LIBERTY—Today and Saturday, Harold Lloyd's first all-talking comedy, "Welcome Danger."

Liberty—Lloyd Show Big Hit; Sound Unit Is Good.

GALES of laughter from an almost hysterical crowd ushered in the first talking picture to be shown at the Liberty theatre last night. Harold Lloyd's production "Welcome Danger" was presented by the management and was another of those sure-fire pictures of thrill material and laugh provoking "gags."

The talking equipment, which was moved to the Liberty from the Antlers theatre gives far better reproduction in its new location. The smaller auditorium, with lower ceilings, gives ample volume and permits operation of the talking devices with less amplification, thereby reducing distortion and giving clarity of tone.

The picture, "Welcome Danger," is one of the greatest examples of why Harold Lloyd is one of the most popular active screen comedians today.

The theme, of course, is an entirely new one, as has been the case with all Lloyd plots.

Harold is discovered as a serious-minded young Boston botanist immersed in his books on horticulture. But fate has ruled that he must be plunged into swifter, more exciting currents of activity.

Friends of his deceased father, once the captain of the San Francisco police force, decide to invite Harold to take over the job of cleaning up gangsters and long men in the city's underground Chinatown. They presume that Harold will display the same courageous and iron-fisted power in office that his father had shown.

The innocent Harold goes to "Prisco." By a lucky break he scores a victory over a group of underworld denizens the first day he is in the city. He applies botanical methods to the art of fingerprinting, and gets a clue to the ring-leader of the lawless element.

Then come the big thrills—he goes into a dark and mysterious underground Oriental den to rescue a lady Chinese doctor who had effected a miraculous cure of the little brother of Harold's sweet heart, Barbara Kent. It is one continuous thrill interjected with rapid-fire laughs and gags from that point to the finish. Of course Harold makes good, but it is the "how" of it that makes this picture a classic of the fun-maker's art.

Miss Kent, as the leading lady, is very easy on the eyes. Excellent support is furnished by Noah Young, Charles Middleton and William Walling.
