawrence Walker, 2, of Mount Angel, who was killed when a car in which he was riding with Speight turned over near Brooks. Speight was arrested recently at Somerlin.

It Is Folly To Stay Fat

The proof is everywhere. In every circle you can see that excess fat is disappearing fast. Modern science has found a major cause of excess fat in a weakened gland. In late years, physicians the world over have been fighting that cause. They do not rely on starvation.

This modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Each box contains the formula, as prepared by famous experts. People have used these tablets for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now nearly all have friends who show the results in new beauty, health and vigor.

Go try Marmola. Test the right way to reduce. The results will amaze and delight you. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box.

"NATURE NEVER HINTS in vain"
[John Greenleaf Whittier, 1807-1892]

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

The bewitching charm of soft, flattering curves . . . the lure of a graceful, modern figure . . . don't spoil it by permitting your eyes to be bigger than your stomach. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. Over-indulgence is not commended—when tempted to over-indulge, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that modern, enchantingly-rounded figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.
